TIME OPPORTUNE FOR NEW POLICY OF IMMIGRATION

Rhodes and Beatty Convinced Country Needs High Class Britishers.

ADVANTAGE FOR PIONEERS

No Question of Assisted Passage or Outlay of Public Money Discussed.

QUEBEC, Aug. 4 (C.P.)—Growing interest in possibilities for old country families on Canadian farms and indications of an increased movement to this country of British settlers in the near future were witnessed by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, and E. W. Beatty, Canadian Pacific Railway president, in their stay in England.

Informal discussions on the subject had taken place during the World Economic Conference, Mr. Rhodes stated as he disembarked from the Empress of Britain. The question of assisted passage or any policy involving the expenditure of public money, he added, had not entered the discussions. Canadian officials had taken the stand that Canada offered the same advantages and opportunities afforded the pioneers who settled the country, said the minister.

High Class Britishers

Concurring in the remarks of the minister, Mr. Beatty remarked that he believed that this country needed high-class Britishsettlers. Negotiations now proceeding, the C.P.R. head was confident, would bring about an increase in the number of people coming from the British Isles. No cost to the government would be involved in these people going on the lands in this country.

The time was opportune, said Mr. Beatty, for Canada to enter upon a "definite moderate policy of immigration, particularly from Great Britain."

Continuing, Mr. Beatty said that: "The paucity of our population is still a drawback in view of the external and internal obligations of Canada. I do not think this country has anything to fear from a deliberate but, of course, not extreme policy of admission of those of our own race in particular." Results in a year or two from plans for inter-empire emigration which were now being worked out in the United Kingdom might be expected, he stated.

ELECTION FRAUD COSTS ONE LIFE

BALLOT BOXES STUFFED.

HARLAN, Ky., Aug. 4.—National guardsmen patrolled the streets here last night in an effort to prevent recurrence of violence that broke out yesterday in a dispute over pre-election fraud charges.

William Roark was killed in a gun battle that occurred at Black Mountain, 12 miles from here, late yesterday when ballot boxes to be used in an election Saturday allegedly were found already "stuffed."

Arthur Roark, brother of the slain man, Bill Parton and Sacker Farley, all injured in the Black Mountain clash, were held in jail here without any definite charges being placed against them.

The trouble occurred when Theodore Middleton, candidate for county sheriff; his brother, Clarence Middleton, and Henry Ball, the latter two deputy sheriffs, went to Farley's home, which had been designated as a polling place for the election to be held Saturday. The Roark brothers were election officers.

Middleton charged that he and his companions crashed in a locked door and found that 432 ballots already had been "voted" and "stuffed" into one of the boxes.

SERUM EFFECTS PNEUMONIA CURE

Second Case Successful.

(By P. C. Pugh.)

LONDON, August 4 (C.P.). — Two cures of influenzal pneumonia by serum similar to that for immunizing ferrets against "flu" were claimed to-day by Dr. Ronald Hare, a London investigator.

In telling how he treated two women, one of whom was dying, Dr. Hare said "both cases reacted in a very dramatic fashion," and recovered.

The serum was prepared from humans convalescing from influenza. Recent announcements that ferrets, small, weasel-like animals, could be infected with the "flu" virus were considered highly important because of the possibility that the germ could be isolated and an antidote be found for humans.

Dr. Hare reported in The Lancet, British medical journal, that his first case, a woman of 27, was in a grave condition.

After two injections of serum four hours apart, he said, she began to improve and slept very well at night. A third injection was made the following day, and, despite a tendency to have temperatures of 100 degrees, the patient continued to improve. Thereafter her recovery was steady.

In the second case also, Dr. Hare said, there was an uninterrupted recovery, and a difficulty in breathing and a pain in the chest disappeared within four hours after an injection.

The reaction in both instances was similar, the investigator continued. The temperature began to fall and became normal within 12 hours. Pulse rates fell coincidentally.

Most remarkable, he said, was an improvement in the general condition of the patients, enabling both to sleep the entire night after the initial injection.

Dr. Hare added that further cases were unavailable, so additional experiments and investigation are desirable.

Nineteen Years Ago To-Day Britain Entered Great War Against Germany

OTTAWA, August 4. — Nineteen years ago to-day the Government of Great Britain despatched an ultimatum to Germany demanding that in the hostilities which had been opened between France and Germany the latter country give an understanding to observe the neutrality of Belgium. Germany was given until 12 o'clock midnight, August 4, to reply. No answer was given, and when the allotted period had expired, a state of war existed between Great Britain and Germany.

In human life, the war cost the British Empire 1,104,890 men and women. Of these a total of 517,771 have no known graves, while 587,115 are buried in 15,705 cemeteries scattered throughout 108 countries, islands and protectorates of the world. These figures are furnished in the 13th annual report of the Imperial War Graves Commission, just published.

The British Empire enlisted 9,296,691 men (and women) in the Navy, the Army, the Air Force, and subsidiary combatant and administrative services from August, 1914, to November, 1918.

Canada's total enlistments in the Canadian Expeditionary Forces were 619,636, or 35.2 per cent. of the male population between the ages of 18 to 45. Of these, 51,748 were killed in action; 6767 died from disease, and there were 1,006 other deaths. Nearly 170,000 Canadians were wounded.

Those who served outside of Canada numbered 424,589 men.

BALBO TO TAKE AZORES ROUTE

Will Delay Till After August 10 Owing to Weather Over Atlantic.

IRISH PLANS SPOILED.

ROME Aug. 4 (A.P.)—General Italo Balbo Commander of a squadron of 24 Italian seaplanes, sent a message from Shoal Harbor, Nfld., to-day, saying he had decided to change the return route and go by way of the Azores and Lisbon some time after August 10.

This change from the original intention of flying from Shoal Harbor to Valentia Island, Irish Free State, was due to a continuance of bad weather over the North Atlantic, particularly near Valentia, he said.

Meteorological stations were ordered to prepare a route via the Azores.

Officers Head for Home

VALENTIA ISLAND, Irish Free State, Aug. 4 (C.P.)—Italian officers who have been awaiting the arrival here of General Italo Balbo's squadron of 24 Italian seaplanes from Shoal Harbor, Nfld. ,left Valentia to-day after it was definitely announced the armada would return to Italy via the Azores. Fog hung over the harbor here. This information was sent the Commander at Shoal Harbor. Also playing a part in the decision to take the southern route, it is believed here, is the fact that evenings are becoming shorter.

It had previously been announced that if the seaplanes could not leave Shoal Harbor before August 10, a flight by way of the Azores would definitely be decided upon, even though extensive preparations have been made here for receiving the fleet.

The decision to change the route, therefore, was a surprise, since Italian officers have gone to great expense in preparing a landing.

Free State troops here to greet the armada had orders to leave for Dublin to-day and room reservations for a band were released.

GENERAL STRIKE SEEN LOOMING FOR ALL CUBA

Whole of Nation's Transportation Services Likely to be Affected.

NO GASOLINE SOLD.

Newspaper Reporters Expected to Quit Due to New Censorship.

HAVANA, Aug. 4 (AP) — The menace of an island-wide general strike hung heavy over Cuba last evening.

A tiny thunderhead that appeared 10 days ago—the walkout of employes of two or three small omnibus lines—had grown so swiftly that to-day all the nation's transportation arteries except railroads were blocked as far east as Florida, in Camaguey province.

Striking busmen, taxi drivers and street car men in Havana Wednesday and Thursday were joined by their fellows in Pinar Del Rio to the west, Matanzas, Santa Clara, Ciego de Avila and many smaller cities to the east.

To support the striking transportation men, almost all Havana's filling stations and garages yesterday stopped selling gasoline.

Balloting yesterday morning, the stevedores and dockworkers union voted to strike at midnight. With public conveyances lacking, horse-drawn vehicles are moving much freight from the docks.

Havana newspaper reporters will be idle 24 hours some day before next Tuesday, to protest the press law scheduled to be considered by the House of Representatives that day. Newspapers the island over have assailed the bill as an extension of the recently ended censorship.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4 (CP) Another $3,540 for Philip H. Johnson, this time for drawing plans for a hospital which won't be built.

Johnson has received approximately $1,750,000 in fees during the past 29 years as architect of the Department of Health. The city administration gave him a 30-year contract, authorized by ordinance, and it has withstood many court attacks.

The latest fee is for plans which the city pigeonholed as an economy measure.

POISON CASE IS THROWN OUT

DOPED BEER PLANTED.

KIRKLAND LAKE, Aug. 4. (CP) Mike Salahanni, 42-year-old Assyrian, proprietor of a local restaurant, was freed on a charge of "intent to murder by administering poison" after a preliminary hearing before Magistrate S. Adkinson here yesterday.

Salahanni was arrested by Chief Constable William Shane on July 26 when, according to Shane, he entered the room of Violet Tetroes, a waitress in his store, and placed two bottles of beer in a carton there. Salahanni was disguised at the time of the arrest it was said.

The beer was seized and sent to Toronto for analysis, and was found to contain 10 per cent. proof spirits and "the presence of strychnine." The statement of analysis from the Toronto laboratory was entered as evidence by the crown prosecutor subject to an objection by Defence Counsel M. G. Hunt.

L. S. Hornick, local druggist, testified that Salahanni asked him for a poison—something that would not be detected when put in a beer bottle or a soft drink. After consulting with two physicians, Hornick gave Salahanni a quantity of drugs; but not enough to prove fatal. The chief constable was notified, and waited in the girl's room where he arrested Salahanni.

The magistrate declared there was no intent to murder the girl. Crown Prosecutor Pearlman claimed that the fact the beer contained poison and that Salahanni was disguised and caught placing the beer in the girl's room was proof of intent.

Their Lives Despaired of, These Twins are Now the Picture of Health!

"I AM the proud mother of two babies (twin girls)", writes Mrs. J. C. Abbott, 7766 Bloomfield Ave., Montreal, Que. "They were seven months old on November 24th. It is really a miracle that both of them are living now. One baby, Florence, weighed 3 lbs. 13¾ ounces at birth. The doctor said there was no hope for her.

"After she had lived for a month and actually lost weight, there seemed less chance than ever of saving her. At this period I started her on Eagle Brand Milk and now she is the picture of health. Florence showed few signs of life at all for the first month—she was too weak even to cry, but since she has been on Eagle Brand, it is a different story.

"At 6 months, both Florence and Jacqueline had two teeth and they were plump and firm with strong bones. At 7 months, Florence weighed 14 lbs. 14 oz. and Jacqueline 15 lbs. 5 oz."

If you cannot nurse your baby, try Eagle Brand Milk. You will find the directions on every label. We would like to send you the new 84 page edition of "Baby's Welfare." It gives directions for feeding and children's care and has pictures and life stories of many Eagle Brand babies.

Canada Doubles Gold Output in Four Years

NEW GOLD SOURCE SOUGHT BY NATIONS OF THE WORLD

Canada Has Doubled Output in Last Four Years — "Rushes Everywhere."

WHERE DOES IT GO?

Governments of the world drained of their gold in the chaotic year of 1933! This is the financial condition to-day which has precipitated what is perhaps one of the greatest rushes and searches for gold the world over since the precious yellow metal was first adopted by man as his ultimate standard of all material values.

What has become of the world's wealth of gold which has been adequate to meet all needs imposed upon it? Well, for one thing, the hoarders have sequestered gold in such vast amounts as to make a big hole in the nation's supply of the metal. Holders of gold certificates have added to the stringency by demanding payment in gold.

The result of all this is that the country's monetary system to-day is somewhat like your own digestive system. When it is functioning perfectly you are scarcely aware of it, but just let something go wrong and the results are painful to describe.

With everybody wanting gold at the same time the demand of course far exceeded the supply. To meet this situation payments in gold were suspended and governments required all hoarding of gold cease, and the metal be returned to the treasury.

The scarcity of gold has not only precipitated in many parts of the world a wild scramble on the part of gold-diggers in a crazy race for wealth, but it has also opened up mines of forgotten gold of fabulous wealth, which are easily accessible to millions of people. These mines contain the rich deposits of the coveted yellow metal which lie hidden in thousands of homes.

This buried treasure exists in the form of old jewelry and trinkets hidden away in old bureaus, trunks and chests in attics. As this gold is brought out of hiding it is melted down and refined. It is then just as good as the gold used in minting the coins which the government is inducing the hoarders to returne to the treasury.

Gold Rushes Everywhere

The shortage of gold, coupled with wide-spread unemployment, is responsible to-day for one of the greatest gold rushes in history. Canyons, ravines, streams and even beaches in all parts of the world, have been reported by mining authorities as sources of gold, and gold-diggers by the thousands have rushed to these places.

In scores of countries of both the new and the old world, forgotten and abandoned gold mines are being reopened and worked by men who hope to unearth great wealth.

Among these are the Tauren Mountain mines in Austria, which have not been worked since the Middle Ages. From the Kremlin, the Soviet chiefs have issued orders for the intensive working of all the Russian gold fields, the production of which they have pledged to Germany in exchange for cash and credits. Even the old workings in the low-grade gold fields of Australia, long ago abandoned by the Chinese, to-day are being worked by white men who hope to find fortunes in the derelict diggings.

India, too, has a gold rush. In 12 months the amount of gold shipped to London amounted in value to 50 million pounds. The great tidal wave of gold, however, did not flow entirely from mines, but came also from the secret hoards of rajahs, capitalists, merchants and money-lenders.

Canada Doubles Output

Within four years Canada has doubled its output of gold, and now ranks as the world's second greatest producer.

Numerous expeditions of gold-hunters are getting ready to join the rush this summer into the heart of the wilds of Labrador in pursuit of the rich strikes in the field which has yielded samples of gold ore assaying as high as nearly $200 a ton. This gold was found in the North-West River and on the shores of Lake Ashuanipi, 100 miles west of Grand Falls.

One of the most romantic of recent gold strikes is reported from Kenya, a British colony in tropical East Africa, noted chiefly as being one of the world's greatest game preserves.

Two settlers trekked to the district of Kakamega, which is located in the north-east uplands above Lake Victoria, to investigate the possibilities of an abandoned coffee plantation which had been reclaimed by the jungle. As they stooped to drink from a small stream they saw a yellow eye blinking at them from the sandy bed.

It was gold, an eight-ounec nugget!

DUMPING OF RUBBISH.

Completion of the grandstand about the Bowl, where the girls' softball games are played, was decided upon last night at the meeting of the Parks Committee of the City Council. Lumber for an extension to the grandstand to accommodate more of the huge throngs who attend the girls' games has been secured from the old brewery, which was torn down. The work will be proceeded with at once.

Under the insistence of Alderman Cotton, the committee also decided to complete the installation of a drinking fountain at Inverlea Park. No action will be taken this year to purchase another boat for the lifeguard at the swimming beach.

The Finance Committee passed a motion to pay Jack Detcher 50 cents for each poll tax in arrears he collects. Also Archie Moore, city bailiff, will receive three per cent. of all the tax arrears he secures. It was stated that the Council did not intend to be too hard on those who can not pay their taxes due to financial difficulties but a determined drive will be made to secure all possible back taxes.

Although tenders for the new smoke stack at the incinerator were received by the Property Committee, it was decided not to make any decision as to the purchase until the Council meeting.

Mayor Denne and Alderman Tuggey pointed out the need of hurrying the repairs to the incinerator and the erection of the new 100-foot stack, because under present conditions the garbage is being hauled two miles out of the city, which is costing about $50 per week extra for its disposal.

During the Board of Works meeting City Engineer Parsons brought up the subject of residents on the outskirts of the city dumping grass clippings and leaves into the gutter. "This rubbish then runs down to the catch basin when it rains and causes a small flood," explained Mr. Parsons.

Alderman Hamilton, chairman, suggested that a bylaw be passed restricting such dumping of refuse in the gutters.

Alderman Tuggey said, "I'm not in favor of that. We have more bylaws now than we know what to do with."

Other members of the committee took the same view. It was decided that the City Engineer would appeal to the public-spirited citizens to refrain from such dumping of refuse.

Alderman J. A. McNabb stated D. Belleghem and Son had requested him to seek permission of the Council to lay a colored pavement in front of their store on Hunter street. Mr. Walter Belleghem, said Alderman McNabb, was willing to defray all the expense of taking up the old pavement and laying the new colored pavement, such work to be done under the City Engineer's supervision.

In granting permission for the work, the aldermen took the attitude that the job would make work.

Alderman Cotton brought out the need for a drinking fountain at Inverlea Park. He said all the apparatus in connection with the drinking fountain, pipes were laid and the stand put up, but there was no fountain.

It was decided to make certain repairs to the roadway at the corner of Park Hill Road and Aylmer street. Decision as to work required being left in the hands of the chairman.

A sand box for children to play in will be set up at King Edward Park, it was said.

Alderman McNabb, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, reported that from the first of the year the Fire Department had expended $15,200, and the department was well within its appropriation.

PRISONER FELT HE WAS TAKING BEST WAY OUT

Witnesses were examined by County Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., for the Crown.

Died of Strangulation

Dr. Herbert N. Young testified that he was called to the County Gaol by Police Sergeant W. Wigg shortly before eight o'clock that morning. In the upper gaol cell block he found a man hanging with his back to the cell door. A belt was around the [illegible] and the angle of the jaw while a towel was tied around the mouth of the deceased, the medical witness said. In his opinion death was caused by strangulation due to hanging.

Dr. J. A. Morgan, gaol surgeon, in evidence, upheld the opinion expressed by the previous witness, as to the cause of death. Evidence of identification was provided by Otto Dagleish proprietor of the Grand Hotel, and by Roy Crocker manager of the Grand Hotel.

Robert Rae, turnkey at the gaol, described how he had discovered the body of Adams hanging in his cell between seven and eight o'clock that morning. Adams was held at the gaol on remand on charges of false pretences, witness testified.

Not Heard to Complain

In reply to the Crown Attorney, Mr. Rae said, "Adams was hanging from a strap and by part of a sheet tied around his neck." The prisoner was in a good state of health when the officer had locked him in his cell the evening previous to the gruesome discovery and had not been heard to complain.

Witness vigorously protested that there was no possibility of anyone getting into the cell excepting officers of the gaol.

Colonel T. Dalton Johnston, governor, was within a few feet of the previous witness, he stated, when the discovery was made. "I found the upper crossbar of his cell door from this strap (producing a brown leather belt which had belonged to the dead man). No one had access to the cells besides Rae and myself" he said.

Asked if he had heard Adams threaten to take his own life, and also as to the condition of Adams' health, witness replied, "He no speak nothing bad you know."

Made Prisoner Afraid

Describing the turnkey's discovery of the tragedy, Koren stated, "Mr. Rae said there is a man hanging. That made me afraid."

Eric Whitney, another inmate at the gaol, gave evidence that he occupied the cell next to that in which Adams was locked. He had seen Adams locked up the night prior to the discovery of his death. Shortly after the prisoners had been locked in their cells for the night Adams had commenced to sing.

Witness stated he had heard nothing unusual through the night. He had been asleep. Nor had he ever heard Adams threaten to take his own life.

John Phillips and Frank Baker, two other occupants of the upper cell black where Adams suicided, corroborated the evidence of their fellow prisoners.

Detective William Meagher described the finding of correspondence written by the deceased. He was requested by the Coroner to read it.

O'CONNOR—O'NEILL.

MARMORA, August 4 (Examiner Correspondence). — A wedding of much local interest was solemnized at the Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, at 8 a.m. on Wednesday when Jean Lillian, only daughter of Mrs. Jane O'Neill, Marmora, became the bride of Charles Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard O'Connor of Marmora Township. Rev. Father J. J. Keeley officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Joseph O'Neill of Marmora, was gowned in pale blue printed chiffon, with matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of Killarney and Butterfly roses. The bridesmaid was her cousin, Miss Pearl McCann of Keene, who wore a dress of yellow organdie voile with white accessories. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. Crawford O'Connor, brother of the groom, discharged the duties of best man. Msis Mabel McCarthy, cousin of the bride and recently appointed organist of the church, played Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus. During the Mass, Miss Genevieve Shannon sang "O Salutaris" by Holden, and Harold Auger rendered "In This Sacrament."

The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends, the bride and groom being very popular in the village. The former has been assistant teacher at the Marmora Separate School for the past eleven years, and as its music teacher, has been responsible for the formation of a splendidly trained children's choir. She has also very ably filled the position of organist of the Sacred Heart Church for five years as well as occupying the presidency of the Sodality Girls for about 6 years. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple with their attendants left for Belleville to partake of the wedding breakfast there, and returned later in the day for a reception at the home of the bride's mother.

Following the reception they left for Northern Ontario. They will reside at Sudbury, where the bridegroom has held a position for several years. They were the recipients of many beautiful and serviceable gifts.

FIFTY YEARS OF YORKTON.

A special edition of "The Yorkton Enterprise," published as a souvenir of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of that thriving town in eastern Saskatchewan, conveys between the interesting lines of its thirty-six pages an arresting challenge to Canadians of our own day and generation.

Fifty years ago Yorkton was dimly marked on the prairie by a tent and a sod hut. To-day it is a robust town of paved streets, fine houses and substantial stores and public buildings. Where men, and women, too, struggled across the prairie with ox teams there is a system of provincial roads extending in all directions. Their personal recollections of the labor and hardships and want are related in "The Enterprise," little chapters of the common experience of so many pioneer settlers in the West. Many of them are still living in Yorkton, and their contribution to the upbuilding of prairie communities together with the fact that a large part of this development has taken place since 1900, must impress us with the youth of our country.

The first fifty years in the existence and progress of a country represent only one of its hours of early morning, a brief period of beginning and establishment. With only half a century behind it, Yorkton, as reflected in the pages of "The Enterprise," is still too conscious of the energy and verility that have carried it so far and so favorably to let defeatist fancies of enfeeblement and business stagnation creep into its present stock-taking and estimate of the future.

> "The economic stress we have been going through for the past few years has proven a sore trial to the morale of many people. Those who blazed the paths we comfortably tread to-day would have considered present conditions Utopian. In celebrating our golden jubilee we should be strengthened by the knowledge that fifty years ago men overcame much greater obstacles than we ever dreamed of, and that by unselfish determination and courage and the will to work, we can do likewise. Our pioneers met trouble face to face, used two fists and many times, despite an empty stomach, set an example that the present generation could well benefit by."

YOUTH'S NEED OF WORK.

Although encouraging gains in employment throughout Canada are officially reported for the first six months of this year, it is becoming evident as summer advances that many young men face another winter of idleness.

Society acknowledges the obligation of providing for youth the ordinary opportunity of learning a trade, of finding their sphere in life and equipping themselves to become wage-earners and useful citizens.

The youth of to-day is the man of to-morrow, but we do not utter that truism quite so glibly as we used to. In fact, we wish that time would stand still for our young men who, wondering which way to turn, have a foot on the threshold of manhood, until the accustomed order righted itself and provided work for their willing and capable hands and intelligence.

This heavy and tormenting problem is not merely a personal and domestic one. It should be the concern of the state which will expect to-morrow exemplary performance of the duties of citizenship from those who are our youth of to-day. They possess a natural and inalienable right to opportunities that will enable them to prepare for the life and responsibilities that are inevitably ahead of them.

In thousands of homes parents are sick of heart from worry over the continued idleness of their sons through no fault or desire of their own, and the prospect of another wasted winter marking time, waiting with lessening hope for some industrial or commercial door to open, must be a heavy cloud over such homes. This sheer waste of the preparatory years of youth, to say nothing of the possible demoralizing influences of idleness, is a tremendous incalculable handicap and loss caused by the depression.

Perhaps the turn of events is nearer than we know, possibly may be already in motion, but if there is further delay, what is to be done for those young men who have been unable to find employment during the last three years.

Governments have tried, and at great expense of money, to provide jobs, but the various schemes have been confined only to the use of manual labor. Could the technical school idea be extended for the time being, and classes established in vacant factory buildings for the winter months where young men past school age could be taught the essentials of some trades. With expert vocational guidance they could at least be helped in determining the work that was most attractive to them and for which they were naturally adapted.

If Ontario's Department of Public Welfare, for instance, could find the means of assuming this problem, not too broadly nor for permanence, it would undoubtedly render an invaluable service to "our men of to-morrow." Governments literally have their hands full, and such problems as this suggest would involve obvious difficulties, but no group is more deserving of the aid of official paternalism at this time than the army of young men whose school days ended when the depression descended upon them and their youthful ambitions.

OUR LOCAL SUMMER RESORTS.

Scores of picnic parties along the east bank of the river between the city and Lakefield almost every evening and especially at the week-ends attest the popularity of this public waterfront.

The consoling feature about this local resort is the fact that it is public. Not many years ago when trips to Chemong and Rice Lake were almost special occasions and had to be made by horse-drawn buses casual visitors found wide stretches of beach available to them. Gradually, however, cottages were built and the public were more and more excluded. This private encroachment has practically closed lake front places north and south of the city to everyone but the cottagers.

The river banks, particularly along the canal north of the city, remain Government property which people may use when they wish. Scenic beauty, the flow of water and bathing beaches are accessible almost at our doors, an asset during summer which we do not fully appreciate.

The fact that property restrictions have reduced the public beaches at our nearest lakes is one consideration that justifies the City Council's action last year in improving the Inverlea beach. Its crowds this summer prove that it was needed, and also that the money was well spent.

PULLING A LONG BOW.

Not many weeks ago a minister in one of the southern states told his congregation if the state voted wet he would take what money he had and start a liquor store. He was sure the folk would never vote wet, and therefore was willing to make a rash statement. Truth is that the state has voted wet, but we do not believe the minister will go into the liquor business.

It is being recalled, too, that in 1928 Henry Ford made some rash statements of the same kind. Here is part of an interview which he granted then:

> For myself, if booze ever comes back to the United States, I am through with manufacturing. I would not be bothered with the problem of handling over 200,000 men and trying to pay them wages which the saloons would take away from them. I wouldn't be interested in putting automobiles in the hands of a generation soggy with drink.

In recent months beer has been made legal in United States, and the business of doing away with the prohibitory laws is proceeding with scarcely a setback. The people who manufacture and sell beer are reported to be taking a lot of money away from the people who work for Mr. Ford and other employers, but Mr. Ford is not going out of business. He is still making cars and will continue to do so. He just pulled too long a bow in 1928.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

UPWARD TREND IN CANADA.

While the spectacular rise in price of wheat and the tremendous activity and gains in prices of securities on the stock markets have held the spotlight as signs and indications of returning prosperity and rising confidence in Canada, there are other evidences of actual improvement.

In June the wholesale price index of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reached 67.6 as compared with 63.6 in February. This is a gain of four points or 6.3 per cent, or at the rate of nearly 20 per cent. for a full year. The greatest advances have been made in commodities, principally farm products, which had suffered the most severe deflation. The bureau's index of security prices shows an advance of more than 50 per cent. since March in the average value of 130 common shares whose fluctuations are recorded.

There have been some distinctive gains in trade and industry. The index of industrial production rose from the low figure of 67.0 in February to 76.4 in May and the figure for June promises to be still higher. May sales of automobiles increased more than a fifth over those in April and June showed further gains. Lately the motor industries have added substantially to their programs to get an increased production to meet the continued demand expected. There have been increased sales of boots and shoes, wearing apparel, food products, hardware. In the boot and shoe industry, which showed marked activity among industries in spring, footwear production in May attained the highest figure since October, 1929. The lumber industry since March, when it was still severely depressed, has developed recent activity. Measured by the total number of contracts awarded, construction activity was 26 per cent. higher in June than May. Bank clearings have run above last year's level for two months. Reports on employment have recorded substantial increases.

Some of the recent gains in various directions have been stimulated by foreign exchange movements. The changed relationship of our dollar to the pound sterling will undoubtedly have important influences on our import and export trade. The gains under way, however, have occurred without deliberate attempt to promote recovery by any artificial method of currency depreciation in Canada and indicate that natural forces are at work to bring about improvement.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The reporter who counts the attendance at Lindsay's fall fair must have been at the Bobcaygeon Conservative picnic. His report to several Toronto papers varied from 8,000 to 10,000. An Examiner staff man considered that his own estimate of 3,000 was quite liberal.

The new road book of the Ontario Motor League includes a map of the Haliburton district and the Dorset country which was made more accessible by the highway built a year ago last winter. It is more informative than ever, even locating golf courses and indicating their number of holes. This year's booklet should have a place in the motorist's kit.

The office flapper, says the Kitchener Record, can't understand why Newfoundland should get into financial difficulties when it is located so near the Grand Banks.

A headline tells of Australian sheepmen gathering wool crop by airplane, which brings the Border Cities Star editor to bat with the comment that the work is being done at a fast clip.

A news item says that new frocks have hooks and eyes. We've seen some this summer that had all eyes on them, at any rate.

INSTALMENT 21.

Patricia began to find her time with Helen more curtailed than she liked. Ethan did not keep so strictly to office hours down at the quarries. His car (Helen had always listened for its sound, she knew now) would be heard coming in, before Helen left Patricia; Ada and he would keep Helen, nothing loath, for dinner; after dinner the three of them would sit together around the fire in the big hall, or, more often, in the library, talking together of little things, or not talking, as friends may. Sometimes they would play bridge with Mrs. Kingsway, who was a brilliant player; sometimes Helen and Ethan would get out the chessmen, and play, Mrs. Kingsway watching them lazily, or perhaps playing Canfield, or pulling some old book out of the case nearest her and reading a scrap to the chess players. Which, as she pointed out, she had no business to do. Presently Helen told Ethan that they must set some sort of a limit to the time she spend there.

"But it's so natural," he said. "It seems wrong when you're not there. . . . Helen, love, when is the King of Spain's daughter going to stop visiting me?"

She purposely misunderstood him.

"Why, I was just now trying to suggest visiting you a little less often. Really, Ethan, I think I'm a shameless wretch. Not only did he go and get ensnared by the governess like an English novel of the dear old days, but she came and spent all here evenings with him!"

They were in the paneled center hall at Kingsway, and it was noon. Ethan had come home for luncheon, as he had taken to doing very often now, and they had encountered as Helen went through on some small errand. He had just come in, bringing a gust of the cold fresh air about him. She was passing upstairs, but he barred her way, tall and gray eyed and laughing, his fair head a little bent to her. She knew there was no way of passing the gray tweed arm that seemed thrown across the balustrade so lightly. She tried, nevertheless.

"No wonder your mother says the Kingsways are steel," she said ruefully. "Ah, let me pass, Ethan. I'm on an errand."

"So am I," he said. "My errand is to convince you that you are dreadfully needed in this house. Whole time, not part time."

"Dissatisfied with my services?"

"Thoroughly! You're wasting your time."

"I certainly am! Ethan dear—Ethan darling—Marietta wants to know about the cook's day out——"

She dipped lithely under his arm, burnt-gold curls and slender brown serge shoulders, and was on the stair above him, but he caught her and held her.

"When are we going to get married? We've been engaged a hundred years. It's long past Christmas time. A month? Two weeks?"

"Christmas is scarcely over. I still look and feel like a Christmas tree——"

"Wait till we're married. I'm wild to buy you things, Helen."

"Good heavens, is this a bribe? Because I'm not going to be married in two weeks or a month. Personally I'm very happy as I am."

"Personally you don't love me as much as I love you," said Ethan. His tone was light, but his voice had the note of intensity Helen had learned to know. She met it.

"Ethan, you promised to believe in me always."

"But—it isn't natural you should love me as much as I do you. You scatter your love so. You love everybody. I only love a few people," he said, "and very much indeed. It's not disbelieving in you to think I love you more than you do me."

"Do you want me to stop liking other people? Because I can't. I do like everybody. I suppose I always shall," Helen said mournfully. "But, Ethan, oughtn't it to be good practice for liking you best?"

Her face was lifted to his, earnest, childlike, friendly in its loving perplexity. He laughed—the laughter that came so easily to him now—and kissed her and gave it up.

She ran up the stairs singing; happy in the happiest of all possible worlds. And Ethan, smiling to himself, went down the hall. But he was in earnest about wanting her to marry him soon.

He spoke to her about it again at luncheon before his mother. But Ada Kingsway backed Helen up. She was to take all the time she wanted, and not be bullied into matrimony.

"Though it's pure unselfishness on my part," she added, smiling across the old-fashioned beautiful damask that hid the mahogany table. "There was never so unanimous a feeling on the part of any family as to acquiring you permanently, my dear."

"By the way, here's your mail," Ethan added. "I stopped by your placed and picked it up on my way from the office."

"Who's it from? Who's it from?" clamored Patricia.

"Who's it for, you mean," he said. "Not you, my child."

"You never let me ask any really interesting questions," sighed Patricia. "I never want to know if people are well, and I have to ask them. And I always want to know what's inside letters, and I get stopped."

Ethan's slim long hand, with the gold signet on the little finger, pushed the letters to Helen, facing Patricia.

"I'll tell you," she consoled the child. "This letter is from my sister Jessica, I can tell by the postmark. And this one is"—she had to tear it open to find out—"from a man who wants to sell me beautiful hats by mail for three dollars, if I'll sell some raincoats for him. And this—" They were watching her, gay together over little things, as people are who live together and like one another—and the three who loved her saw Helen's face suddenly turn serious. "It's from my cousin Nina," she finished, laying it down by her plate and beginning to break the brown, crumb-covered chicken croquette which lay on her plate beside a sprig of cress, with her fork.

"Read it!" demanded Patricia.

Ada Kingsway picked up the conversation and carried it: Ethan, man-like, saw no reason for concern to Helen in a letter from her cousin. He hadn't wanted to marry Nina, and had no feeling about her beyond the calm neighborliness a man has for a woman he has known some time.

"You don't owe your cousin anything, my dear," Ada said in a low voice as they rose from the table. "Read your letter, and don't worry."

Ethan helped his mother back upstairs, Patricia flew out of the room after the evasive Luella, who knew mealtimes very well and was a most devoted and charming cat until they were over, when he relapsed into his ordinarily warlike state. Helen went into the library to read her letters.

The one from Jessica was just the usual weekly letter; full of news about Lester and the little apartment, and the bridge club, and shopping, and small worries about the approaching baby. She wished Helen wasn't marrying the Northerner, because they would always be so far apart, but he looked awfully handsome in the snapshot. "And do be sure he makes you a good allowance," wrote Jessica sadly "because all the girls say if you don't have it out beforehand you never have the whiphand; I tease and tease Lester, but he only makes silly excuses about my spending too much; as if I didn't know how to get wonderful values! . . ."

Helen sighed and smiled a little over that, sitting in the deep window-seat under Master Everard Kingsway's black-browed portrait. Her trouble with Ethan would always be the other way; already he was getting out of hand in his passion for piling gifts upon her. And poor baby Jessica, with her wonderful values! She remembered those in her father's day—fifteen dollars to spend on some necessity, and proudly paying twenty-five for it—lamp or rug or garment—because it was "such a wonderful value." She must try to pull the child up, not now, but next spring. Poor Lester, who adored affectionate, plaintive Jessica, and was always giving her an allowance or taking it away in the vain hope of having things come out right at the end of the month!

And then she braced herself for the reading of Nina's letter. When your cousin leaves you with the calmly stated purpose of marrying a man, and that man returns from abroad and tells you it was you he had been in love with for some years, you may feel triumphant or guilty according to your temperament. Helen felt guilty. And she cared for Nina.

GRAVE INJUSTICE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir: I would like to draw your attention to what I consider to be a grave injustice on the part of my landlord, who has served me with notice to quit and surrender possession of the house I have occupied for over six years.

After having been on the unemployed list for two years I recently found myself in arrears of rent to the extent of $37.50. Undertaking to dig some post holes and to do excavating work in preparation for the laying of a sewer on the property, I reduced arrears of rent, through labor done for my landlord, to $10.70. The last stated sum was the amount of arrears in rent at July 31.

With the work completed and the sewer laid in compliance with an order that my landlord received from the civic authorities, he served me with notice on the last day of July, "to quit and surrender up possession of the house you now ocupy, on or before the 31st day of August, 1933."

Unemployed and with a wife and nine children, I am facing a desperate situation. The difficulty of obtaining other accommodation, under such circumstances, can well be imagined, and I see no just reason why I should be forced to do so.

CHARLES FENNER.

THE FLAME

I struck a match and tossed it carelessly into the fireplace, into the heart of the rubbish that was there....It burned with a tiny blue flame, flickered, went out. But just at the final instant a tiny dart of fire caught upon a thin scrap of paper and set it alight. That flame grew, touched other bits of paper, small sticks and shavings from pencils. In three minutes a roaring blaze leaped high where there had been but a small expiring match—and even logs burst into flame and the curious business of burning was on its mighty way....And the small match was lost in the greater fire.

• • •

There lived a fire, ancient and mysterious. Fed by the air, the solid wood was transformed into other forms of energy, into gas and ashes. ....And it did not seem strange that once men worshiped the sun as the source of all warmth and held sacred the leaping flame.... Or strange that the thinker, Heraclitus, long ago should have imagined that all solid things around us come from ethereal flame. Nor that other philosopher, Empedocles, should have divided all matter into four elements of Earth, Air, Water and Fire....Surely, it's a mysterious creature, that flame that warms and lights and destroys and dies away, leaving some of its warmth behind.

• • •

But the way of that particular fire's lighting was strangest. It might so easily not have been. The small match might have flickered out and made no larger fire at all. ....It almost did. Almost, but not quite....With its last gasp it made a stir in the world, caused all this crackling, leaping fire.

And so might a man, might any human being, if there's flame enough in him, make a stir in the world and make other men alight with understanding and resolution and wisdom and joy. Any man, if he burns at all, makes a small fire around him to warm his neighbors. And many a man, big enough, has made such a flame in the world that he himself has perished in it, as my match did, but has made the earth a more comfortable place for his fellows....There's a mystery about that flame that leaps up in the spirit of men, but no mystery at all about the good that it can do.

ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

THE FIRST ANGLICAN SERVICE

On this date in 1583 (350 years ago) the first celebration in the western hemisphere of the Holy Communion according to the rites of the Church of England was held in the harbor of St. Johns, Newfoundland, by orders of Admiral Sir Humphrey Gilbert, who had that day entered the harbor with his fleet, and who, the next day, issued a proclamation declaring the island to be part of the British dominions and ordering the establishment of the Church of England as the religion of the island.

This turned out, however, to be a mere gesture, for it was many years before British sovereignty in Newfoundland was assured. In 1610 an attempt at colonization was made by a merchant of Bristol, named Guy, under a patent granted to the Earl of Northumberland, keeper of the privy seal, Sir Lawrence Tansfield, baron of the exchequer, and Sir Francis Bacon, incorporating them under the name of "Treasurers and Company of Adventurers of the City of London and Bristol for the Colony and Plantation of Newfoundland." The colonization by Guy was the first permanent settlement by the English in any part of what is now the British empire; in 1654 further colonists arrived from England under Sir David Kirke, but in 1663 further immigration was prohibited. It was not until 1713 that the whole island, which has been the cause of much fighting between English and French was ceded to Britain by the treaty of Utrecht.

Although Newfoundland persists in being the elder sister (perhaps grandmother would be a better definition) of English Canada, and continues to decline the invitation more than theoretic interest in our fate. Newfoundland mariners aided Saunders' fleet up the St. Lawrence to Quebec; Newfoundland soldiers took part in the battle on the plains of Abraham, in the siege of Quebec by Arnold and Montgomery in 1775-76, and did no little fighting in Upper Canada in 1812-14, helping materially in the protection of the Niagara frontier.

Newfoundland has also contributed many men and women of eminence to our business, political and religious life, and, except in actual fact, is regarded by most Canadians as a member of the family, who prefers to remain mistress in her own house, but still a member of the family.

The handwriting as delineated on your sample for analysis indicates that you are not quite mature in years to have set a definite standard for yourself yet. However it shows persistence and a will power which will assist you materially in the future. You are kind-hearted and generous, but sometimes you find it necessary to be a little cutting in your remarks. Shall we call it sarcasm? You are sensible and try to finish anything which you let yourself begin. Keep on as you are, and I venture to suggest that the world will hear of you some day. I wish you the very best of good fortune.

386 Burnham street, City.

The handwriting as delineated on your sample for analysis shows that you are friendly and pleasant. You have a fine artistic tendency. Your capitals show initiative and ambition. You are keen minded and most intelligent, well poised and adaptable. You like to have your home in perfect order and regret it very much if some thoughtless person disarranges your furnishings. Your will power is developed to a normal extent, so does not make you obstinate in the least.

H. W. Hamblin,
224 Westcott street, City.

The handwriting as delineated on your sample for analysis reveals an artistic tendency and love of seeing the work of your hands grow. It also denotes a decided nervousness which I think is due to your propensity to work much longer than you should without sufficient rest. You are inclined to be friendly to everyone, no matter who they are or where they come from. Your heart is kind and big. You seem to have room to assist all poor people regardless of race or creed. You may of course not have an opportunity to do this, but the willingness is there.

Mrs. N.G.,
157 Rutherford Ave., City.

The handwriting as described on your sample for analysis delineates you as a persistent person. You set your mind on something and it is very difficult for anybody to get you to change it. You are a quick thinker and you generally manage to think right the first time. You are intelligent and talented. Your mind is instructive and constructive. You are analytical and intuitive, quick in actions, words and accomplishments. You are enthusiastic and keen, diligent and discerning. You are discreet and pleasing, polite and humorous. You are perhaps a little temperamental and sometimes 'fly into a rage'. The whole outline of your writing bespeaks of energy and vitality. You may be rather blunt and unflattering at times, but this is because of your frankness. However, you are sincere and loyal to those who you deem worthy of your friendship, but very cautious about making new acquaintances.

Margaret O'Brien,
281 Park St., City.

The handwriting as delineated on your sample for analysis shows that you have a pretty good imagination and you seem to be able to see the mental picture of plans before you undertake them. You are quite generous and sympathetic, but you are not always the same. Often you wish you were. However, this is characteristic of you so I might advise you to cultivate your best traits and make them appealing, for you are quite sweet and lovable. Your nature requires a lot of love and understanding. Guard your thoughts, words and deeds. Say only the kind things which come to your mind and I think you will find that happiness and love will follow as a natural sequence. In regard to your question: You would do equally well in either line of business. Hairdressing would create an outlet for your artistic ability. Business would cultivate confidence in yourself.

Mr. H. Bassett,
461 Bolivar St., City.

The handwriting as delineated on your sample for analysis shows an artistic tendency which if developed should bring you much pleasure and comfort. You are distinctive in ideas and quite original. You have an adequate supply of brain power and intelligence to enable you to accomplish anything which you desire to undertake. The rounded loops below the lines show a love for music. Your upper loop formations show conservativeness and reticence, changeable disposition and intuition.

A Thought

BUSINESS

There is no better ballast for keeping the mind steady on its keel, and saving it from all risk of crankiness than business.

Forbid London Police To Marry For 4 Years

LONDON, Aug. 3 (C.P. Cable).—Lord Trenchard, Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police, to-day issued an order forbidding constables marrying during the first four years of their service.

The reason for the order was said to be that the Commission prefers to keep the majority of its constables unmarried so they may live in section houses and be available for quick calls in emergency.

Lord Trenchard's edict placed police recruits in the same category as recruits for the Anglican priesthood, who also are required to forswear matrimony for several years. Several bishops, bewailing the tendency of curates to marry early, have resolved that before issuing licenses to officiate they will require young priests promise to postpone marriage.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Aug. 4. — In one of the dullest sessions witnessed in some time prices slipped off on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day, due more to lack of support than any definite selling movement.

At mid-session values were 1⅞ to 2⅞ lower with October at 83⅞, December at 86, and May 90¼ cents. Operations were confined to commission house trading almost entirely and trading was decidedly thin.

Scattered showers in Alberta and forecasted showers for Saskatchewan were believed to be exerting some easing influence on the market, while Liverpool, due to week-end realizing before the Aug. 5 bank holiday, was unchanged to 1⅛ lower at the close.

Mining Items

Siscoe.

Siscoe Gold Mines in July produced bullion to the value of $98,634 from 9,467 tons milled and recovery of $16.75 per ton, which compares with output of $99,908 from 8,914 tons and recovery of $11.16 per tone in June. In July last year production totalled $89,055. In the month under review the company reached a new all-time record for tonnage milled, but owing to the fact that a large percentage of mill feed came from development faces, the average grade and recovery fell below that of the preceding month.

Nickel.

From one angle International Nickel had a big day on the New York Exchange. It held first place for volume with 71,300 shares traded, and after moving up to $19.38 it closed unchanged at 18⅝. So that was more than nibbling. Nickel's output has been gaining steadily. The most important factor in Nickel marketing is the condition of American industry, notably steels and motors. Each industry has shown promising signs of late, though at the moment there is some hesitation in sentiment.

Kirkland Hudson Bay.

Kirkland Hudson Bay is said to be securing favorable results on the Alschbach Gold property, held under option. Veins are said to be wide and well defined with the ore rich but spotty.

Nickel.

International Nickel raced into the market spotlight to-day and the whole substance of the matter laid in the reports that the company would benefit substantially in the building of battle cruisers by the United States Navy as announced through President Roosevelt. New York traders grabbed the item as a card to be stressed. Undoubtedly the builders will call upon Nickel but how much cannot be estimated at this time.

Clericy.

Clericy Cons. have been meeting with fair success in opening up vein showing on its Louvicourt claims which adjoin Treadwell Yukon's operation on the Hosking and Bushier properties. Blasting is reported as having shown three veins seven feet wide and traced for some 500 feet. An enlarged surface exploration plan is now proposed with diamond drilling to follow.

LONDON EXCHANGE CLOSES

DR. E. H. WOOD OUTLINES PLAN TO AID NEEDY

Suggests Organizing a "Self-Help League" to Kiwanis Club.

TWO BIG PROBLEMS.

Bold and Persistent Experimentation is Required by Nations.

A solution to the present world economic crisis, startling in its simplicity, by which the armies of unemployed at present on relief would be enabled to make for themselves and exchange among themselves by barter the necessities of life, was set forth to the Kiwanis Club at luncheon to-day by Dr. E. H. Wood of Ottawa. The organization of a "Self-Help League" by the local Kiwanis Club was urged by Dr Wood as a means to carry out his proposal

Outstanding Problems.

"We are faced to-day by two outstanding problems," Dr. Wood declared in preparing to outline his solution. "First we have the breakdown of our economic system, giving rise to wholesale unemployment and want in the midst of more than enough. Secondly, we are faced with war, actual and threatened, in the face of an almost universal desire for peace.

"No one knows if and when our present economic system is going to right itself and be able to resume its function of supplying the greatest good to the greatest number. We hope it may come and soon. However, should it be long or should it continuously become less efficient, it would be well to consider something with which to carry on till recovery comes or the reverse.

"The 'something' I am about to outline must be taken only as a blood transfusion to tide the patient through the shock of a major operation or, to put it in another light, our financial system is too rigid in its construction. It could not withstand the impact of the ever-increasing stream of scientific development in industry. The industrial crisis of 1929 split the financial structure wide open."

In outline, the plan as presented by Dr. Wood was as follows:

"The blood transfusion suggested is this: At present we are paying men to not work. As a result we must tax a sick and staggering industry to-day and load the future of that industry with a burden of taxation sufficient to ruin any prospects of recovery. This load must be relieved at once. Here is how it can be done:

"These unemployed (to whom I shall refer hereafter as the 'disjointed') should be put to work processing the commodities which they themselves consume.

"Let us take one section of the world—say Canada. There are over 1,000,000 people depending on some form of public aid for their existence. That is they are producing nothing and consuming at the expense of the balance of the population. They represent all ages, and all classes—young unskilled youths, highly trained and educated young men, the skilled mechanic, clerical staffs, etc., up to the older men and women. In this group are people capable and trained for all the activities of industry within the country—and an ample supply of young prospective learners.

"I know of no solution before us to-day that offers any more than a temporary fillup unless it embodies the same principles as herein suggested. This plan is open to criticism of course. 'It is not practical?' Who knows whether or not a thing is practical until it is tried? Are we justified in trying something unproven? President Roosevelt says we require 'Bold and persistent experimentation.'

"This plan is in principle as follows: The field is a country or association of countries. The 'disjointed' labor available would process raw material and distribute the resultant products ready for consumption to the 'disjointed' people only. As a reward for their work they would receive 'goods tickets' or paper money, the unit of which would be goods rather than gold. This 'goods money' would buy all the necessities, yes all the requirements of life. It of course would buy only goods produced by 'disjointed labor. In addition, 'gold money' could not be used in purchasing any of these goods so produced. Raw material would be paid for by 'goods money.'

"Under our present system our 'disjointed' people are supplied with their bare needs at the expense of the 'jointed' people. With the suggested plan our economic system would be relieved of this load.

"The method of working out this plan is: Row materials to be transported on existing transportation lines, with now idle rolling stock, manner and serviced by 'disjointed' railway and trucking hands, the rolling stock to be repaired and replaced by 'disjointed' shop labor. This transportation to take the raw materials to existing factories which are now utilized only part time, there processed by now partly used machinery, the labor supplied by 'disjointed' factory hands, then redistributed to points of consumption. Next, stocked in now existing shops, using a section of the shop appropriated for the goods in question, i.e., groceries to grocers' shops, clothing to clothiers' shops, etc. These sections of shops to be served by 'disjointed' clerks in their particular line—the goods to be purchased by 'disjointed' people with 'goods money' earned in their production or paid for raw materials. All along this line young untrained people to be added as learners.

"The owners of railroads, factories, shops, etc., must of course be paid for the use of their plants. This to be done not in cash raised by taxation as at present, not taking money away from them with the right hand and giving it back to them, a little less, with the left. They to be paid by exempting them from taxation in proportion to the use made of their plants."

Machinists and draftsmen will appreciate the difficulty of constructing such a model and keeping all its details in exact proportion, and the skill displayed by Mr. Murray in the fine work required in producing his model. A photograph and details of the machine were published in the Edinburgh Evening News, the leading paper in that city.

THE C. V. WHITNEY entries did not make a very auspicious start at Hamilton on opening day. Incandescent finished second and Rapscallien and Banderlog ran third, FallApple and Capsheaf were both out of the powerful racing establishment we might point out that their horses only unloaded a few hours before race time after a fast run from New York and had no chance to limber up.

THESE HORSES, however, will be earning their oat money from now on, if not for Whitney then for some other owner. Incandescent and Fall Apple were claimed on Wednesday while A. Hullcoat paid out for Good Guess out of the last race yesterday. Pat Galety came back to the races with a bang yesterday when he scored his first win in eight starts by copping the honors in the fourth race at the Hamilton plant. Much credit for the nag's win goes to Trainer Frank Gilpin of the Newmarch stables who had this hide under his personal care since claimed at the first running of Fort Erie by W. I. Newmarch.

• • •

OUR OLD FRIEND Top Hattie nearly won on opening day at Hamilton, only beaten by a neck for the money after leading all the way. This hide is at the peak of his form right now and it will pay not to neglect him. Devout has been resting at Hamilton for about a month and his trainer Bill Donoghue reports he is in excellent condition and Bill sure knows his ponies as he saddled two winners on opening day He also has the consistent Spey Crest (another old friend of ourswho won the fifth race yesterday and paid off at 6 to 1) under his wing and you can look forward to this one earning his keep from now on

• • •

BEAUTIFUL SARATOGA opened yesterday for a solid month's racing This plant is the playground of America as far as racing plants are concerned and thousands of turf followers from all over the United States and Canada come there every August Equipoise who won his fifth straight race with 126 pounds aboard yesterday and all the classy stake horses in America are there ready for the sound of the bugle.

• • •

YOUNG KITTY from the Smallman stable had an opener at Kenilworth the other day but as this was her first race in over a year she just breezed through but when she gets in good shape she will tow rope the same company that finished ahead of her the other day. Powder Monkey is another that is a much better horse than given credit for. The nag is a little hard to get started being of a very nervous temperament but once under way he can certainly travel. Foden has long been a favorite of ours as far as riders are concerned and yesterday he lived up to expectations by booting home three winners at Hamilton, Andiron, White Thorn and Golden Fate.

CONFISCATED NITROGLYCERINE LEADS OFFICERS MERRY CHASE

ENOUGH TO BLOW UP LOOP

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (AP).—Two United States secret service agents learned to-day that it's one problem to seize a gallon of nitroglycerine and another, a more difficult one, to get rid of it.

They breezed into the office of Lieut. John Treacy at the detective bureau yesterday loosely carrying three glass jars containing a gallon of a clear, colorless liquid resembling water.

But Lieut. Treacy took but one glance before shouting: "Put that stuff down and do it quickly and lightly. Why that's enough nitroglycerin to blow up all the loop." And with that the government men explained they'd been trying to give it away for four hours.

They said they'd been detailed to get rid of it and had visited Lieut. Mike Mills, former head of the bomb squad, who ordered them out of his office. He told them he had never seen so much nitroglycerine together at one time.

From there they wandered over to the Northwestern University crime laboratory and in addition to being shown the door again, were warned that one of the jars was beginning to deteriorate and was liable to explode spontaneously at any moment.

Lieut. Treacy went with them to the county morgue where Dr. Clarence H. Muehlberger invited them to leave as quickly and quietly as possible and take their jars with them.

But he succeeded in getting rid of the explosive after first warning them not to dump it in Lake Michigan.

Taking 20 gallons of alcohol and 20 cans of lye, he mixed them in an old wash tub and then added the explosive gradually, much as a housewife might stir up a cake. The resulting concoction was poured on the ground and that was the end of the nitroglycerine scare.

Tokio Hints At Secret China-U.S. Air Pact

TOKYO, Aug. 4 (AP).—The usually conservative Tokyo newspaper, Asahi, gave a prominent place to-day to "reliable reports" of a secret Chinese-American aviation treaty which it said was recently negotiated in Washington by Dr. S. Alfred Sze, Chinese minister to Washington, and the United States State Department.

If the pact is made effective, Asahi said, "it will gravely menace Japan's national defences, wherefore the reports are claiming the serious attention of the Imperial army."

The treaty, the newspaper reported, has three chapters, 17 articles, and several appendices, and would give a combination of the United States Government and American aircraft manufacturers a monopolistic and far-reaching supervision over a Chinese aviation program intended "to establish firmly the foundations of China's military and air forces."

BANKING PROBE OPENING TO-DAY

VISIT MOST LARGE CITIES.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4 (CP).—A genial, kindly gentleman, Britain's favorite "odd job" man, in the person of Lord MacMillan, former lord advocate of Scotland, will convene in Ottawa to-day the Royal Commission established to study and report on all phases of Canada's banking, currency and credit system. Lord MacMillan, accompanied by Sir Charles Addis, a prominent London business man, arrived in Ottawa overnight and to-day the first organization meeting will be held.

Five members only will constitute the Commission, the Canadian members being Sir Thomas White, former minister of finance; Hon. J. E. Brownlee, premier of Alberta, and Beaudry Leman, president of the Banque Canadienne Nationale, Montreal. The first public hearing will be held on Tuesday next.

The description of Lord MacMillan as an "odd job man," or an "orra man," as he claims Scotsmen would say it, is his own. In addition to his duties as a member of the Privy Council where he hears many Canadians' appeals, and as a member of the House of Lords, this distinguished Briton is at present chairman of a committee revising Great Britain's 240-year-old income tax laws.

A few years ago he headed the celebrated commission which investigated Britain's financial and industrial difficulties and the MacMillan report on that subject has been most widely quoted.

"I suppose you have heard that our report to the British Government was a best seller," his lordship observed to interviewers. "It was the first time in history that the Government had ever made a profit on the sale of a blue book. But that," he hastily added, "was not all to my credit. I had most able and brilliant associates."

The present commission will hold hearings in most of the large cities of Canada and will welcome expressions of opinion from all who have useful information to offer.

How State Troopers Waged War On Milk Pickets

Charges of brutality on the part of New York state police in breaking up groups of farmers gathered on the highway near Boonville, N.Y., to stop passage of milk trucks during producers' holiday are being investigated by Major John A. Warner, head of the state troops. This picture shows state troopers in action as they cleared the Alder Creek road leading into Boonville. Eight farmers were knocked unconscious in this encounter.

Hordes Of Black Rats Are Again Invading London—Another Great Plague Is Feared

(By Central Press Canadian Writer.)

LONDON, Aug. 3.—London is threatened with another plague. The black rat, carrier of dread bubonic plague that cost the city countless lives in 1665, is returning by the thousands.

The innocuous brown rat is steadily being exterminated by his black brother by sheer force of numbers and British sanitary authorities have declared a new and more desperate war on the pests.

It is in the newest and most modern buildings — scientifically proofed against the brown rats that the black invaders are gaining a stronghold.

Roof skylights, windows and wastewater pipes provide easy entrances for the black rats which, unlike the brown rats, have no fear of man. M. A. C. Minton, deputy keeper of Zoology at the British Museum, said:

"The sanitary authorities are fully alive to the peril. The return of the black rat means the accepted methods of rat-proofing are practically useless against the new invaders.

"Brown rats live in sewers and basements; black rats will climb anywhere and live fearlessly in places inhabited by human beings.

"So they are spreading rapidly. If it were possible to trap all the rats in London to-day, the great majority would be found to be black rats. Yet at the beginning of the present century the species was practically extinct except in ports.

"The black rat is the common ship rat and a carrier of disease from foreign climes.

"Every ship entering British ports is examined for traces of plague, but when one black rat carrying bubonic plague escapes ashore, the sanitary authorities have to track it down and destroy every other rat with which it has come in contact."

TOURIST BUSINESS GOOD AT HIAWATHA

Fishing Good on Rice Lake and Cottages Are Always Occupied.

Good tourist business at Hiawatha has been reported by Madden Howard recently, the veteran Indian guide, who runs the six Howard Homewood cottages there, stating that since the start of the fishing season every cottage has been taken. No sooner does one party leave than another moves in, and several Toronto and American people have written in the past week or so requesting him to hold cottages for them at certain dates.

"Mostly Americans," he said when asked what type of tourist he was getting chiefly, "from New York, Michigan and Ohio. And they are very well satisfied this year because the muskie fishing is the best in years, and the pickerel are biting, too." He added they nearly always left with the assurance they would be back next year.

One party in the past few days landed 12- and 14-pound 'lunges and also carried away a big catch of pickerel. The guide himself pulled in a 9½-pound pickerel recently, while guiding a Cleveland party, the pickerel being a record for Hiawatha this season. Mr. Howard expects the tourist invasion will continue unabated.

Diving Conditions Are Not Dangerous

Rumors that the diving board will be removed as the result of dangerous diving conditions at Inverlea Park were contradicted by Alderman Walter Stocker to-day. "A young fellow was injured diving last week, but it was only through his own carelessness," he said. "The water is well over a person's head off the diving board and no one who exercises the usual care will get hurt."

According to reports, there have been several cut fingers and toes, but no serious injuries at the diving board, despite the fact that hundreds use it each day. The young man who struck bottom last week received a minor scalp cut.

INDIAN FRONTIER HAMLET IS BOMBED INTO RUINS

SIMLA, India, Aug. 4 (A.P.)—The village of Kotkai on the Northwestern frontier was reported in ruins to-day as a result of two bombardments by Royal Air Force pilots, who are trying to compel bajauri tribesment to give up three agitators.

Two squadrons of three planes each participated in the bombings, the third and fourth since British airmen and soldiers moved into the area in an attempt to quell unrest and protect friendly Halimzai tribesmen from a threatened attack by the Upper Mohmands, allies of the Bajouris.

Practically all buildings were said to have been levelled in Kotki, a hamlet of 100 inhabitants. The remainder of the disturbed section on the frontier was quiet.

FEW CANADIANS IN MAJORS BECAUSE OF AMATEUR RULES

GOT ARCHER JOB

By BEN GOLDBERG
(Special to the Examiner.)

James Sharkey

Joe Linden, another Canadian, umpired about the same time, 1902, but he saw such short service that Sharkey was really the only Canadian to officiate for any length of time.

Baseball seemed to be the only sport in which Sharkey was interested, first as a player on the sandlots, then as an umpire in senior amateur ball and ultimately an official in professional ball in the old Eastern League, now known as the International and in the old Canadian pro loop, consisting of Ingersoll, Woodstock, Brantford and St. Thomas.

His active baseball days saw him as a second baseman, captaining St. Mary's city champs in 1898. Another team of which he was a member away back in 1878, the Hamilton Hunters, established a notable record by winning 52 consecutive games over a period of three years, which included all-comers.

There are always little things that seem to bring memories of the past and so it is with Sharkey. He has a strike and ball indicator which was used during his time. It looks exactly like the indicators of to-day, but turn the wheels and it shows you four strikes and five balls, as played in the old-time game. Incidentally, Mr. Sharkey recalls that before that time there was even seven balls and four strikes. Another thing he still has is an old letter of recommendation dated 1902 from Pat Powers, the president of the Eastern League.

Chances are Killed.

The question then came up as to why there are so few Canadians in professional baseball. "There are just as many good ball players produced in Canada as there are in any other part of the world," declared Mr. Sharkey. "But the reason there are so few is because of amateur associations. If an athlete is a professional in one sport he automatically becomes a professional in every sport, according to the amateur status. That of course, kills his chances of developing in another sport.

"Take in the case of Alex. Levinsky," he went on; "why he was the best outfield prospect I ever saw in the sandlots. Now he will never have a chance in baseball because he is a professional hockey player. He left amateur baseball before he was fully developed and now he can't go back."

Though Sharkey thinks that professional baseball of to-day is more interesting to watch, much faster and more scientific than formerly, he says there were a few players in his time of whom he has never seen the equal, namely Cap Anson of the Chicago Nationals and Hans Wagner.

"Yes, present-day baseball has been speeded up considerably" he said. "In those days a game took between three and three and one-half hours to play. That was because of the different rules. You could foul a ball all day and still not have had a strike called against you."

One of the big chances that Mr. butions to the majors, Jimmy Archer was given his first job by James Sharkey at Atlanta, Georgia. Archer developed into one of leading catchers in baseball. He became known as the best throwing backstop. He never had to stand to throw, but always fired the ball from his hunched position.

Best People Spectators

One of theb ig changes that Mr. Sharkey has noticed particularly is that baseblal has reached the stage where the finest class of people are interested spectators. In his day the players all came from tin pan alley and were a real collection of tough fellows, who carried large cuds of tobacco between their jaws. To-day, however, more than fifty per cent. of the players are former college men.

The job of an umpire is tough. Sharkey will tell you, and they have no friends, so if nothing humorous crops up once in a while it is a dull life.

An occasion which brings back smiles to many an old-timer was the day when a player hitting a fly ball out to right field, the first baseman, second baseman and right fielder all went for it, but as they were nearing the ball the third baseman cautioned, "look out, you'll come together!" They all stopped immediately. The ball dropped between them all. A little chap sitting in the right field bleachers, arose and shouted: "You take it now Alphonse!"

The love for sport never dies for the old-timer. Even now whenever he gets a chance, Sharkey watches his tome-town team. He has many close friends in baseball, most of them umpires from the American, National and International Leagues.

THAT DEPRESSED FEELING IS LARGELY LIVER

Wake Up Your Liver Bile . . . Without Calomel, And Feel Like a Million Dollars.

Nothing can put your system out of kilter more quickly than your liver. All it has to do is stop pouring its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels—and life certainly gets grey.

That sluggish flow of bile slows up digestion and elimination and makes you "feel punk". Your stomach acts up—gas, bloating, sourness, pain. Your breath is bad and the taste in your mouth is nasty. Your head aches. Skin is blotchy. All, of course, because your system is full of poisons.

Mere bowel movers like salts, oil, mineral water, roughage, laxative candy or chewing gum are not good enough to correct this condition entirely. You're livery and you must wake up your liver bile to be happy again.

Avoid calomel (mercury). The thing for you is a box of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They never upset you because they're purely vegetable, gentle and safe; but how they do change your view on life!

C.P.R. RECREATION CLUB HOLD ANNUAL OUTING AT TORONTO

President J. Evans Given Real Welcome—Old-time Reunion is Happy Occasion.

SPORTS RUN OFF.

HAVELOCK, Aug 4 (Examiner Correspondence). — Under ideal weather conditions, the seventh annual outing of Havelock C.P.R. Recreation Club was held this year at Riverdale Park, Toronto, on Wednesday.

Twelve coaches were provided to transport the passengers from Havelock and intermediate points west, railway employees and their families, and many who had expected to attend the outing were disappointed on account of inadequate accommodation.

This year's picnic was arranged by the committee with a view to an old boys' reunion at the park grounds, where Havelock residents who had removed to the city could meet their old friends from the home town and enjoy a program of sports. This feature was especially successful, and those who could possibly be on hand for the occasion were present at the grounds, and renewed old acquaintances.

Mr. John Evans, president of the Havelock Club, who has been an inmate of Christie Street Hospital for the past three months, was conveyed to the park grounds in Robert Morrison's auto, and his arrival there was the signal for a resounding ovation by those present. Mr. Evans, though in a weakened condition, gracefully acknowledged the tribute, and for a short time conversed with his friends who came one by one to the car. A number of the company officials were present at the grounds, H. C. Grout, B. J. Quilty, F. S. Rossitor, Ed. Walker and others, as well as fifteen veteran employees who are now retired on pension.

The Special Race

A special race was provided for the latter, who linked arms and crossed the finishing line abreast, each one being declared a winner. Each received a prize of a box of Perfectos. A softball game between the C.P.R. Toronto and Havelock teams was won by the former, by a score of 8-5. Each player was presented with a pair of socks.

Hot water and milk were furnished at the grounds, and tickets for ice cream, pop, chocolate bars, etc., were given to all children on the train. Scramble races for the tots under eight, both boys and girls, gave them lots of candy for the day.

The sports were not so keenly contested this year as in former occasions, there being so many counter attractions in the downtown section of the city, but there was a fair showing of runners in some of the events. A few were called off, as six entries were required before a race could be run, there being three prizes in each competition.

L. G. Hagerman was the official announcer. T. P. Lancaster, M.P.P., James Anderson and J. H. Moore were judges. W. Hitchens was starter for the races.

Four entrants from the Laurel Ladies' Athletic Club, Toronto gave a fine exhibition of running in a special event, a 220 yards dash. The winner, Miss Harriet Grieve of Toronto, daughter of N. Grieve, C.P.R. conductor and one winning second place, Miss Myrtle Lamb, each received a Slazenger tennis racquet. Miss Garnetta Warren in third place and Miss Jean Foster fourth, were presented wwith boxes of chocolates.

Historic Desk Presented To Henry Ford

The venerable telegraph table used by Thomas A. Edison, the electrical wizard when but a lad of 16 years, working as a telegraph operator for the old Grand Trunk Railway, at St. Mary's Junction, has been presented by J. S. Hungerford, Acting President of the Canadian National Railways, to Henry Ford, motor car magnate, for inclusion among the Edison exhibits, at the Edison Institute, Dearborn, Mich. The desk has stood in the same position for 75 years and has been in daily use. The layout shows, at the top, W. A. Kingsland general manager of the Central Region, who personally went to St. Mary's to inspect the desk prior to its shipment to the Institute, with the present operator, William Jacobi, now working the old Edison trick. The lower picture shows the station, its architectural appearance unchanged from Edison's day. The first window on the right of the building was the one before which Edison sat and where the desk has stood all these years; while on the truck, at the corner, is the new desk which will replace the old, historic one. In the foreground may be seen Mr. Kingsland, C. J. McKeough, superintendent of the Stratford division and T. T. Irving, chief engineer of the central region.

• The bathing suits of fifty years ago look odd nowadays. The rows of bathing-machines on the sands, the old bathing-women who ducked the children remorselessly, and many quaint old ideas of propriety have, happily, given way to more healthful methods of enjoying the water.

"Quality First" was the policy adopted when the first bar of Surprise Soap was made in St. Stephen, N.B., 49 years ago.

This policy has never been altered and the quality has improved with advancing knowledge, keeping pace with modern requirements.

in the days when Surprise Soap was first made

- Half a century ago Surpsise Soap helped women do their heavy, weekly washing quickly and thoroughly, exactly as it is doing in hundreds of thousands of homes today.
- Surprise Soap gives plentiful, rich suds that reach every atom of dirt and loosen it so effectively that, after rinsing, soiled garments of everyday wear are revived into fragrant, gleaming cleanliness.
- Because there is less rubbing with Surprise Soap, the filmy wisps of daintiness that women wear today, last longer. There is another reason for this, too: Surprise is absolutely safe. Its pure ingredients are so skilfully blended that they will not harm the finest of garments.

HOLLYWOOD

Sense and Nonsense

The outstanding thing about Hollywood separations is the well-mannered way in which they are effected. Sally Eilers called on Hoot Gibson in the hospital as soon as she returned to Hollywood. She took him a wire-haired terrier, christened "Smashup," to replace another dog that she had given him and that had wandered away. Sally doesn't know what her plans are yet—except that a divorce is definite. She is living with her mother and brother, but may take a house later. Hoot's little girl, who was so crazy about Sally, is now staying in a camp.

The summer's first really hot day brought Ann Harding speeding in from her ranch hideout above Palmdale. When she left the desert, the thermometer registered 132. Even at the beach, the stars were taking to the ocean. R-K-O studio put in a call for Dolores Del Rio. The butler informed them she was sitting in the swimming pool eating ice cream.

No matter if she does admire Marlene Dietrich as an actress, Mae West is due to suffer a pang of envy when she hears about the German star's first picture upon her return to Paramount.

For La Dietrich is to play Catherine the Great of Russia, the one character in all history that our Mae most desires to bring to the screen.

The new Jossef von Sternberg-Dietrich film is to be piquantly titled "Her Regiment of Lovers." The story now being prepared by Manuel Komroff, he who wrote "Coronet" and "Two Thieves," will touch but lightly upon the military and civil exploits of the famous empress.

It is to concentrate upon her many lovers, ranging from princes to young officers of her guard.

He insists that his motives are purely artistic. No more long term contracts because he wants to choose each story.

R-K-O is congratulating itself on signing Raoul Roulien for "Flying Down To Rio." The Brazilian actor has persuaded his government to allow the studio to photograph the army, the navy, the marines, a gunboat and official palaces.

An English best-seller, "All Men Are Enemies," has inspired the most spirited bidding in recent months among the movie producers. It finally goes to Fox several weeks before the novel even appears on the American stands.

A story with a war background, and about a man who seeks a perfect existence, "All Men Are Enemies" comes from the typewriter of John Aldington, author of "Death of a Hero," "Soft Answers" and other postwar novels.

Unless it's just big talk, the picture will be one of the studio's four major offerings for the coming year. They even compare it to "Cavalcade," the measuring stick of all productions on this lot.

Screen actors have found themselves in many strange situations during the filming of thousands of pictures in Hollywood's history, but no assignment was so bizarre as the experience of a group of Chinese atmospheric players in "I Cover the Waterfront," Reliance"s romantic thriller at the Capitol Friday and Saturday.

They were paid to be modern Jonahs, only instead of whales, they had to live inside huge sharks!

This fantastic situation, which in reality isn't as fantastic as it sounds, according to authorities who for years have been combatting the smuggling of Chinese into California, was necessary to fit the story action in the picture.

Ben Lyon, playing opposite Claudette Colbert, has the role of a reporter who aids Federal men in running down a gang of pseudo-fishermen, headed by Ernest Torrence, whose real racket is smuggling Chinese into the United States. After landing hordes of the undesirable aliens under the very noses of the authorities, the mystery finallly is solved The Chinese are inside sharks delivered to a fertilizer factory.

COUNCIL ASKED TO GIVE GRANT

Chamber does not want to call a public meeting, I will call one and lay the cards on the table."

The deputation from the Chamber consisted of John R. Marshall, G. A. Gillespie, J. J. Turner and James Dutton. All addressed the Finance Committee, pointing out the seriousness of the situation and the manner in which the Chamber's revenue had fallen off.

"We have cut our operating expenditures, which formerly were $10,000 to $12,000 annually, to $5,000 this year and less, but we are carrying on most efficiently and giving a real service to the city," declared John R. Marshall.

He pointed out that if the Chamber of Commerce failed in its appeal for funds to carry on, "it will require about $1,700 to liquidate the Chamber's debts and close its doors in an honorable way."

A drive for subscriptions is already under way by members of the Chamber, he said, which is meeting with some results.

Mayor Denne suggested that the annual membership fee for the Chamber be reduced from $15 to $5. "I know there are many men who would join at $5 who cannot pay $15, and I believe there is strength in numbers in anything," he said.

Mr. Marshall admitted that a reduction in the membership fee might have the desired result, but he expressed doubt. "We have tried everything," he explained. "It seems, however, that the very ones who use the machinery of the Chamber and who secure great benefits from it make the least contribution toward its support."

Mayor Denne said, "It is my opinion that every merchant, every doctor and every lawyer should be a member of the Chamber." He pointed out that the city was $16,000 lower in its tax receipts than it was a year ago. "We could make a grant to the Chamber, but where would the money come from, and next year it may be more serious," he declared.

He then put forth the suggestion that an urgent public meeting be called to give full information to the public on the seriousness of the loss to the city in prestige and service if the Chamber was permitted to close its doors.

Provdie Reliable Substitute to the Old Method of Hand Signalling.

MINIMIZE ACCIDENTS

Patent rights have been applied for by L. B. Howland, a resident of this city, for the protection of his invention, which he proposes to register as a "standard automobile signal."

After months of patient effort and consideration, Mr. Howland has perfected a model automatic signalling device for use on automobiles. The fundamental purpose of the invention is to provide a reliable substitute for the unsatisfactory and unreliable method of hand signalling, which Mr. Howland claims has been the cause of several fatalities.

Mr. Howland, who was interviewed by The Examiner, gave a practical demonstration of his model signalling device, and there would seem to be no reason why it should not be put into practicable use by the motoring public generally, and so help to minimize the danger of accidents caused by misinterpertation of hand signals.

May Establish Plant.

The inventor of the device was optimistic enough to suggest the possibility of establishing a plant in Peterborough to look after the Canadian market, and also suggested that arrangements could be made for the manufacture of the "standard automobile signal" in the United States to supply that market.

In connection with the manufacture of the signals, he stated that P. P. Westbye, of this city, an engineer of outstanding ability, who in the last year has invented and applied for patents on several utilities, besides controlling other patents, may be interested in a consolidation so that the different inventions could be manufactured here in the one plant.

The device, which is both compact and simple in construction, and which could probably be retailed for $8, is designed to fit on the left front of any automobile, within easy view of the operator, and in full range of traffic from the rear.

Semaphore Signal

Operated by the simple manipulation of a control fitted to the dashboard of an automobile, a semaphore may be raised or lowered in three positions. With the movement of the semaphore a red signal showing to the rear is automatically lighted, while a green light is shown to the approaching traffic. The semaphore may be raised to a down angle of 45 degrees to indicate a stop; at right angles to indicate that the driver of the car is about to make a left turn; and at an upward angle of 45 degrees, to indicate a right turn. The signal is illuminated with a 6-volt electric lamp wired direct to the battery. At night time the light has the further advantage that it may be used as a parking light.

Mr. Howland, who was born in Toronto, was educated at Toronto Model School, and Trinity College School, Port Hope. Associated prominently with railway and bridge construction work throughout North and South America, he has also been the prime mover in an effort to secure a bridge crossing the St. Lawrence River at a point nearest Lake Ontario, in order to give the Central Ontario Counties a direct communication to the United States.

He is a past president of the Ontario Motor League, and the Canadian Automobile Association.

Obituary

MRS. ARTHUR COPP.

HAVELOCK, Aug. 4.—(Examiner Correspondence)— The funeral of the late Christina Stephenson Copp whose death occurred on Saturday last at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Little of Havelock, was held on Monday afternoon, July 31st, and was very uargely attended.

Mrs. Copp, who was seventy years old, was born in Australia, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stephenson, and at the age of six years came to Canada with her parents and settled in the vicinity of Ivanhoe. Forty-nine years ago she was married to Mr. Arthur J. Copp and nine years later came to live in Havelock. For a few years while Mr. Copp was working at Smith Falls they resided there, but later returned to Havelock where she continued to live until the time of her death.

Mrs. Copp was an active member of Knox church W.M.S. and the February meeting was always held at her home. Though not in very rugged health for some time, she was not thought to be in danger until ten days before her death.

She leaves to mourn her loss besides her husband, four sons and three daughters. They are: Clarence of Harrowsmith, Stanley of Brandon, Man., Bruce of Smith Falls, and William of Havelock, Mrs. Will Rice and Mrs. Jos. Little of Havelock and Mrs. Wm. Buchanan of Smith's Falls.

The service which was held at the house was conducted by Rev. L. Beaton of Knox church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Worrell of the Anglican, and Rev Mr. Kemp of the United church. The funeral oration by Rev. Mr. Kemp was taken from the second epistle of St Paul to the Corinthians. 'Rock of Ages,' and 'Asleep in Jesus,' these two beautiful old hymns were fittingly sung during the service.

The pall bearers were six old family friends, Messrs. Chas. Barton, Ernest Seeney, Arthur Curry, Harrison Wing, Robert Anderson, and James Ketchen.

Interment was made at Pine Grove cemetery.

U.K. BUTTER AND CHEESE.

OTTAWA, August 4 (CP)—The following cable on United Kingdom butter and cheese markets was received by the Dominion Department of Agriculture yesterday:

UP NINE MILES

CALGARY, Alta. — A height of nine miles and a temperature of 87 degrees below zero is the record so far attained by meteorological balloons released from Calgary by Capt. C. H. Bromley in connection with the polar year tests.

Twelve of the 22 balloons equipped with instruments to record atmospheric conditions in the stratosphere, have been recovered, Dr. Bromley reports. The balloons have been released twice a month since last September.

Heard Eight Miles

LEE CHRISMAN

By shouting so loudly that his voice was heard — according to judges—a distance of eight miles and in three states, Lee Chrisman, 32, farmer living near Danville, Ky., set what his followers claim as a world record. The shouting was done at 3 a.m. from a mountaintop at Cumberland Gap, Tenn., overlooking Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia.

FRUIT BOAT OVERDUE

MILWAUKEE. — The United States coast guard station started search to-day for the fruit boat American Girl which was six hours overue at Milwaukee.

A gale had whipped the lake all night and concern was felt for the safety of the boat and its crew of three.

The boat left St. Joseph, Mich. at 5 p.m. last night. There was no trace of the vessel at St. Joseph, Racine, Kenosha or Chicago.

CANADIAN HEAVY CATTLE BRING 12 CENTS OVERSEAS

OTTAWA, Aug. 4. (CP)—Canadian cattle from two steamers were sold at Birkenhead this week, says a report received to-day by the Department of Agriculture. The shipment from S.S. Canadian Prospector contained quite a number of rough heavy cattle, while the shipment from S.S. Manchester Brigade was reported as very good, containing a number of fine dairy cows, and small beef cattle.

The trade, however, says the report, has been rather poor, particularly for heavy cattle, this class sold at 12 cents per pound, dressed weight, at the current rate of exchange. Medium weights brought 14 to 15 cents. Some heavy and medium weight cattle showed lack of finish when dressed.

No Canadian cattle were reported at Glasgow. Some 360 Irish sold during the week from 6½ to 7½ cents per pound liveweight.

Henry Lauds Judge's Dorland Case Report

TORONTO, Aug. 4 (CP)—Premier George S. Henry to-day praised Mr. Justice A. C. Kingstone's report on his investigation of Frank Dorland's charges he was framed in a conviction of possessing offensive weapons which sent him on to Kingston penitentiary for five years.

"Mr. Justice Kigstone has made a very thorough report" the Premier said, "and I learned from it some things which I did not in reading evidence."

Mr Henry was unable to say what action, if any, would be taken on recommendations in the report. The matter, he said, rested with the crown attorney.

St. Pierre and Miquelon, two small rock islands ten miles off the southern coast of Newfoundland are the only territorial possessions of France in North America.

Plan Weekly Airmail France To S. America

PARIS, Aug. 3 (A.P.)—Regular weekly airmail flights between France and South America are planned by the Aeropostale Company beginning in April, 1934, it was learned to-day.

Jean Mermoz, crack pilot for the company, is scheduled to make three more trial crossings of the South Atlantic. Following this, the regular service is contemplated with two or three similar planes constructed on the basis of experience with such craft during the test flights.

Interesting News and Views of Recent Happenings in the British Isles

FRENCH SEA-HAWK TRAPPED BRITONS CLIP ITS WINGS

Warned by Wireless, Gunboat Swoops Out of Mist, Nabs Her

GEAR IS FORFEIT

Dover.—Notre Dame de Lorette, the French two-masted 40-foot trawler captured by the British fisheries gunboat Cherwell while trawling illegally within two miles of Hastings, is riding at anchor here beside her captor while her captain awaits money from the owners in Boulogne in order to pay the fine of £10 imposed by the authorities.

Captain Ramot Lepretre, her master, was laughing with his mate and two members of the crew when a reporter boarded the boat; laughing as though his capture and the loss of his gear—for it is to be confiscated by the British authorities—were a huge joke.

French fishing raiders have been playing "cat and mouse" with the British authorities for a considerable time. All had escaped previous to the capture of the Boulogne trawler, which, the captain said, was one of fourteen owned by a French company.

The captain—a burly, powerfully built man with swarthy face and dark hair and wearing a red shirt—when asked why he had come into British waters replied: "Because I wanted fish—young fish."

English Kings Frowned Down

The setting for the captain's trial was a picturesque one—the council chamber of the town hall. One end of the chamber is covered with stained-glass windows depicting English kings; the ceiling is lofty, vaulted and panelled in oak; and around the walls are full-length portraits of English kings and nobles.

Lieut.-Commander Hudson, describing the capture, said he saw the vessel lowering her trawl a mile and a half off Hastings. "When we approached she hauled in her trawl and tried to steam away, but we quickly drew alongside and she halted after first ignoring our signal to stop."

After the Frenchman was fined Hudson remarked kindly: "I think he can keep the fish, as there are only four baskets, and they will need something to eat."

"Pirate Poacher" Elusive

The capture had been seen by thousands of holiday-makers who thronged Hastings beach and piers.

The boat's skipper did not know it, but the coastguards had sighted him. A wireless message had been sent to the captain of the Cherwell, who was lying in readiness hidden beyond Dungeness.

Slowly—at half-speed—the Cherwell came down the channel past Hastings and went on to Beachy Head. Suddenly the mist that had shrouded his approach lifted and left the sea clear and bright.

Almost before the holiday-makers watching from the shore knew the Cherwell was swooping down at full speed on the fishing boat with guns ready in her bows.

At the same time she signalled, "Hold, or I fire."

To add to the drama a great burst of gun-firing was heard across the channel and excited holiday-makers cried: "They are firing on her."

But actually the Cherwell did not fire a shot. By a coincidence other warships were carrying out gunfire practice in the channel and it was this that was heard.

The operations of a trawler nicknamed the "Pirate Poacher" have on occasions been witnessed by people on the Hastings sea front. Its raids have usually been carried out in a mist and local fishermen considered a suggestion of buying a fast motorboat to track it down.

SMASHED SPEED KINGS IN MANX AUTO RACE

Freddie Dixon of Middlesbrough Victor in Toughest Contest Ever Run

Douglas.—Freddie Dixon of Middlesbrough, aged 41, smashed to a frazzle Britain's speed kings in a new type of race organized by the Royal Automobile club in the Isle of Man.

The race was for 12 h.p. cars on a five-mile circuit through the streets of Douglas. The result was:

1. Freddie Dixon, time 4 hrs. 13 mins. 35 secs., average speed 54.41 m.p.h.

2. Dennis Mansell, a 24-year-old Birmingham driver, 4 hrs. 28 mins. 30 secs., speed 51.40 m.p.h.

The race was the toughest ever run. Only two out of 15 starters finished. No driver was hurt, but the strain of 800 acute corners, most of them right angles, in 230 miles played havoc with the cars' mechanism.

Dixon's win must bring him between $15,000 and $25,000.

In the second lap, Hamilton passed Kaye Don on one of the "terror" corners, a magnificently daring manoeuvre, and took the lead. Don, when lying second after 100 miles, retired with engine trouble. Hamilton's car broke its back axle after 150 miles.

Dixon saw a chance of winning if he could crack up four cars ahead, and he did—beating car after car for position on "suicide" corners.

CLIFF FALL FATAL

Boy Seeking Smugglers' Caves Killed Near Dorchester

Dorchester. — Romantic youths searching for smugglers caves on the Dorset coast near Lulworth Cove, led to a tragedy.

A Southampton youth, Bertram Kenneth Dominy (19), was killed by falling 100 feet to the beach while climbing the cliff.

An ambulance boat came from Lulworth, but Dominy died on the way to hospital. Only a week before Dominy was in difficulties while climbing a perilous slope, but was rescued by a wire.

J. MOLLISON, SR., LEAVES $19,000

LEFT HORSE GUARDS TO MARRY ACTRESS

Millionaire - Sportsman Now Father of Son

London.—A young millionaire who was obliged by tradition to resign his commission in the Royal Horse Guards upon his marriage to a beautiful nineteen-year-old American actress has just become the father of a son and heir.

He is Francis Francis, who in 1929 married Miss Sunny Jarman, the "platinum blonde" musical comedy star.

"I have never regretted my decision to resign from the Guards," he said, "and since the birth of my son I am even more glad I made that decision."

While Francis was a 15-year-old schoolboy at Rugby he inherited a large fortune from his grandmother, Mrs. Jabez Bostwick, widow of a Standard Oil millionaire, following a legal fight in the United States.

Mr. Francis is a keen airman and sportsman and, following a round-the-world honeymoon, he and his wife have been travelling about Europe.

BOGUS BANK NOTES CLEVEREST YET SEEN

But Land Girl Artist in Jail—Toiled Three Days for $2.50

Warwick.—Evelyn Bates, 23-year-old pottery artist, pleaded guilty in assizes here to forging bank-notes which were said to be the cleverest imitations seen by the Bank of England.

Each was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment.

The commissioner of assize, Sir Ellis Hume-Williams, K.C., examined some £1 notes during the trial, and said:

"I am glad one was not handed to me; they are wonderful. I have never seen anything like them."

It was stated that when the couple were arrested the police found under a mattress at their rooms at Little Hay fully loaded revolvers. Forty-three forged 10s. notes made by the same person had been received by the Bank of England.

Bates said the making of the notes was terribly hard work for his wife; it took three days to make one.

The woman gave a detailed description of how she made the notes, but Sir Ellis asked that, in the public interest, should not be reported.

She also said: "The work made me ill and depressed. I kept hoping each note would be the last and something would turn up to enable us to lead a decent life."

POLICE HEAD'S KIN ROBBED OF JEWELRY

Gems Worth $2,500 Taken From Lord Trenchard's Mother-in-Law

London.—Lord Trenchard's mother-in-law has been robbed.

Jewellery worth from £500 to £600 was taken from her home in Lowndes St., S.W., when she was out.

Lord Trenchard, as chief of the metropolitan police, heard officially, after he had learned privately, of the loss suffered by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Salvin Bowlby.

Among the stolen jewels were lockets, one containing a lock of Lady Trenchard's hair.

The burglar entered and left the house without arousing the suspicions of the household staff, and left behind not the smallest clue as to how he had carried through his silent, lightning raid.

Mrs. Bowlby herself was out when the robbery occurred, but though servants were in the house at the time no one seems to know how the thief entered.

TWINS INSEPARABLE

Lord Hopetoun and Brother do Eton, Oxford, Guards Together

London.—Not even the army will divide the "inseparable twins" of Britain's aristocracy—the Earl of Hopetoun and Lord John Adrian Hope—who have just been jointly gazetted as second lieutenants in the Scots Guards.

The Earl of Hopetoun and Lord John, who celebrated their coming-of-age on April 7 this year, have been inseparable all their lives. At Eton they were placed next to each other in form order and they finished up together. When they left they went up to Oxford together.

Each obtained distinction in games.

DOOM TALL SIGNPOSTS?

Motorists Dislike Height, Relic of Old Horse-Coach Days

London. — Britain's tall highway signposts, relics of the old horse-coach days when they were put at a level convenient for the driver on his high box, will disappear in favor of indicators not more than 3 feet 6 inches above the crown of the road of the minister of transport adopts the recommendation of a departmental committee on traffic signs.

The main objection to the present signpots is that it cannot be illuminated by motor-car headlamps, and is therefore almost useless to drivers at night.

AFRICAN KING'S KIN KIDNAPPED IN DUBLIN

"Little Boy Blue," From Abyssinia, Recovered in Nursing Home

Dublin. — International complications may follow the kidnapping here in the suburb of Laoghaire (Kingstown) of a four-year-old lad related to the Emperor of Abyssinia and known locally as "Little Boy Blue" from the fact that he is always dressed in that color, from sandals to cap.

Little Alexis was out walking with his grandmother, Madame Julia Ydlibi, when a man leaped out of a passing motor car, slashed the woman across her hand to make her release her grip of the child, grabbed the youngster and dashed into the car. The child kept wailing, "Mama, mama," as the auto sped away.

Little Alexis was finally traced by detectives to a nursing home in the Phibsborough section of Dublin. The proprietress, charged with unlawfully harboring, was remanded on bail pending further efforts to locate the kidnappers.

The child's mother, Mrs. May Ydlibi, is the daughter of a British subject who was a high official at the court of Menelik, King of Abyssinia.

IS FOURTH OF NAME TO SERVE IN ARMY

Captain's Father Joined at Eight, Got Medal at 11

Buxton.—Captain William McIntyre—the fourth William McIntyre in a direct line to serve in the British army—was presented to the King when the latter visited the Duke of Devonshire at Chatsworth House.

The first William McIntyre joined the colors in 1806 and was invalided out of the army after wounds at Vimiero, but after the escape of Napoleon from Elba re-enlisted and fought at Waterloo.

His son, the second William McIntyre, was a color-sergeant in the 95th foot and carried the Queen's color at Inkerman on Nov. 5, 1854.

The third William McIntyre and his brother, James, were specially enlisted by dispensation of the war office at the ages of eight and 10 years in 1855. They served as drummer boys during the Indian mutiny, gaining their medals at the ages of 11 and 13 years.

Captain McIntyre himself joined the Sherwood Foresters from the Duke of York's school in 1890.

BRING KEYHOLE TO COURT

London.—A bedroom door was produced in the divorce court yesterday and the judge (Lord Merrivale) and counsel examined the keyhole, through which private detectives had looked to get evidence for the plaintiff. The judge granted the divorce.

TREND TO DICTATORSHIP SEEN MENACING FREEDOM

Results of World War Won't Maintain Selves, Round Table Warns

URGES ACTION

London.—Pointing out that "dictatorship or reaction in some form is now in the saddle over about two-thirds of the world," the Round Table, quarterly review of imperial and foreign affairs, in the leading article of its current issue declares it is essential that responsible citizens of the empire seriously consider how freedom is to be preserved.

"Many have asked themselves during the last few weeks," the article declares, "whether the victory of 1918 has not been almost undone. While the principal allies, as they were known during the war, France, the British Commonwealth and the United States, are still wedded to free institutions much of the rest of the world, Russia, Italy, Turkey and now Germany have apparently thrown them over and substituted dictatorship in some form in their place.

"They have not restored their pre-war forms of government but created entirely new systems, communism and fascism, with different ends in view but equally based on dictatorship by a single popular party. Does this mean the theatre is set for another world war between tyranny and freedom? It is by no means certain that this conflict need arise. It depends partly upon what communism and fascism evolve into and partly on how the countries still wedded to the parliamentary and liberal system react to the terrific stresses of the present age.

Must Face Problem

"It may be that the existing phase of dictatorship in Germany and Italy, and even in Russia, will pass away. It may be that there are elements in the experience of Russia, e.g., planning, or of Germany and Italy, e.g., national discipline, from which the liberal powers may have something to learn.

"But it is obvious that the complacency with which people, at least in the British commonwealth and the United States, have assumed the results of victory of 1918 would maintain themselves is no longer justified and that they must seriously consider how freedom is to be preserved in the world of to-day."

For the future, the article says, "we can no longer take for granted that there is going to be steady progress along democratic lines all over the world, that international trade is destined to recover, that we can maintain the broad type of economic civilization which has existed hitherto while improving it in detail, and that the nations are going to disarm because they are learning how to solve their differences by pacific means under the covenant of the league or the Kellogg pact.

"The prevailing tendency is for nations to become more 'autarchic,' and self-contained and to move away from international trade. If this tendency continues it cannot fail to have profound consequences both in the external and internal policies of the Liberal powers.

Must Defend Freedom

"However anxious they may be for disarmament, and for lower tariffs and freer trade, they may be forced to admit that the defence of freedom from external menace must become their primary concern. And the drying up of international trade may compel them to a degree of internal economic reorganization and planning, on lines not unlike those advocated both by socialists and fascists, as the only means of adapting their own economic life to what is going on in the rest of the world.

"At the moment the essential thing is to do everything possible to support the league of nations and the Kellogg pact. The league indeed is more important than ever. For however their internal structure may differ, it is essential that the nations shall continue the habit of sitting round a common table to discuss their hopes and fears and needs.

"Nothing short of this will bring home to all the necessary limits of national policy, both political and economic, in a congested world. The future of civilization clearly depends upon the nations developing some system for the pacific settlement of disputes, and some economic organization enabling nations to live in reasonable prosperity. But if it is impossible to organize the whole world for these purposes, then the liberal powers ought to organize their own portion of it, so that freedom and prosperity may be assured within it."

MOTOR BOAT WEDDING LEGALITY IS DOUBTED

Skipper Performed Ceremony Outside Three-Mile Limit

Ramsgate.—Doubts have arisen as to the legality of the marriage of Samuel Clark and Florence Brice who went through a ceremony in a motor boat near the East Goodwin lightship after it had been discovered that their wedding could not take place in church owing to an oversight concerning the banns.

The ceremony was performed by the skipper of the motor boat, George Neame, outside the three-mile limit.

Only in extenuating circumstances is a marriage at sea valid under English law, jurists say, adding it is doubtful whether a ceremony performed by the skipper of a motor boat, even outside the three-mile limit, can be upheld.

SUN-RAY LAMPS BEAM AT PRO-NEGRO DANCE

While Bathers Pad Across Ballroom—Augustus John Among Guests

London.—Miss Nancy Cunard, daughter of Lady Cunard, one of the leading hostesses in London defied racial prejudice the other night by giving a dance for negroes and whites in the sun-ray and bathing department located in the basement of a London hotel.

Guests paid three-and-sixpence for admission. The proceeds, after expenses were deducted, were sent to America to bolster the defence fund of the seven negroes who have been on trial for their lives at Scottsboro.

All the sun-ray lamps were left on, and bathing proceeded side-by-side with dancing in an atmosphere which was tropically hot.

It was more than that. It was exotic. Augustus John, the artist, leaned against the bar, breathing air that was practically solid with smoke and enthusiasm, and surveyed a series of moving pictures which must have inspired him.

Every now and then a bather would pad his damp way across the dancing floor to resume his clothing. Every now and then an almighty splash would cover the onlookers with a cool spray.

Miss Cunard, dressed in black with an enormous ivory bracelet on one arm, stood as a rallying point for the races which danced and chattered in the cause of her negro martyrs. She has been the object of hostile criticism in America. She has quarrelled with her mother. But she would sacrifice and endure anything for the advancement of her beliefs.

AIR DEFENCE NEEDED SAYS HITLER'S AIDE

Army and Navy Not Enough Protection, Declares Herimann Goering

CIVIL SERVICE GOOD

Berlin.—As long as the nations of the world disregard the principle that bombing 'planes must be renounced and decline to grant Germany at least a minimum air defence service, it is ridiculous to speak of disarmament.

This is the attitude of the Hitler government as expressed by Herrmann Goering, minister of aviation, in an exclusive interview.

In speaking of aviation, military or civil, Goering obviously deals with a subject close to his heart.

False Impressions

In vibrant sentences, Goering declared that he would "ceaselessly protest against the false impression—nay, against the outright lie—that Germany's army and navy provide her adequate defence."

"These two branches," he said, "offer only a horizontal defence on land and water. The vertical defence—that is, upward into the air—is completely lacking.

"Whatever power wants to attack Germany need only close the frontiers and then send bombing 'planes against which we are helpless. The absence of a vertical defence utterly neutralizes the possession of horizontal defences. On water, one has to meet attack with water-craft; on land, with land forces; in the air, one needs 'planes.

Excellent Civil Service

"Germany to-day," continued Goering, "has only a civil aviation service, but it is an excellent one. My program is to keep this force efficient, to maintain a 100 per cent. integrity and promptness of traffic. We are planning to concentrate development on the adoption of multi-motored 'planes to minimize the danger of accident, always present in a single-motored machine. We are also conducting constant researches in blind flying, and in special means of combatting the icing of a 'plane's wings."

At the conclusion of the interview Goering was asked a question about some splendid old weapons which hung on the wall—true collector's treasures.

"Yes," he said, "they are my hobby. I am sorry that you have not the opportunity of seeing my collection. It is at the palace into which I am moving now—the palace of the Prussian premier."

One item of the collection Goering carried at his own belt. It was a short dagger in a beautifully-wrought silver sheath.

FOOTSTEPS OPEN LATEST IN DOORS

The "automatic door-opener," which takes count of the speed at which each individual approaches it, is a feature of an exhibition at the Science Museum, London.

The door remains open long enough to allow a person approaching slowly to pass through in comfort, and yet isn't kept open unnecessarily long for a quicker walker.

SELLS SKULLS, BONES ALL THROUGH WORLD

Paris Man Has Strange Workshop—Clients Are Hospitals and Museums

Paris.—In a narrow street off the Latin Quarter are two rooms on an upper floor stacked with human bones and skulls.

It is the home of what must be the strangest workshop in the world.

A skull hanging outside the window over the street is the owner's trade sign. He is Henri Lavalette, who has practically a monopoly in the world trade in skeletons.

"Skeletons from all over the world are sent to me to prepare for museums and hospitals," he says. "I export finished skeletons everywhere. You can buy skeletons anywhere, but I'm the only man in Europe who knows how to prepare them.

"Once a French surgeon whose name is known to all the world came here with a friend to buy a skull.

"'Is it?' I laughed. 'As a matter of fact, it's that of an unknown negro who was killed in a motor accident in Marseilles.'"

In his youth, M. Lavalette studied the violin, but gave that up for the stage. In his spare time he studied anatomy, and after seven years he set up professionally as a dealer in bones.

TULIP HAS 7 BLOSSOMS

Prince Rupert, B.C. — A tulip which has produced seven blossoms this season, four on one stalk and three singles, all of normal size and quality, is the entry of Ernest Allist, local horticulturist, for the floral hall of fame. The variety is a Darwin and the color deep scarlet.

80-YEAR-OLD TO WED GIRL, 22

Charlotte, N.C.—Eighty years old and twice widowed, Austin Mitchell, Alamance county farmer, has turned to the altar once more to free himself from the grip of loneliness. For his bride he picked Miss Lola McBride, 22.

SOVIET AVIATORS IN FLIGHTS THAT BEST OCEAN CROSSING

Have One-Sixth of Earth's Surface as Their Stamping Ground

ALEXEYEV'S STUNT

Moscow.—While the world's attention is fixed on round-world flights, Soviet aviators, with about one-sixth of the earth's surface as their stamping ground, are engaged in heroic flights inside their own country, a few of which are even more dangerous than crossing oceans.

At the very moment that James Mattern, American flier, was crossing the Soviet Union, Russian Flier Anatole Slexeyev was accomplishing the stretch between Sebastopol on the Black Sea and Port Igarka, at the mouth of the Yenesei river beyond the polar circle.

He did the 10,000 kilometers in 13 days without hurry or mishaps, although the route was a brand new one after he left the beaten track at Krasnoyarsk for the north. Alexeyev is one of the Soviet Union's outstanding fliers, possessing an Order of the Red Banner for seven successful Arctic flights.

Heavy Hydroplane

The flight to Igarka was made in a heavy hydroplane, with a crew of four. It received only casual mention in the press here, indeed. Mattern was accorded more space, although normally round-world flights do not stir much interest here.

At the same time Pilot Levanevsky, who has many laurels on his brow for difficult flights, undertook a somewhat different route from the Far South to the Far North. Starting at Sebastopol, likewise on a hydroplane with a crew of four, he headed for Khabarovsk, after which his plans will take him to such dangerous points as Okhotsk, Nogayevo, Providence Bay and eventually Wrangel Island.

Carried Supplies

Besides carrying some supplies to the colony on Wrangel Island, now in its fourth year without contact with the outside world, Levanevsky will investigate conditions for the Kolima expedition of ice-breaker CVheliuskin, which is scheduled to repeat the Sibririakov's feat of a northeast passage from Archangel to the Pacific.

It is interesting to note that the Soviet government, considering the northeastern section of Siberia dangerous, has repeatedly forbidden American and other foreign fliers to attempt it. It has obliged them to follow the regular trans-Siberian route to Khabarovsk instead of the short-cut by way of Yakutsk. Its own aviators, however, are taking the chances which foreigners are not permitted to take.

ROUMANIA'S HEIR POSTMAN'S CHUM

The son of a letter carrier has become the particular school chum of Prince Michael, heir to the crown of Roumania.

What made this possible was the fact that, in order to give the prince competition in his studies, bright pupils were picked from the public schools and formed into a special class. These youngsters go daily to the palace to study under the tutors of their future ruler.

MAY DOUBLE DEPTH OF RAND GOLD PITS

Ice and Blowers Now Necessary to Combat High Temperatures

In 1884 experts declared there was not enough gold in the Rand to make a wedding ring. Yet more than 240,000,000 ounces of pure gold have come from the Rand mines in the last fifty-one years. An output of about 10,000,000 ounces every year continues to be brought up from the mile-deep reef to the crusher houses, to pass from there to the cyanide tanks and the mountainous mine-dumps which make the Golden Rand an inferno of din, smoke, and swirling white ore dust.

Goldfields like the fever they induce, have a way of soaring swiftly to their peaks and then falling off rapidly. California was a great goldfield as pre-Rand fields went, but at its peak in the '50's, it probably never produced more than $65,000,000 worth of metal in a year. To-day the output has fallen to $12,000,000. At its best the Klondyke did not surpass $22,000,000. To-day it has dropped to less than $1,000,000. Cripple Creek never went above $16,900,000; its present figure is $5,000,000.

Is the great Rand itself, now approaching its fifty-second year and still pouring its little bricks of bright new gold into the Pretoria mint at the rate of $120,000,000 in value a year, about to decline? There is no talk of it around the mines, which have already attained the greatest depth in history. Depths nearly twice as great, are now being mentioned. The famous Village Deep, almost in the heart of Johannesburg, has gone down a vertical distance of nearly a mile and a half, and has long been the world's deepest mine, but its neighbours, the City Deep and the Crown Mines, are not far behind it.

Enormous quantities of ice and blowers must be used to combat the high temperatures of these tremendous depths. Broad, high-roofed, electrically-lighted galleries, heavily timbered and concreted, radiate from the deep shafts like underground streets. Long trains of ore trucks rumble along the tramway lines on their way to the hoists. From somewhere far away in this labyrinthine under-world comes the padded thunder of distant blasting. Small blowers, taking the iced air from the big blowers on the surface, keep up a ceaseless monotone at every corner. The temperature is no more than a dull warmth, and there is never any difficulty in breathing, but there seem, nevertheless, to be limits to human endurance at these vast depths.

Everywhere, in these dry mines, the rock has to be kept wet in order to allay the dust and prevent miners' consumption, the scourge of the Rand. The result is a humidity which sometimes causes heat apoplexy. Yet there is talk of going down from the present 7,600-foot depth of the Village Deep, where the natural temperature is 97 degrees, to a depth of 12,000 feet, at which the blowers would have to contend with a rock temperature of 115 degrees. Not long ago the medical advisers of one of the companies announced that it might prove possible to mix the dust with an ingredient which would make it harmless to the lungs, and so enable a dry heat to be maintained; this somewhat tentative announcement was immediately greeted with talk of an ultimate depth of 13,000 feet.

PUT SUN IN "BOTTLE" IS AIM OF SCIENTISTS

One Experimenter Hopes to Use Surplus Light for Night Illumination

Inventions for obtaining power to operate machinery from the heat of the sun's rays have often been patented, but most of them have contained two fatal defects. First of all, the appliances had to be so large that they were utterly unwieldy; also they cost so much that power obtained in this way did not pay; it was cheaper to use electricity or steam.

Important experimental work is being carried out in Canada, Holland and Germany to see whether it is possible to use the sun's heat economically for supplying power. The first experiments are being made to see whether sunshine can be "bottled." That is, can enough power be collected from the sun during the day to provide light during the night?

Heat rays can be concentrated by means of mirrors and lenses; the present scheme is to collect them by means of large white surfaces and to direct them upon boilers, in which they will generate steam. The steam will be used to operate dynamos, and the electricity will be stored in batteries.

UNSPOKEN 900 YEARS EGYPTIAN HEARD AGAIN

Professor Traces Sound Applicable to Hieroglyphics Long Since Deciphered

Cairo.—Egyptian, a tongue heard from before the days of the pyramids down to the middle ages but unspoken for the last 900 years, is giving up the secrets of sounds familiar to Tutankhamen, Moses and his followers and Cleopatra, through research in Coptic documents by the University of Michigan Institute of Archaeological Research.

While many of the writings of the Egyptians have been preserved from the past, on stone and papyrus, the spoken language was replaced by Greek during the years of Greek and Roman power. It was revived later, and as Coptic it persisted until the tenth century. Scholars have been able to translate the written language with exactitude, but have never been able to do more than guess vaguely at how the tongue of the pyramid builders sounded when spoken.

The clues to the Egyptian spoken word are being traced by Professor William H. Worrell, specialist in Coptic. "Copt" is the name now applied to the Egyptian people since their adoption of Christianity, although Christianiyt is not at present the dominant religion of Egypt. Centuries ago, while Egyptian was still spoken, these people developed a method of writing Greek in Egyptian for everyday practical purposes, and to translate Greek religious texts.

To do this the Copts took the Greek alphabet, added six Egyptian sounds and used the combination as a Coptic alphabet to transcribe the current language of the time. In his detective work for forgotten sounds Professor Worrell uses the new science of phonetics, which tells what sounds may be formed in the human mouth and throat and now, and a broad study of all the dialects of Coptic, Arabic and Greek both of the present and as they were spoken and written in ancient days.

By starting with sounds used today in related languages closely observing spelling variations and words borrowed from other tongues, it is possible to trace individual sounds backward in time by processes now known to be scientifically accurate, finally arriving at forms silent for centuries.

FISHERMAN IS DETERMINED

Yellowstone Park, Wyo.—As a fisherman, J. E. Clark, Chicago, visitor to Yellowstone National Park, is persistent if nothing else. For five five seasons Clark has been attempting to land a giant Loch Leven trout. Year after year Clark has stuck to the spot after the fish made away with hook, line and tackle the first time he snagged him. Clark now is planning to go after the giant trout with deep-sea fishing equipment.

LIVERPOOL HAS LOST PHILHARMONIC HALL

Choristers Help to Save Precious Music and Pictures From Flames

Liverpool.—The Philharmonic Hall, for 80 years centre of this city's musical life, was destroyed by a conflagration despite the desperate efforts of a hundred firemen who risked death in their efort to quench the flames.

The blaze was one of the most spectacular sights Liverpool has seen for a generation. For more than a mile round the burning building huge crowds gathered to watch it.

Choristers of the Philharmonic rushed to assist firemen in the rescue of precious music and pictures while the flames roared in the upper storey.

In 20 minutes the flames had won. It was impossible to hope that any part of the old pile would survive. But firemen went on, gamely hoping against hope and fighting the flames, now roaring like a tornado.

Firemen were standing at windows of the balcony inside the building three minutes before the hall became engulfed in flames when the roof collapsed.

The building was in the heart of the hospital area. Window blinds in the Children's Infirmary were drawn so that the patients would not be frightened by the glare of the flames.

GRAPEFRUIT CROP CUT

Havana. — The hurricane which swept the Isle of Pines, Cuba, early in July, destroyed such a large percentage of the grapefruit groves that exports to the United States may amount to no more than 75,000 crates compared with an average of about 200,000 crates, according to a report just made by Consul Harold S. Tewell.

Just Between Us Women

A daily chat with Examiner neighbors conducted by Anne Wilcox

Those who would be successful (and who would not be!) will do well to bear in mind the statement of Samuel Fellows: "Your successful men and women are never chronic grumblers."

• • • • •

There is something about grumbling which saps initiative. The energy of the grumbler is expended in petty protestations. Too little is left to be expended in getting ahead.

• • • • • •

Grumbling is a habit of the mind. It requires no constructive effort to find fault. It is a negative quality and negative things are hindrances. Success is built upon a foundation of constructive thinking and action.

• • • • • •

The more difficult the task the greater the need for optimism, and optimism and negative thinking are as far separated as the East is from the West.

• • • • • •

There are plenty of obstructionists. Grumblers belong to this group. They fail to succeed.

• • • • • •

It takes a certain amount of faith in what one is doing, to have it culminate in success. To fail to believe that one's efforts are worthwhile, or that they can win out is undermining.

• • • • • •

To keep grumbling to others is enervating to them as well as one's self. The grumbler is a stumbling block to success. If a person is in constant contact with another who sees the offside of actions and of people, and who voices these feelings in petty remarks, of a fault-finding nature, he must have a sufficient store of optimism to offset the pessimism or he must have the ability to turn a deaf ear to the grumblings.

• • • • • •

Without protecting himself in some way, he will falter and stumble in the path of success.

• • • • • •

So much does contact with a grumbler do to another. But worse than this is the effect of growling on one's own self. Grumbling signifies that the mind is on the lookout continually for little flaws over which to comment.

• • • • • •

The fault-finding mood blinds the eyes to the perception of avenues to success. These lead one along by the sign posts of faith in the ultimate goal, by determination to win. The stride is definitely set toward success.

• • • • • •

No grumblers lead in such a march; they fall behind. Those who progress steadily have no time to spend in making adverse comments. Their eyes and their minds are more pleasantly occupied.

WEST PUSHED TOO HARD

Defensive overbidding, when it will cost less to go down than to permit opponents to go game, is an important feature of the game. Pushing an opponent who is willing to quit at game, into a slam which you cannot defeat, is unsound strategy that costs money, as the hand below shows. Neither side was vulnerable.

South made an opening bid of 1-Spade. West overcalled with a fine bid of 4-Hearts, hoping to shut out further contracting. Both North and East passed. South finally made a speculative overcall of 5-Diamonds, which West should have passed, and that North would never have dreamed of raising; but West made the sad mistake of bidding 5-Hearts, without holding a single defensive trick in his hand. North ventured to bid 6-Diamonds. East doubled and all passed.

West led his K of hearts. The declarer won with his Ace. He led his lone Ace of clubs, to secure a discard when he was first in dummy. Dummy trumped South's last heart. Upon a lead of dummy's K of clubs the declarer discarded a low spade. He led dummy's only spade. Declarer's Ace won the trick. Dummy ruffed a return lead of spades. The Q of spades fell at declarer's left. It was time to find out how trumps were distributed, although the double made it quite plain that East held the two missing honors. Dummy's 8 of diamonds was led. When East won with his Ace it was clear enough that he also held the guarded Q, or he would have played low.

East led his good Q of clubs. The declarer trumped the trick. Dummy trumped a return lead of spades, leaving the declarer only a single spade, while East held the K-J. East held the Q-7 of trumps, and the declarer held the K-J-9. Dummy held the 10 of diamonds and 3 long clubs.

Dummy led its top club. East discarded his K of spades, as if he did not still hold the J. The declarer had two equally good ways of going for fulfillment of his small slam contract. He could discard his last spade on the good club, as most any other player would have done. Then leading the 10 of trumps through East would enable him to pick up both of that player's trumps. The declarer preferred to be more spectacular. He trumped the good club. Dummy trumped declarer's last spade, to fulfill the contract by a grand coup, when East had to trump a return lead of clubs before the declarer did.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

There are several transparent men in the Hall of Science at the Century of Progress exposition. The one most advertised is the least interesting. Another transparent man shows a model of the circulatory system, with the valves in the heart opening and closing and the blood moving through its appointed channels.

Best of all is an enormous Robot who digests a meal for you. First a portion of food is put in his mouth, which lights up, and he explains the action of the teeth and the salivary glands. The salivary glands digest only the starches, turning them into the simpler sugars. In order to demonstrate this graphically the transparent Robot points to a flask containing starch on the wall beside him. That there is starch in it is shown by the fact that when a drop of iodine is dropped into it the solution turns blue. Now some saliva is allowed to drop into the flask and the digestion of the starch can be seen by the fact that the solution slowly turns white again. Or not so very slowly either, because the action of saliva is very rapid.

Then the transparent man swallows the bolus of food. You see it tobogganing down the esophagus and plumping into the stomach. Here the stomach juices begin to work on it, digesting the proteins by means of hydrochloric acid and pepsin. The stomach also churns it up, and after being reduced to a finely divided, pulpy mass, small pieces of it can be seen shot out of the stomach into the intestine. Here the intestinal juices and especially the pancreatic juices, rapidly convert every food element which has not been acted on by the saliva and the stomach, into material that can be utilized in the body. These chemical processes are also demonstrated, as was the action of saliva, by material in flasks. The action of the panceratic enzyme on fat is shown.

The changes which occur when the food reaches the liver are then described. These consist in preparation, especially of the starches, for utilization in the muscles and nervous system—the conversion of the simple sugar, glucose, into animal sugar, glycogen, and its reconversion into glucose in the muscles, where it is acted on by insulin from the pancreas.

By the side of the platform where this transparent man does his digesting in full view of the audience, is a cabinet showing a number of common articles of diet—lettuce, eggs, butter, meat, milk, bread and fruits. The chemical composition of each food is shown on a placard —what vitamins it contains, what sort of work it does in the organism, whether beneficial or not.

The exhibit is, in fact, a vivid and complete lesson in physiology of digestion and nutrition, including dietetics. There are seats for the auditors, and the lecture room was crowded every time I attended.

Today's Recipes

Summer Potato Salad—Six medium new potatoes, one-fourth cup diced sweet pickles, two tablespoons finely chopped onion, one-half cup diced celery, one-fourth cup sliced radishes, one cup salad dressing. Cook potatoes in jackets until tender. Cool, peel and cut into cubes or slices. Add remaining ingredients and toss together until well mixed. Season with salt and pepper, if desired. Serves six. A novel way of serving the potato salad for a picnic luncheon is to wrap each serving in a large slice of boiled ham or dried beef.

Fresh Fruit Salad—Two medium bananas, four medium oranges, two medium grapefruit, two cups diced fresh pineapple, eight sweet pickles, sliced; three-fourths cup blackberries, two-thirds cup salad dressing (mayonnaise or boiled dressing). Pare oranges and grapefruit and remove sections with a sharp knife, being careful to cut away all white membrane. Cut into three-fourths inch pieces. Peel and slice bananas. Add pineapple, pickles, blackberries and dressing and toss ingredients together carefully with a wooden fork. Serves six.

Rhubarb Frappe.— Three cups rhubarb, two cups sugar, one-half lemon sliced, two cups water. Wash rhubarb and cut in small pieces. Add remaining ingredients and cook until rhubarb loses its shape. Force through a strainer and chill. Turn into the ice drawers of the mechanical refrigerator and freeze to a mush, stirring frequently.

FACTS AND FANCIES

English Onion Pie

One and one-half pounds lean fresh pork, four medium potatoes, two bunches green onions or scallions, four eggs, salt and pepper. Cook pork until nearly done. Add potatoes, cut in quarters, also onions cut in small pieces, using top and all. Add seasonings. Cover with rich biscuit dough and bake until browned nicely, then lift crust from pie, add slightly beaten eggs, replace crust and return to oven until eggs are set. Serve hot.

The Picnic Basket

The luncheon basket for the picnic should be large enough to hold the food without crushing it. Metal containers that can be scalded or wicker baskets that can be aired are best, providing they contain holes for ventilation. Heavy or bottled articles that will not crush should be placed on the bottom. Salads can usually be packed in jars or large-necked bottles. Others items of food like sandwiches, vegetables and whole fruits should be wrapped separately in waxed paper.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

A sleek-haired young screen actor who was recently elevated to stardom because of his exceptional acting abilities, says that he considers suntanned skin a distinct feminine liability. This lad, who is said to receive more female fan mail than any other cinema sheik on the coast, like his women fair of skin. And he thinks that a suntan definitely detracts from the average woman's charm.

That, of course, is merely his opinion. Some women really do look attractive with golden-bronze skin tones. But I've got to admit that he's right about some femmes. For there are girls who simply do not tan attractively. You'll find in this class the girl whose skin becomes only red upon exposure, and then resumes its normal hue; the girl who freckles badly even as she tans; and the girl whose skin takes on merely a drab, dirtyish color. Such girls are wiser if they don't attempt to acquire suntans. Isn't that so?

If you don't desire to become suntanned, however, you have to master the technique or protecting your skin. Always guard your face as much as possible from the direct rays of the sun. Wear broad-rimmed hats as often as possible. You'll find them smart for wear on the street as well as on the beach. And utilize those colorful beach umbrellas, if you're at the shore.

In addition, you must protect your skin through the use of a good cream, if you wish to preserve your camelia-white complexion. Always, before going out into the sunshine, apply a generous coating of some good sunburn-preventive cream, or a heavy cream or powder base to your face. Over this apply your make-up, including a generous coating of powder. You won't look ghost-like if you use proper cosmetic shades and blend your make-up skillfully. And these preparations will form a protective coating to guard your tender skin from the sun's burning rays.

If you desire to preserve your normal skin coloring during the summer, another thing you can utilize is a good bleach. This will remove all discolorations from your skin. Be careful, however, never to use the bleach if your skin is burned or irritated. And use plenty of nourishing cream after the bleach, in order to counteract any drying effects.

OUR MAIL

Dear Anne:

Once when I was quite a child we had quite a popular minister. He had occasion to be absent on a certain Sunday and incidentally had told his supply he would have a large congregation, but on this particular Sunday the audience was much smaller than usual. In some way he heard of it and later the congregation did for he told them that he would far rather they would visit other churches on Sundays he was there than on Sundays he was absent; it really was not polite to either him or his supply.

Later when I was persuaded by a lot of boys to teach their class in Sunday school many years ago, these boys who had been rather obstreperous with teachers after a beloved one had been married were perfectly splendid with me. I went home for my vacation and they were rather unruly with the supply. Of course I heard of it and had a little talk with them on the subject. That trouble did not happen again.

So I thought during your vacation I would write to your supply, out of compliment to you, but between heat and several extra pieces of work, not company either, if I were free a few minutes, I was too exhausted.

Why is it that some of the large Toronto papers are so crowded out with letters and your page gets so few? Perhaps one reason is so many of us are country women who have lots of extra work and there is a greater proportion of town women on the larger papers' list of correspondents.

You certainly seem to understand arranging and decorating a house and all that appertains to it. I envy you, though I do succeed in making a home. I have a conglomeration of furniture and other things treasured books included, ancient and modern. Sometimes I am satisfied—sometimes not. The "not" rules at present for redecoration is needed badly several places and for more reasons than one it is not done. Even the lawns look tattery. All the same it is a HOME, so why worry? When I have that and loved ones and can do a little good in the world, which we try to do, perhaps life is worth living at its worst.

Sometime I will get to see Ad Infinitum. Hope this terrific heat has not impaired her health. There is a Hand that overrules all for the best.

Sincerely yours,
Quid Est.

I wonder if you are not a wee bit discouraged, Quid Est. Perhaps you are not, but when I read your letter, it seemed so. The item you wrote concerning heat prostration is something that many would like to read, I am sure, and so I am printing it in the column on Saturday. I am hoping that now the heat is over for a while, you will have recovered your health again.

Sincerely,
Anne Wilcox

Toronto Scottish-Prince Albert Reds in 2-2 Draw

EASTERNERS FORCED TO SHOW THEIR BEST AGAINST WESTERN CHAMPIONS IN SOCCER FINAL

Defending Champions Twice Come From Behind to Tie Score.

MacDONALD GETS TWO.

Scots Remain Strong Favorites to Retain Canadian Honors.

WINNIPEG, August 4. — Toronto Scottish, defending champions, came from behind last night to earn a 2-2 draw with Prince Albert Reds in the first game of the Dominion Football Association finals here. The Scots trailed 1-0 at half-time, and were again one down midway through the second half.

Strong favorites to retain their Canadian title in two straight games the brilliant team from the East was forced to call on all its finesse and attacking power to pull out a tie with the fighting, sharpshooting challengers from Northern Saskatchewan.

Once into their stride the Scots made the play their own way. They attacked brilliantly with a short passing game that baffled the Reds, tied up the half-line defences, and bothered the rearguard. But its very intensity opened paths for the Western champions to return the drive.

Hector MacDonald, veteran Scottish inside, drove home both Toronto goals. His first, 15 minutes after the start of the second half, put the Scots on even footing with the Reds for the first time and his second tied the count for good.

Westerners Score First

Prince Albert scored the only goal of the first half after a persistent attack had upset the Scottish defence time after time. Makepeace headed in the ball on Duffield's centre from the left touchline.

After Hector MacDonald had evened the count early in the second half, the Northern team came back brilliantly to again take a lead. Boyd drifted a corner kick into the Toronto goal. It was all Scottish thereafter as the champions went all out to get a draw, and MacDonald's second tally climaxed a thrilling assault. It came 15 minutes from the finish.

Three thousand fans were in the stands as title play got under way shortly after eight o'clock.

The second game of the series is to be played on Saturday with the third now necessary on Monday.

Both teams opened with fast play and the net guardians were forced to quick action. Duffield and McMillan were through the Scottish defence, but bungled a good chance. Scottish took possession, and Hector MacDonald drove in a hard one at Milne. McCubin miskicked, and Petterson shot over.

The Western champions were pressing, with Duffield, McMillan, and Makepeace showing their best. Makepeace was fouled on the fringe of the penalty area. Boyd missed another good chance, and Wallace again saved well from McMillan. In the next minute Duffield missed the upright. At this stage Prince Albert's defence was hard pressed, but recovered.

Duffield whipped one from the left, and Makepeace headed into the net at the 30-minute mark to give the Reds the lone goal lead.

Scottish Exert Pressure.

Weir blocked Gillespie in the opening pay. Scottish played splendidly in mid-field, but finished poorly. Patterson spoiled a good chance when he handled, and in the next minute Boyd handled to stop MacDonald from going through. At this stage, the Scottish were all over their opponents, but each breakaway by Prince Albert was dangerous.

MacDonald on the right wing forced the play that brought home the equalizing goal at the end of 15 minutes. Hector MacDonald crashed through a shot after Milne had saved twice in quick succession.

Prince Albert were pinned in now and only occasional raids relieved the pressure.

Boyd played Prince Albert into the lead when he connected from a corner kick. Scottish were dictating the play, but the City was scoring the goals. Duffield passed up on an open goal when McMillan raced clear of the defence. Following a scrimmage in the Prince Albert goal mouth Hector MacDonald placed the team on equal footing at the 30-minute mark.

Big Season for Jewish Players

This year probably boasts more Jewish players in the International League than any other previous season, although there are only four.

Goldstein hurling for the Toronto Leafs, Goldman holding down the shortstop position for Montreal, Rosenfeld in the outer gardens with Jersey City, and Grossman, an infielder with the same club, comprise the quartet.

The first named has been pitching effectively, though of late he has seen little service, due to a lame shoulder. As soon as he is able to take his regular turn in the box, however, the Leafs will have a decided asset to the pitching corps. Goldman, who hails from Cleveland, has proven himself quite a fielder, but his hitting has not been any too strong. Rosenfeld has given Jersey City much added punch, while Grossman has been active with the bat.

NEWARK BEARS INCREASE LEAD TO FIVE GAMES

Broaca and Brennan Give Brilliant Mound Displays for 4-3 and 9-3 Wins.

GAMES POSTPONED.

By HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

If the Newark Bears win the International League pennant again this year, Harvard and Yale will have to be given an assist apiece.

First it was Charley Devens of Harvard whose pitching exploits helped the Bears in their pennant drive. Now it's Johnny Broaca of Yale.

Broaca pitched his second victory in as many stars as Newark swept both ends of a double header with the Montreal Royals yesterday and increased its lead over the Rochester Redwings to five games.

The Yale star found himself in a tight duel with John Pomorski in the first battle, a twilight affair, but emerged the victor, 4-3, when Roy Schalk clouted a homer in the 10th inning.

Don Brennan chalked up an easy 9-3 triumph in the second encounter a night game halted by rain after six innings. He allowed only five hits and struck out six while the Bears were thumping Art Smith for 15 safeties. George Puccinelli led the assault with a triple and two singles. Winsett also clouted a homer in this game, with one man on.

Rain scored a clean sweep over the rest of the League programme for the day.

LAKFIEILD GIRLS WIN CASEMENT CUP

Defeat Selwyn 24 to 20 in Second Game of Playoffs.

LAKEFIELD, Aug. 4.—In a game which only ran seven innings on account of darkness Lakefield girls won the Casement Cup for Selwyn in a game which did not show either team in their best form. Selwyn was rather disorganized before the opening of the game by an accident to their pitcher, Elda Sanderson, while warming up on the diamond, and as Selwyn was short a player, Dell Watson was substituted and while she worked hard, she had not practiced with the team before. However the Selwyn girls put up a good game. The only home run was made by Bernice Abrams. Elsie Tighe had five strike outs and one walk; Gladys McIlmoyl had six strike outs and three walks.

The umpires were W. Elliott at the plate, C. Chittick at bases and D. White on third.

The score by innings was:

Lakefield ........ 6(11)3 0 130—24
Selwyn .......... 3 0 0(11)024—20

Selwyn—A. Wilson, c; G. McIlmoyl, p; W. Elliott, 1b; E. McIlmoyl, 2b; E. McConkey, 3b; E. Elliott, ss; F. Elliott, rf; L. Elliott, lf; O. Watson, cf.

GROVE BLANKS YANKEES FOR 7-0 VICTORY

Breaks Record String of 308 Consecutive Games in Which Champions Have Scored.

CHAPMAN'S ERROR COSTLY

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr., A.P. Sports Writer)

Robert Moses Grove, the lean leaf-hander of the Philadelphia Athletics, to-day had another battered baseball to add to his collection of souvenirs of his outstanding pitching feats.

Yesterday Grove shut out the New York Yankees, accomplishing a feat that had eluded every other American League hurler for two full years and breaking a record string of 308 consecutive games in which the world's champions had scored a run or more. It was a personal triumph for Grove, who had 6,000 New York fans cheering him on through the last three innings and when the last out was made and the A's had won, 7-0, he turned to Max Bishop and demanded the ball.

The brilliant southpaw received considerable aid from Ben Chapman of the Yanks, who committed a gaudy error in the third and handed the A's two runs, and from Jimmie Foxx who clouted his 30th homer with two on; but it was his own ability to bear down in the pinches that decided the issue. He gave only five hits and twice retired Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig with runners on the sacks, fanning the Babe each time.

The defeat put the Yanks three games behind in their race with Washington for the American League lead as the Senators came through with their second victory over the Boston Red Sox, 8-4. The league leaders assaulted five pitchers for 14 hits, their largest total in several days.

The Athletics, in third place, still failed to shake off the threat of the Cleveland Indians, only a game behind. Cleveland continued its heavy hitting against the St. Louis Browns, winding up with a four run outburst in the ninth, and won 7-2. The Detroit-Chicago struggle for fifth place was put Joe Hutcheson, the new Brooklynite, has demonstrated that he can add plenty of punch to the Dodger attack by his feats on the recent road trip. What pleases Manager Max Carey most is that when Joe hits a homer it isn't one of the high looping kind but usually a line drive.

TORONTO PRO TAKES HONORS BY 6 STROKES

Steady Drizzle Throughout the Day Makes Course Several Strokes Longer.

FINAL COUNT 75 TO 81.

TORONTO, Aug. 4—Arthur Hulbert of Thornhill won the open golf championship of Ontario yesterday at the Toronto Golf Club when he defeated Percy Bell of Bathurst by six strokes in the play-off of the tie between the pair at the end of the 36-hole annual medal competition which was staged on Tuesday and which resulted in a tie between the pair at 146, four over par. In yesterday's play-off, Hulbert carded a 75 to an 81 by Bell, but the match was considerably closer than the six-stroke margin indicates.

The match was started amid a steady drizzle, and this continued, with added intensity at times, throughout the first 16 holes of the match and, as a result, the course was several strokes longer than in the championship proper on Tuesday. On the match as a whole, Hulbert deserved to win. He was straighter off the tee, and while Bell was the longer driver, the Thornhill pro generally had the better position for the shot to the green. The weakness in Bell's game was close in, and on the green he tossed away a number of strokes on and close to the putting surface which made his chances of succeeding Willie Lamb as the provincial champion practically hopeless.

While Hulbert won, and deserved to win, the play-off, Bell gave ample proof that he was entitled to a play-off. The course conditions were considerably slower than they were on Tuesday and his putting put him in difficulty a number of times. He lacked the finish around the green and appeared to be unaccustomed to the conditions. Hulbert won the title in 1928 and tied for runner-up after a play-off in 1931, while Bell was in the struggle for the first time. Steadiness was a prime factor in the play-off and in this department Hulbert was much the better. The cards:

Brintons Beat Port Hope In Exhibition

The Brinton Carpet Girls gave the visiting Port Hope Girls the small end of a tidy argument last night at the Bowl trouncing them 12 to 4 in a return exhibition game that attracted a poor crowd. Genevieve Mann on the mound for the winners had an edge on her opponent, M. O'Neil, pitching a smart brand of ball that was hard to hit. Her teammate Betty Goldie secured the big hit of the battle when she connected for a homer in the second.

SENATORS LOOK LIKE TARGET OF OPPOSING CLUBS

AN UNPOPULAR CLUB

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Special to The Examiner

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Nobody will admit it. As a matter of fact, it is probable, that nobody even recognizes the symptom.

Nevertheless, there's supposed to be a definite though unspoken idea in the minds of seven American league ball clubs, which summed up would tell its story in two, succint words: Beat Washington!

The Senators may or may not beat the Yankees out of the pennant this time. If they do, there won't be the usual celebration over the downfall of a champion. If they don't they'll mourn alone.

Anyhow, that's the story being told around the circuit nowadays. No one naturally wants to see the Yanks win again, since they've been in there more than their share of times in the last twelve years. But in a choice between a champion they fear and a contender they don't like they'll take the Yanks and no questions asked.

The result is that everybody is fighting them every step of the way, conceding nothing and yielding only when the numbers are up. The White Sox, for instance, pitched Walter Miller out of turn relently in Washington, and the left hander beat the Senators in two games, the first and fourth of the series. The White Sox do not like the Senators. If they did, they would not be pitching men out of turn against one contender, with the result that he was not in shape when the Sox went to New York to face the other.

I do not know why the American league is supposed to be inimical to the Senators, beyond the comparatively routine fact that Detroit and St. Louis might be more than normally interested in winning there. The former, for example, is managed by Stanley Harris, a dismissed Washington manager. The Browns, at the same time, have a good many Washington refugees on the pay roll and the legend is that the scorned athlete goes about thenceforth with malice in his heart.

There isn't any accounting, however, for the attitude of the other clubs except by the allegation that the Senators are personally unpopular through the circuit, an exception being noted in the case of Joe Cronin, the player-manager. They say Cronin is all right but they don't go for some of the others, notably Manush and Myer. This pair, it seems, has been handling some of the opposition in no refined way, with the result that words have been bandied and threats freely aired.

Of course, it was indicated in the Myer-Chapman brawl that brought on a riot between the Senators and Yankees, there is the inevitable two versions to any given incident. But most of the league seems to have seen only one, which brings us back to the original contention about the Senators and the pennant:

If they win it, they'll earn it.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

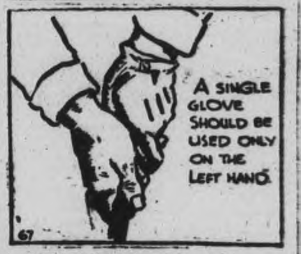
By ALEX. J. MORRISON



A SINGLE GLOVE SHOULD BE USED ONLY ON THE LEFT HAND 67

ALEX MORRISON says:

The idea of using a glove is an excellent one, particularly when the glove is used on the left hand.

The glove increases the efficiency of this hand, both in holding the club and in swinging it. It also strengthens the hand during the swing.

For this reason, when using but one glove you should never wear it on your strong hand.

If your right hand needs a glove for some reason then be sure that you wear one on your left hand at the same time.

This will at least maintain the same relation between your hands as exists without gloves.

CUBS-CARDINALS GAIN ON LEADERS

St. Louis Defeats Pirates 4-1, While Chicago Wins From Reds 2-1.

(By Canadian Press)

The Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals, third and fourth respectively in the National League gained on the pace-setting New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates by winning the big games in the senior circuit.

The Cards smacked Bill Swift for four runs in the fifth and sixth just before a heavy rain cut the contest short, and defeated the Pirates 4-1.

Charley Grimm, Chicago manager, picked the most effective time to deliver his first homer of the season, hitting it in the eighth inning of a mound duel between Guy Bush and Paul Derringer to give the Cubs a 2-1 victory over Cincinnati. The Reds took another severe blow when George Grantham, star infielder, fractured an ankle sliding into third in the seventh inning.

The Giants' game with Philadelphia was postponed because of threatening weather. The Boston Braves and Tom Zachary accounted for the other contest, beating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3-0, as the veteran southpaw allowed only two singles and didn't let a Brooklyn runner get past second.

WRESTLER SAVED FROM MOB FOLLOWING TORONTO MATCH

Police Protection Necessary as Hostile Crowd Hurls Rocks at Conqueror of Malcewicz — Roughness of Bout Arouses Ire of Fans.

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—Gentleman Jack Washburn beat Joe Malcewicz in the main bout of the wrestling show at the Maple Leaf Gardens last night, but he was fortunate to escape the wrath of a raging crowd that adopted mobbing methods after his rough and tumble ring tactics.

Washburn escaped to the dressing room unharmed through a double queue of policemen who guarded his path while he missed the various missiles aimed in his direction.

Washburn had roughed his way through a three-round give-and-take tussle, and the crowd was infuriated by his repeated rough methods.

Dropped By Punch.

The fans were shouting for Malcewicz to get even, to retaliate and win, and when he was dropped to the carpet by a short punch, the storm broke. Papers, programs, peanuts and everything loose and small enough to throw was heaved at Washburn, and included in the ammunition were several rocks.

The police cleared a path around the ring for Washburn to get to his dressing room, but not before he had picked up a stone, the size of a baseball, off the mat. The stone bounced into the ring from a nearby seat, and others followed.

One rock went far wide of Washburn, its intended target, and hit Montague, who was sitting in a seat behind the boxes in the crowd. It was only after considerable confusion that he was carried to a room. Dr. Barton of the Ontario Commission attended him, and despite much loss of blood the wound was stitched.

Laid For Referee.

The crowd waited around the Arena exits long after the match was over, trying to get at Washburn, and a large contingent of police was busy clearing the doors. Some citizens tried to attack Referee Jack Forbes on his way to his room, but he escaped without much trouble, most of the attention of the crowd being directed at Washburn. Arena officials, remembering the riot at the Mutual Street Arena about a year ago when Howard Cantonwine was injured by a thrown pop bottle, took all precautions to protect Washburn, and he was smuggled out a private exit away from the mob.

The match revived a lot of the lost interest in wrestling, attracting a crowd of about 6,000—the largest of the summer season and about the best for the Shamrock A.C.

REAL VETERAN IS DOROTHY HURD

Former Canadian Champion Wins Griswold Cup for Third Time.

Hundreds of former Canadian golfing friends and admirers will extend hearty congratulations to Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd in winning the Greswold trophy, one of the most coveted trophies competed for by the United States women players. Very graciously she returned the cup which became her property as a result of her third victory, to be again competed for by the women golfers of America.

Mrs. Hurd, who now resides in Philadelphia, has been actually playing in championship golf for forty years and has more cups and medals and trophies than any golfer in the world—man or woman. She is the only player ever to have won the British, Canadian and United States Ladies championships. As Miss Dorothy Campbell, she came out to Canada from her native Scotland and resided for a year or so in Hamilton, Ontario. It is not generally remembered that in collaboration with Miss Florence Harvey of Hamilton, former Canadian lady champion now residing in South Africa, she started some 25 years ago the first golf magazine in Canada, but the time was not propitious for such a venture, as golf was played but little in this country in those days and the venture was not a success. Mrs. Hurd, who plays just as good a game today as she did over 30 years ago, besides playing golf is also an authoritative writer on golf. She contributes articles to several magazines of note from which she derives a very satisfactory livelihood.

ORAL HILDEBRAND READY TO BE GOOD

Ace Pitcher of Cleveland Indians to Rejoin Club in Detroit Sunday.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4(A.P.)—The pipe of peace passed yesterday between young Oral Hildebrand, pitching ace of Cleveland Indians, and Walter Johnson, the Tribe's new manager, three days after Hildy had been fined $100 and suspended for a display of temperament.

Peace moves were rapid yesterday after Hildebrand arrived in Cleveland to see General Manager Billy Evans and tell his side of the story.

At the end of an hour and a half conference with Evans, Hildebrand emerged from the big boss' office with this terse statement:

"I am prepared to wire Johnson immediately at St. Louis that I am ready to go to work and pitch to win."

Reached in St. Louis, Johnson said he would be tickled to death to receive such a message from Hildy, and apparently it was forthcoming, for the Big Train wired the Cleveland News late yesterday afternoon:

CALEYS SPLIT LEAGUE POINTS WITH ELECTRICS

Scots Field Eight Players Against League Leaders' Full Eleven.

C.G.E. 2, CALEDONIANS 2.

Good fortune smiled upon the Canadian General soccer team last night when Lovatt scored the equalier with only eight minutes to the finish. The Scots had eight men against the league leaders' full eleven and were leading 2 to 1 before the C.G.E. got the one point goal.

*—Home and home games count 4 points to save double trip.

Defensive Against Offensive

With eight men against eleven, the Scots faced an uphill battle to indulge in defensive tactics to hold the C.G.E. front line from penetrating the goal area. With Adkinson and A. Downer, at full back, they played well out to permit their custodian to handle all shots ranged at him. After McCracken had cleared from a melee in front of his own goal, he carried the ball right into the C.G.E. goal to miss the target by inches. No less than five flag kicks fell in favour of the C.G.E. Lovatt failed to place the ball near goal but Jones took the next one to leave McMaster head a splendid effort into Curtis, Scots' goalie's hands. The Scots replied with many dangerous raids to keep the ball travelling from end to end. On one occasion, the C.G.E. forwards worked inside the Caley's defense to leave McMaster in possession of the ball. He let drive at close range but Curtis pulled off a spectacular save to keep his team on level count. The same performance was enacted at the other end, when Dyer dribbled his way through all the opposition to finish with a rocket drive that Bolton cleared up-field. Jones trapped the ball from the air to send his pivot man in between the Scots' full backs. A. Downer made a desperate attempt to kick the ball clear as McMaster shot his foot out in front to divert the ball into the net through Scots' goalies arms. C.G.E. 1, Caledonians 0.

Scots Leading, 2 to 1

On resuming, the losers endeavoured to gain the equallizer and were successful when Rankin accepted a pass from McCracken on the right wing. Blowers intercepted the play by the Scots' centre man, gained possession, and rattled the ball into the net for the equaliser. At this point, the Caledonians were holding their own against the C.G.E. with Curtis, Caley's goalie giving a great display of goal-tending when he saved time and again from Mitchel, Quinn and McMaster in many scrimmages in front of goal, Adkinson and Downer repelling their attacsk to feed the three forwards, Rankin, Dyer and Dickson, that made things interesting in the vicinity of the C.G.E. goal. A surprise was created when Rankin bulged the net again with a rocket drive that Bolton never saw until it landed in the net. With a goal lead, the Scots fell back on the defensive to permit C.G.E. to force the issue which they did successfully after S. Clark had run down the wing to centre across the ball to Lovatt who saved his team from a defeat. Just before the finish, McMaster worked hard to gain the full points although he deserved a tally when he rattled the cross bar as Scots' custodian was beaten all the way. With only three minutes to go, the Scots broke through again, to be robbed of a counter through offsides. C.G.E. 2, Caledonians 2.

C.G.E.—J. Bolton, goal; J. Mitchell and G. Blowers; full backs S. Clark, E. Jones and R. Cordoroy halves; J. Quinn, A. Mitchell, B. McMaster, G. Lovatt and H. Hotston forwards.

Fosters and C.G.E. are billed to meet this evening in an E.P.L. game at the Exhibition Grounds, last night's tilt being washed out. Next week there'll be two games, one a Foster-Crescent contest and the other a C.G.E.-Foster affair. Then the top two teams will clash in a three-out-of-five series for the loop leadership and the right to represent Peterborough in the O.B.A.A. playdowns, starting two weeks from tomorrow. Looks like Fosters and C.G.E. in the playoffs now.

* * * * * *

Different trophies to be played for around here this month include: C.O.B.L.—Art Johnston Cup; E.P.L.—Tip Top Tailors' trophy; men's softball—W. H. Taylor trophy; girls' softball—Percy Bond cup; Inter-County lacrosse loop—Super-Test Company shield; City Lacrosse—Harold Hill cup; soccer—White Bros. challenge cup, G. N. Gordon elimination trophy, and Father Phelan charity cup. We don't believe there is any City Baseball League one, nor any others we can think of at present.

Oshawa Dukes are here tomorrow afternoon at three in Stevenson Park in an important game, as far as Oshawa is concerned. The Motor City squad is pretty sure of a playoff berth, but New Toronto and Terriers are both fighting hard to get in there. Russ Kitchen will likely twirl for the Petes, while McCarthy will probably see service for a time, too, in order to appear in three games before the playoffs. Can't say who Oshawa will pitch. The Dukes nosed us out in their last appearance here and this game Saturday promises to be a nifty one with the local lads out for vengeance. It's Oshawa's home game.

* * * * * *

Just to put the writer on the Oshawa sports sheet right, we want to state that the Petes were quite willing to go to the Motor City to play this game. Indeed it might have been better if they did get an idea of the Oshawa diamond in case we meet in the playoffs. But the Dukes could see nothing but dollar signs in the July 12th crowd here so they asked to have their game transferred here. Later they tried to hold the local club up for a higher guarantee, and a wire promptly was sent to Oshawa saying "Will play you in Oshawa"—just like that. They then came down in their price and again asked for the game here and the Petes said okay.

* * * * * *

And we might as well correct the Belleville writer too when he scoffs at us for wanting the fifth playoff game on neutral grounds. He says that was never the case with the Nationals, adding that when Belleville "was in pennant-winning form, it mattered not to them when or where they played their games." Oh, no? What about those series for the C.O.B.L. title when Belleville was just as anxious as the locals to have the odd games played in Cobourg and in Oshawa, which they were? And he should be tickled with the prospect of perhaps seeing one good ball game played in the Quinte town this year, if the Petes and Ponies tangle there in the fifth game. Yeah, this weather brings out the sarcasm in us!

Probably the most consistent fielding and hitting player in the Central League is Tommy Foley, local centre gardener. For the past three seasons this young fellow has been starring at bat and out where the grass grows tall. He covers acres of ground and is a sure nabber of anything he can touch in the way of fly balls. He led the loop in hitting last year and is always up around the top. Tommy smashes the ball on the nose, having a great eye, though slow southpaw slants sometimes make him look bad. When he makes up his mind that good hitters find lefthand and righthand hurlers all easy, he'll be an even more dangerous cleanup clouter. Foley is a speedmerchant on the bases and probably the fastest base runner in the circuit. He has shown a lot of good ball with the Petes and has his best years before him yet.

The Protest Committee for girls' softball last night decided that the Keene-Maple Leafs' recently protested game would be replayed next Tuesday at 7.00 in the Bowl. The Leafs won their kick on Dot Gainor, Keene catcher, pouring water on the ball and rubbing it in the dirt before returning it to the pitcher. The obection by Maple Leafs was not made till the last of the ninth—too late then for the umps to do anything about it. Ward and Galbraith were named to handle this contest Tuesday. Brintons go to Keene to-night.

Onemee and Harrison's meet in the first game of their semi-final play-offs for the Men's City Softball League title tomorrow (Saturday) evening at 6.30 sharp. The winners of this three-game series tangles with Sugar Bowl for the city championship. Wild Bill Gallagher or the much-discussed Mister Frank Shine will be blazing the big ball in for the Rural Ramblers, while long Tom Montgomery or Elliott will likely do the Harrison gunning. Should be a great exhibition of men's softball, and the Saturday evening crowd is expected to be an enormous one. Don't forget to drop a nickel or a dime in the coffee pot.

HARRY TUDHOPE TO PILOT TEAM

Bud Fisher was appointed coach of the local junior team, Dinty's Inn, at a meeting of the club last night at Creighton's. Harry Tudhope was named the new manager of the team, provided Ken Sine does not reconsider his resignation within the next few days. This resignation was read at the meeting, as was that of Jack Dundas, secretary-treasurer. W. H. Gerow was appointe the new secretary-treasurer. President Fred Goodfellow occupied the chair and conducted the business.

The matter of Sine's resignation came in for much discussion, and the general feeling was that he had made a hasty decision and might be willing to reconsider it. Several offers were made by others to take over the team, but it was decided that Harry Tudhope would be the manager if Ken Sine allowed his resignation to stand. This was moved and voted upon, as were the coach and secretary-treasure. Letters will be sent to Dundas and Sine requesting them to meet at Goodfellow's and clear up some business details in connection with the club. Other matters of minor importance were discussed before the meeting adjourned.

MARTIN MEETS SEATTLE STAR AT VANCOUVER

Toronto Player Favored to Win After Nine Years' Playing.

FRESH FROM U.S. TOUR.

Ossie Ryall of Vancouver, and John Murio in Other Bracket.

By CHARLES EDWARDS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver Lawn Tennis Club, Vancouver, Aug. 4.—Walter Martin of Toronto faced a difficult hurdle to-day as he continued his ninth attempt to win the Canadian tennis crown. The former Regina flash was opposed in a feature semi-final match by hard-hitting Mel Dranga, of Seattle, champion of Washington, Utah and Idaho states.

For nine consecutive years, the tall, powerful Martin has started with the pack in the national singles but always he has been beaten by a better man. This year, however, he is favored to win the championship that has eluded his grasp so long fresh from six weeks of first-class competitive tennis in eastern United States capped by a victory over the Canadian Davis Cup star, Gilbert Nunns, in the Ontario tournament. Martin is an experienced and capable player, far superior to his 1932 rating.

Ryall in Other Bracket

Martin's match with Dranga headlined to-day's program but the other semi-final between Ossie Ryall of Vancouver, ranked sixth in Canada, and the San Francisco Hawaiian, John Murio, promised a good exhibition. Murio defeated Ryall in the final of the British Columbia clay courts singles two weeks ago but the Canadian is more dangerous on grass and is conceeded a good chance to upset the powerfully-built Hawaiian.

In the womens' singles, Canada's third ranked player, Mary Campbell of Victoria, was drawn against the young Santa Monica girl, May Doeg; while the favored Gravy Wheeler of San Francisco, opposed Dorothy Bundy, Santa Monica.

Two good men's doubles matches were assured in the semi-finals with the Davis Cup pair, Walter Martin and Dr. Jack Wright, drawn against Dranga and the Portland junior, Wayne Sabin. Marcel Rainville and Laird Watt of Montreal, seeded second, were opposed to Murio and his San Francisco partner, Martin Kenneally, British Columbia champions.

OSHAWA HERE ON SATURDAY

Both Outfits Primed for Win in Inter-league Fixture.

KITCHEN ON MOUND.

Oshawa Dukes meet the Petes in a scheduled senior inter-locking baseball league game at three o'clock tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon in Stevenson Park. It is Oshawa's home game transferred here, and promises to be as good a battle as that which marked their last meeting on the local diamond. Oshawa won that by the odd run, but the Petes have a better club and should wipe out the memory of that loss tomorrow.

The game has a bearing on Oshawa's race in the West Toronto League, and as these same two teams may meet in the inter-league O.B.A.A. playdowns, a huge crowd of fans will likely be out to look them over Saturday. Both will be at full strength and a classy ball game should be the result.

Knotty Lee expected to start Russ Kitchen on the mound, and may put Gene McCarthy in the last part of the contest. Knox or Mathews are the probable choices for the Dukes, though nothing has been announced yet regarding their moundsman. There is still a mathematical chance of Peterborough finishing its C.O.B.L. schedule in a tie for first place with Kingston. Since Toronto Black Hawks have defaulted their two games to the Lee crew on Civic Holiday, the Petes can win from Oshawa tomorrow and from Terriers Monday, and if Kingston should lose two to the strong New Toronto team on the holiday, the Ponies and Petes would be deadlocked with fifteen wins and five losses each for the season. So tomorrow's game is important for several reasons, not the least of which is the desire of the locals for revenge. It should be a fine old battle.

CROWE'S LANDING REGATTA AUGUST 5

Attractive Program is Planned by Committee for Saturday.

The annual regatta of the Upper Stoney Lake Campers and Cottagers' Association is to be held this year on Saturday afternoon, August 5, on the splendid course off Bellevidere summer resort, Crowe's Landing, and an attractive program of varied aquatic events will provide plenty of color and thrills for the spectators. The Crowe's Landing course which gives the crowd a chance to watch every move in the various races is one of the finest in the district and this Upper Stoney Lake regatta has always been marked by large fields and keen competition. In the evening there will be a dance in the Crowe's Landing Pavilion, with music furnished by a five-piece orchestra. Crowe's Landing will undoubtedly be the rendezvous for most of the Stoney Lake colony on Saturday, while Peterborough people who motor out for the occasion will be thoroughly repaid for the drive.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, August 5

The planetary conditions for this day, both by lunar and mutual aspects, must be interpreted as menacing and detrimental to the successful and profitable trend of affairs, foreboding anxiety in business, employment, labor and certain setbacks or delays regarding property, investments and finances. All call for determined attack and aggressive action as well as alertness to fraud and underhand methods. Legal matters give concern, and also keen distress about elders.

Those whose bitrhday it is are confronted by a year calling for much patience, determination and sound judgment, as employment, business, litigation, and finances, as well as eldery persons, may contribute to unfavorable conditions and peace of mind. Be wary as to fraud, treachery and malice, and exercise great wisdom and cleverness.

A child born on this day may be clever, serious-minded, but secretive, scheming and perhaps unpopular in its associations.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE REVIEWS

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, August 4. — Uncertain which way to turn, the wheat prices shuffled over a 3-cent range here yesterday. Values ended with gains of ⅝c to 1¼c, due to lightness of offerings rather than any definite support. Volume was small and traders apparently were marking time.

Export business was limited to a few small lots and did not figure in the market. Liverpool was indifferent and cables reported a limited interest on the part of importers, due in some measure to the fluctuation of sterling values.

Russia failed to ship any wheat this week, and none left the Balkan countries, while estimated shipments from the Argentine indicated a drop of 1,000,000 bushels from last week.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, August 4. — Lively upturns in wheat prices late yesterday contrasted with an early sagging trend. Consistent buying credited to milling interests appeared to be chiefly responsible, together with bullish crop reports from the Canadian and American Northwest. One authority said 21 per cent. of Canadian wheat acreage had been destroyed. Threshing returns from the United States spring wheat territory pointed to an uneven crop that would run about one-third as large as last year. Wheat closed ⅝c to 1c higher.

Sharp setbacks at the start were associated with lower temperatures North-west and with rains over the Middle West, which many traders assumed would prove helpful especially to the corn crop There were also trade forecasts that would import requirements of wheat for 1933-34 would be the smallest in years. These requirements were figured at 576,000,000 bushels, against 704,000,000 last year, and it was asserted that, owing to determined governmental effort Europe, exclusive of Russia, would raise 6,000,000 bushels more wheat this season than in 1932.

Corn and oats rallied with wheat, but failed to hold as well. Crop comments from the leading corn belt states suggested the bulk of the corn crop was so far advanced now that rain would have little effect.

WESTERN INDIANS PLACATE SUN GOD

Ancient Religious Rites Still Observed by Shoshones.

FORT WASHAKIE, Wyo., Aug. 3 (CP).—Tom-toms throb incessantly, a weird chant rises and falls on the mountain wind, old men look on stolidly from the rim of the dancing ground, and the young braves for three days and nights repeat in their own language their prayer to the great spirit:

"You see my heart; you see my hands are clean; you see I am willing to suffer, to undergo all this for my people, even to die that they may be free from the evil one and that they may be blessed by the giver of life and the protector of our women and children."

It is the annual sun dance of the Shoshones and the Arapahoes, the yearly prayer for health and prosperity, for bountiful crops, rains and good hunting.

Already the call has gone forth for the dances this year. They began July 29, the Shoshones a short distance west of this historic village, the Araphoes a few miles farther south.

The heritage of countless generations of red men, the sun dance is modernized now, but it still retains much of its old flavor.

In a large circular enclosure a centre pole with a forked top is erected, with other poles running from the top of the outside edges to form the shape of a huge tent. Poles are brought from the mountains and stripped clean, and in a kind of sham battle the sun pole is the object of a vigorous attack by the braves to drive out "devils" lurking within.

Original Setup

In olden times the dancers mutilated their bodies by cutting slits in the arms, backs and legs. In many cases pieces of wood were tied in the slits cut in the muscles of the body to test the sincerity and faith of the sun-god worshippers.

Women formerly were not permitted to view the dance, but now they even are allowed a part in the ceremony. They furnish the chant which accompanies the beat of rawhide drums manipulated by old men.

When the first streaks of dawn appear after the third night the chiefs declare the dance ended and the great spirit appeased. Relatives enter the enclosure to drag the dancers aside where a sunken tub holds a concoction of fruit juices and herbs. Famished from the long fast, the dancers fight to get at the tub but are restrained from taking too much.

A feast follows the dance. One prized delicacy is boiled puppies, offspring of the dogs that throng the Wind river reservations.

CANADA IS VERY LARGE WHOLE WHEAT CONSUMER

Canada, for years past, one of the world's leading wheat producers, is now, per capita, rapidly becoming one of the world's leading whole wheat consumers. Evidence of this is provided by estimates made by the Canadian Shredded Wheat Company, Ltd., which show that nearly 2,000,000 Canadian families are to-day including whole wheat items in their daily diets.

Several factors are responsible for this new trend in Canadian eating habits. The first of these, and probably the most important, has been the educational efforts of many medical men and dieticians stressing the wonderful food value of whole wheat when served with milk or cream and fruit. Whole wheat has been noted in that it contains carbohydrates for energy, mineral salts for bone and tissues, vitamins B and E for energy, and bran for regulation.

C. P. R. EARNINGS UP

Heavies Answer To Call Of Cupid

(By DAMON RUNYON)

Herr Max Schmeling is honeymooning.

Mr. Max Baer is re-honeymooning.

Our little old pal, D. Cup seems to reign supreme in fistiana at the moment.

Signor Primo Carnera, heavyweight champion of the whole world, holds out, staunchly cellbate to be sure. But there is evidence that even Signor Primo's fancy had lightly turned to thoughts of that tender passion.

Too much evidence, in fact, if we are to believe that those burning epistles produced in the celebrated breach of promise action of the English lady waitress were from the fine Italian Duke of da Prem.

But, in any event, no legal ties bind old Satch to hearth and home. He is foot loose, if not fancy free. Perhaps he envies the bliss of his contemporaries. I must ask Signor Primo Carnera about this at the first opportunity.

I suppose the most incorrigible bachelor among the heavyweights is Mr. Thomas Loughran, of Philadelphia. No matter who is getting married, Thomas seems to manage to remain single. I understand he has been abandoned by the fair sex of the City of Brotherly Love as hopeless.

Toronto Argonauts At Chicago Regatta

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 (C.P.)—Argonauts of Toronto represented Canada to-day in Chicago's 61st annual amateur rowing regatta to be held in the North Lagoon off Choppy Lake Michigan. Trials in the regatta's eight events were scheduled for to-day because of yesterday's postponement due to high seas and rain.

R. McMillen of Argos will row for Canada in the singles sculls, being paired in the fourth heat with Albert Vogt of Penn. A.C., Philadelphia. Argo's other entry, a team in the doubles sculls, is paired in the first heat with Penn. A.C.

Bill Miller of Penn. A.C. was favored to win the singles sculls and thereby take his fourth United States singles sculling championship. He drew a bye in to-day's trial and will not start until the semi-finals to-morrow.

BOWLING NOTES

(By Herb Martin)

The rain on Tuesday and then again yesterday gave the bowlers and greens a well-earned rest. Ever since May 24th the greens have been in constant use, day and night, and a couple of days' lay-off will do nobody any harm. However, a big turn-out is expected for to-night.

This new system of scoring at these tournaments has helped to keep the crowd coming. The standing has been placed in the clubhouse, and looking it over we find that George Gimblett is leading, while one point behind comes Wm. Zeihr, W. Oke, and N. Killingbeck, closely followed by many more. In order to get these extra points you have to attend the Friday night series. (You know "Bob" is Scotch). Many of the boys are slowly but surely going to cash in on the attendance prize. Roughly speaking there are about twenty-five in the running. We are afraid if this pace keeps up Benny will have to buy more spoons.

So be on time to-night, telephone your name early, and then start immediately for the greens; remember one late member spoils many a good rink.

Wightman Tennis Cup Series To-Day

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Aug. 4 (C.P.)—Feminine forces of Great Britain and United States clash here to-day in the Wightman Cup series.

The British, as in the case of England's Davis Cup team, start the day's play the under-dogs in the two-day series. The American team, led by Helen Wills Moody, ruled a slight favorite to win the series for the third year in succession and for the seventh time since the cup was offered for competition in 1923. Great Britain has won the cup four times.

In point of experience the American squad holds a big edge, for only Alice Marble of Sacramento, rising young singles player, is a new-comer to Wightman Cup play. Mrs. Moody has been on every cup team except that of 1926; Helen Jacobs on the last six and Sarah Palfrey on the last three.

TOO MUCH COLLEGE WASTAGE EDUCATION DIRECTOR SAYS

MANY ARE PLUCKED

TORONTO, Aug. 4. — Approximately 90 per cent. of the students who leave school annually are not immediately interested in college or university admission requirements, G. F. Rogers, director of education, states in the annual report of the Department of Education just issued. During 1932, 17,659 pupils left school and of these 1,865 or 10.5 per cent. left to attend college or universities.

Interest in the matriculation certificates, he says, is due largely to the fact that employers demand them as the measure of the applicants' educational attainments.

Mr. Rogers goes on to say, "Theoretically it should be possible to adopt a school curriculum and a program of tests and measurements which would do three things, viz., provide a good general education, satisfy the public that the holder of a graduation diploma from a school offering this curriculum has had the kind of training which will fit him for a job in the business or industrial world, and, lastly, enable the university or the professional school to select from the graduates of such a school those whose past achievements and mental calibre give a reasonable guarantee that they are the stuff out of which successful professional men are made. Under present conditions, there is too much wastage in college."

Many Freshmen Fail.

Mr. Rogers, referring to the latest report of the president of the University of Toronto, said that out of an enrolment of 929 first year students in the faculties of arts of all the federated universities, 198 failed, 168 were conditioned in one or more subjects and 39 were debarred from further attendance.

After citing other figures as to different faculties, Mr. Rogers proceeds, "As the requirements for admission to the University of Toronto are higher than in any other university in the province, it is not unreasonable to infer that, despite the sorting effect of a rigid and searching entrance examination there are students entering the universities every year who are not of university calibre and who, when the support of the teachers is to a large extent taken away from them and they are left to do a considerable amount of independent work fall down lamentably."

Doubts Value of Latin.

Such students, he believes, are not helped by a taste of college life—the contrary is often the case—and are a financial burden on the state.

At present the Ontario universities require at least one subject—Latin—which does not fit into the core of subjects which should be taken by all students attending secondary schools. "As approximately 43.5 per cent. of the lower school students leave school after one or two years' attendance, and as a very small percentage of those who remain ever reach the university," says Mr. Rogers, "it would appear that unless Latin has some intrinsic value sufficient to justify the time spent on it in the schools by pupils who will never proceed beyond the rudiments of the language, it might properly be omitted from the courses of studies taken by the vast majority of pupils.

"Its value to the student who will discover through it something of the civilization and literature of the ancient world is unquestioned, but this need not concern us here.

"Many of us will remember that after laboriously translating hundreds of lines of the Iliad and the Odyssey we got our first real thrill from Homer by reading Butcher and Lang's translation. One would not advocate waiting until he could read the New Testament in Greek before making his acquaintance with the gospel."

INSTITUTE MEETS AT MT. PLEASANT

Members Decide to Take in Picnic of the Millbrook Branch.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Aug. 4. — (Examiner Correspondence). — The Mount Pleasant branch of Women's Institute held their August meeting at the home of Mrs. Melville Jones on Wednesday afternoon. The president was in the chair. The members gave ready response to the roll call with many time-savers and step-savers in ironing.

Mrs. A. Tully reported as convenor of the committee in charge of securing a suitable play, having written to some and still awaiting a reply.

Miss Mildred Jones reported as convenor of the committee regarding the coaching class. Five girls had attended the class in Millbrook.

An invitation from the Millbrook branch to attend their annual picnic to be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Byam, was accepted.

A discussion was held regarding entertaining some of the branches, and it was decided to invite Omemee and Millbrook branches to attend the regular meeting to be held in the Women's Institute Hall on Wednesday afternoon, September 6th.

On Tuesday evening, August 8th, a full course hot dinner will be served in the Women's Institute Hall at eight o'clock, under the auspices of the local W.I. by a well-known aluminum company, together with a health lecture and a mixed program. The proceeds go entirely to the W.I. sponsoring same.

The Misses Ruth Tully and Mildred Jones were in charge of the program and gave a demonstration in the arrangement of flowers in the home.

Mrs. W. H. Lowes and Mrs. J. Handley assisted the hostess in serving a dainty lunch, while a social half-hour was enjoyed.

Business Looks Up In Hamilton Firms

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 4. (C.P.) —A. V. Young, president and general manager of Hamilton Cottons, Ltd., said to-day that the demand for his firm's product had increased to such an extent that its factory was working at 85 per cent. capacity, and occasionally at full capacity.

A. E. Adams, manager of Canada Cottons, Ltd., said that the firm's Hamilton plant was operating 776 mills, all it has—and could use more. He attributed considerable business to a demand for material used in making overalls.

"Overalls are used for work," he said, "so draw your own conclusions."

TWO FRENCHMEN OVER ATLANTIC FOR NEW RECORD

HAVE WIRELESS SET.

$100,000 Plane Carries 1,770 Gallons Gas—British Record 5,340 Miles.

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Aug. 5 (AP) —A trans-Atlantic flight " to nowhere" began to-day when Lieut. Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, French aviators, took off from Floyd Bennett Field at 4.41 a.m., E.S.T., in an attempt to set a distance record.

They planned to cross the ocean by way of Cape Sable, N.S., and the Great Circle route, and then "just keep going." Persia, Africa, or Russia may be their landing place, they indicated, but they would prefer to land in Karachi, India. Their direction after reaching the Scilly Islands, off the English coast, will be determined by weather.

After British Mark

The record they seek to smash is 5,340 miles, set last February by Squadron Leader Oswald R. Gayford and Flight Lieutenant Gilbert E N. Nicholls of the Royal Air Force. They flew from Cranwell, England, to Walfish Bay, Southwest Africa.

The monoplane of Rossi and Codos is called the "Joseph le Brix" in honor of the famous French flier killed in 1931 and it carried 1,770 gallons of gasoline. This tremendous load led observers to fear a crash on the takeoff, and as a result fire apparatus was assigned to the field, along with police emergency squads.

The Frenchmen were gimly silent and businesslike as they climbed into their ship. They carried an elaborate food supply, prepared by a French chef. It included five boned chickens, two quarts of chicken consomme, 36 oranges, 24 bananas, 24 lemons, eight bottles of water and seven quarts of black coffee.

Their ship—a $100,000 craft with a four-bladed propellor, has a 34-metre short wave set, call F-ALCC, with which they planned to maintain wireless communcation with Paris and other points.

Experienced Fliers

Rossi is an officer of the French Aviation Corps. He is 32 years old, married, and lives in Paris. He was a war flier and has 3,000 hours' flying to his credit. On this flight he is navigating and is serving as radio operator and co-pilot.

Codos is a commercial flier stationed at Le Bourget Field and also is married with a home in Paris. He is 37 years old, learned to fly after the war, in which he served in the Infantry and Artillery, and has 6,000 hours in the air.

Their plane has a narrow body with enormous wings. On the silver sides of the fuselage are painted French and American flags. On the rudder is "Bleriot 110."

In preparation for their hop-off Floyd Bennett officials painted white lines the full length of the field to serve as guides, for the fliers have no vision fore or aft, only sidewise.

FIERCE FIGHTING IN MILK STRIKE

Eye-witness Sees 20 Men Go Down During Hand to Hand Melee.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 5—(A. P.) Fiercest fighting of the five-day old New York State milk strike broke out between state police and milk holiday participants at Oriskany and at Vernon to-day. Six state troopers included Captain Stephen McGrath, hero of the second riot in 1929 at Auburn prison were taken to a Utica Hospital.

An eye-witness of the hand to hand fighting at Oriskany said he saw at least 20 men go down in the melee. Troopers were using their riot clubs, while the strikers hurled stones and swung clubs. The troopers were convoying milk.

At Vernon, Corporal George Coburn was struck across the face fith an iron bar as 100 pickets attacked several trucks guarded by the State Constabulary members. He lost several teeth, said a hospital report, but the full extent of the injuries was not determined.

The bravery of 15-year-old May Garvey, 450 Driscoll Terrace, averted a possible tragedy on the Otonabee near the Hunter street bridge last evening.

Walking down to the water's edge with a companion about 7 o'clock, the girl heard the screams of two 7-year-old youngsters adrift in the deep water of the river in an old punt. The two terror-stricken lads were about to jump into the water in their panic when she plunged into the water fully clothed and, swimming to the punt, brought them to shore unharmed. The little boys were Desmond O'Connor, 7 Cricket Place, and Kenneth Burnham, 5 Cricket Place.

The boys pushed off from the east bank in a home-made boat about four or five feet in length. The current carried it out into deep water, and in spite of Burnham's paddling it was swept across to the raceway near the Quaker Oats factory. Both youngsters shouted for help, and their cries were heard by Miss Garvey who plunged into the river, swam out to the boat and pulled it to shore.

GENERAL TRUCE AT HAND IN U.S. BETWEEN CAPITAL AND LABOR

Leaders Argue With Hugh Johnson on Moratorium on Strikes and Lockouts.

FIRST TIME IN HISTORY.

HYDE PARK, N.Y., Aug. 5.—(A. P.)—President Roosevelt is ready to announce a general truce between capital and labor on all dispute pending establishment of the recovery codes

Representatives of employers and workers on the advisory board of the industrial recovery administration, including the leaders of capital and labor, have agreed with General Hugh S. Johnson, the industral administrator, on a moratorium on strikes and lockouts.

For the first time in the history of the United States, excluding war times, there is the apparent assurance of complete unity in industry in behalf of better days.

The general declaration of peace was presaged early to-day by a truce in the bituminous coal mine war which President Roosevelt won through the appointment of a board of three to settle disagreements while a new order for this industry was established through the industrial recovery administration.

The hard working, direct hitting Hugh Johnson, who worked out this agreement with the President, brought it here together with the general strike moratorium by airplane ride from Washington.

Members of the advisory board who reached the strike and lockout moratorium include the chieftains of employers and labor.

THREATS UNABLE TO HALT STRIKE

Havana Employees Continue to Swell Ranks Already Numbering 24,000.

POLITICS HINTED.

HAVANA, Aug. 5 (A.P.)—Despite Governmental threats to fight strikes with martial law and bans on union meetings, truck drivers, messenger boys, and tobacco workers joined more than 24,000 other employees to-day in strikes that kept most industrial activity at a standstill.

The right to meet peacefully was revoked in orders to police, so further organization of the strike movement, in which various groups seek lower operating fees and increased income, went forward in secret under the direction of a central committee.

Many prominent Cubans professed to see a political implication in the walkouts, which began quietly 11 days ago when bus drivers demanded reductions in permit fees, especially in view of a presidential manifesto saying some acts of strikers were seditious.

This gave rise to a belief the strikes are a passive resistance revolutionary movement and a complication of political troubles which United States Ambassador Sumner Welles has sought to mediate.

POLICE SEEKING NEW PARTY HEAD TEAR GAS CASE

FAKE BOMBS FOUND.

Letter to Friend Causes Guard to be Set at Home of Wanted Man.

NEW YORK, August 5 (C.P.). — Eugene S. Daniel, Jr., of Somerville, Mass., was placed under arrest to-day in a downtown hotel on a charge of placing the tear gas bombs that resulted in the closing of the New York Stock Exchange yesterday.

BOSTON, Aug. 5. (AP)—Eugene S. Daniell, Jr., of Somerville leader of a newly created "Commoners or International Party" was sought to-day for questioning in connection with the tear gas bombing of the New York stock exchange.

Lieutenant Timothy Donovan of the Boston police department ordered Daniell picked up after an investigate revealed the Somerville "Commoner" had sought a pass to the New York exchange.

The arrest of four men in a loft at 161 Milk street headquarters of "The International Party" preceded the order for Daniells arrest.

The four, all greater Boston men were held as "suspicious persons."

A raiding squad found radical literature and three "fake bombs" in the Milk street loft. The "fake bombs" were in packages addressed to President Roosevelt, former President Hoover and the Socialist Presidential candidate, Norman Thomas. They consisted of fuses and alarm clocks. No explosives were found either in the "bombs" or in the loft.

Bought Bombs Months Ago

Lieutenant Donovan said he learned Daniell was in New York yesterday and that he had been known to have bought two tear gas

Radio Commission Abolition Is Urged

TORONTO, August 5 (C.P.). — Early abolition of the Canadian Radio Commission on the grounds that its French policy had been the cause of discord throughout the country and that it had already outlived its usefulness was called for in a resolution passed by the newly organized United Protestant Vigilance Committee, composed of various Protestant organizations, a Toronto newspaper says to-day.

The resolution has been sent to the Dominion Government, the paper says.

A copy of the resolution published in the paper read in part:

"Resolved: That this meeting protest against the policy of the Dominion Radio Commission in continuing French radio programs in Ontario and other English-speaking provinces and thereby encouraging the French hierarchy in their boast that Canada is a bilingual country . . ."

WOLFF ISLAND MAN ARRESTED BY U. S. POLICE

TAKEN TO GANANOQUE.

Threatened to Burn Canadian Estate and Destroy Number of Family.

GANANOQUE, Ont., Aug. 5 (C.P.)—Ontario Provincial Police revealed to-day New York State Troopers had arrested Gordon Dignem, Wolff Island native, and charged him with sending a letter to Mrs. Cleveland E. Dodge, wife of a New York financier, threatening her Goos Island estate would be destroyed and "one very dear to her" done away with unless she delivered $1,000.

Dignem was arrested yesterday at Clayton, N.Y., across the St. Lawrence River from here, and brought to Gananoque for examination he denied knowledge of the letter which was mailed from Watertown, N.Y., July 10, but police said they had established the man was at Watertown on that date.

Police said the letter demanded the money be delivered, part in gold and part in silver, and that it be placed under a stone, 10 feet from a blazed tree on Ant Island.

Mrs. Dodge, whose home is at Riverdale-on-the-Hudson, N.Y., turned the letter over to Ontario Provincial Police, who watched Ant Island for several days.

They said the letter was signed, "The Three Gangsters, Death, Destruction and Fire," and that it was mailed from Watertown, N.Y., July 10. Dignem, they said, was in Watertown on that date.

Police watched the island and campers, and at one time, they said a boat approached, but headed out toward mid St. Lawrence after coming near them.

They said they believed, despite the signature on the letter, it was the work of one man.

RAILROAD MEN FINALLY DECIDE ON STRIKE VOTE

Action Climaxes Nearly Three Months' Dispute on Wage Cut.

BALLOTS PREPARED.

Counting of Votes From 24,000 in Running Trades Will Take Month.

MONTREAL, Aug. 5 (C.P.) — Labor's great weapon menaces Canadian railroads to-day following the decision of chiefs of the Running Trades Unions to take a strike vote at once. Ballots are now being prepared and will be sent without delay to every engineer, fireman, conductor, trainman and telegrapher in the service of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific lines.

Counting of the ballots a month or six weeks from now will decide whether the men walk out or accept the further 10 per cent. wage cut put in effect by the companies a few months ago.

A canvass of the feeling of the chairmen of local unions showed an overwhelming preponderance in favor of a strike vote, and the decision to take it was reached yesterday at a conference of the general chairmen of the unions concerned.

Final Effort

A final effort to induce the railway companies to reconsider their stand on the wage question was made yesterday by the union chiefs and when it failed they announced the strike vote would be taken.

Senator James Murdock, head of the Trainmen, and other union officials expressed the opinion the men would vote in favor of a strike. If they do it will be the first time the Running Trades as a whole have taken such action.

While the 24,000 employees in the Running Trades are registering their strike vote, the Shopmen, Signalmen and Maintenance of Way employees will continue their fight against a similar wage cut. In their cases the issue has not yet reached the stage where a strike vote need be taken, as the law forbids a walkout until a board of conciliation has aired the dispute.

A board investigated the Running Trades dispute some time ago, and found in favor of the railways, but the unions refused to accept the finding and are now free to strike.

Regina's Grain Show Draws To Final Day

REGINA, Aug. 5 (C.P.)—Exhibitors and delegates began leaving the city to-day as the World's Grain Show and Conference prepared to close its doors after two weeks of crowded programs. But visitors lingered on to complete the round of exhibits which remained open although the Conference and Show were officially closed by the Earl of Bessborough, Canada's Governor-General, yesterday.

Presenting the championship awards won during the show, His Excellency declared he could not help feeling a thrill of pride at the fine exhibits he had seen, for they were tangible evidence of the progress Western Canadian agriculture had made in a few generations.

"Nor has the limit of development yet been reached," he concluded, "for it has never been characteristic of the West to stand still."

STRATOSPHERE BALLOON FLIGHT ENDS IN CRASH

ROSE ONLY 5,000 FEET.

Gondola Slightly Dinted—Fresh Attempt is Expected Shortly.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5. (AP)—Man's latest attempt to pierce the earth's atmosphere at a greater height than ever before ended abruptly early this morning when Lieut-Commander T. G. W. Settle came to earth in a Chicago railroad yard A leaky top valve was blamed.

The huge balloon, "The Century of Progress" in which the commander hoped to break existing altitude records and obtain valuable scientific data heretofore unknown to man, descended within about 10 minutes after the hop-off at Soldier Field.

Lieut. Commander Settle was not injured, and the balloon which had risen to a height of approximately 5,000 feet was apparently not seriously damaged when it landed in the yards of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad at 14th and Canal streets. There was a small dent in the bottom of the gondola, however, and it was possible the bag itself was damaged.

He appeared happy over the fact apparent damage was not extensive and expressed hope for another trial even before navy men His ground crew and others, had the big bag packed up.

"I have hopes of attempting the ascension again" he said, "after repairs have been made to the balloon and weather conditions have been checked for a favorable occasion."

Acre of Rubber

The huge hydrogen bag, made up virtually of an acre of rubber was only a little more than half inflated when it rose from Soldier Field.

The gas filled the top, which towered a height equal to 15 stories The envelope folds hung from this inflated portion to the bottom of the bag which was 25 feet above the gondola.

By comparison to the huge balloon, the gondola seemed tiny. It was suspended beneath the hulk by a maze of ropes. As it soared above the rim of the stadium the white upper hemisphere glittered in the beams of huge searchlights which were sprayed upon it.

The envelope darted into the air as soon as its moorings were cut, but it had gone only a little more than 5,000 feet when it began gliding westward on a level. So low was the balloon that it soon was out of reach of the searchlights.

While the crowd was pouring out of the stadium, seeking to get to the street where the balloon might be seen, it disappeared over the towers of the loop. Within a mo-

RABBITS STOLEN FROM HOSPITAL

YEARS OF WORK REPORTED

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 5 (A.P.) — Thirty rabbits and six guinea pigs which had been inoculated with dangerous infectious diseases, were stolen from their pens at the Lincoln General Hospital early to-day, Mrs. Gladys Smits, Superintendent, reported.

Mrs. Smits asked newspapers to publish a warning of the danger of handling or eating the animals. She urged the thief to get in touch with hospital authorities so the health manace might be ended promptly.

The guinea pigs had been subjected to injections for tuberculosis and meningitis. The rabbits were being used in arthritis experiments.

The theft was discovered early this morning when an attendant went to feed the animals.

Hospital attendants said that unless the animals were returned promptly, the value of tests made over a period of one or two years would be destroyed.

BY-ELECTIONS BEEN PUT OFF UNTIL LAST HOUR

BENNETT FAILED.

Liberal Party Stands For Reciprocal Trade Leader States.

(By Ray Brown—C.P. Staff Writer)

ROSTHERN, Sask., Aug. 5 (C.P.).—"The Government has waited until the last hour of the last day of the last month to hold by-elections to fill three vacancies in the House of Commons," Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, told a mass meeting here last night.

The vacancies, he continued, had occurred away back in February or March, and he now observed the by-elections would not be held until the latter part of October.

The Government had put them off as long as possible. "That is the sort of thing a man does when he is drowning," Mr. King said. The fact the by-elections had been put off as long as possible indicated how doubtful the Government felt of the result. It was not unlikely a general election would also be held off, but nevertheless the Liberal leader urged active steps for organization.

Rosthern, where Mr. King spoke, is now in his constituency of Prince Albert, but will not be when a new election comes round.

Boundaries Changed.

The redistribution bill passed at the last session of Parliament changed the boundaries of Prince Albert so as to exclude Rosthern.

The Liberal leader dealt at some length with the change. The effect of the change was that the part which gave him more than half his majority at the last election was put into the riding of Melfort, he declared.

"That is what we call a gerrymander," he continued. "There is nothing fair, nothing just, nothing honest nor honorable in it." And one of its worst features was that the Government had deliberately deprived this part of Saskatchewan

King In 19th Century Is Stubbs' Charge

QUILL LAKE, Sask., Aug. 5 (CP)—Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal Leader, has failed to awaken to the urgent demands of humanity as expressed by the conditions prevailing in the 20th century, L. St. George Stubbs, former Manitoba County Court Judge, declared in a campaign address here. Mr. Stubbs is a Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidate in Mackenzie riding, where a by-election will be held shortly.

Mr. King is living in the mists of the policies of the Victorian age in the 19th centry, the former judge told his audience, in referring to a recent address made by the Liberal Leader in Mackenzie constituency.

The only other occupant of the house was the Countess' mother, Mrs. Grace McClellan.

The Countess said: "My husband, George de Cavara, died shortly before the birth of our son, November 3, 1922. You will have to see my lawyer."

PIRATES LOOT ANOTHER SHIP

KIDNAP 3 FOR RANSOM.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 5 (AP)—While the National Government ministries of communications and the navy conducted a conference in Nanking yesterday on ways of combatting pirate hordes which have been pillaging China's coastal shipping, sea wolves added another Chinese ship to their long list of victims.

The steamer Yuishun, from Swatow in Southern China to Shanghai, was seized by pirates off Swatow, according to advices reaching the owners of the vessel here.

After the vessel had put out to sea the brigands overpowered the crew and forced the skipper to proceed into Bias Bay, pirates, stronghold south of Swatow, where the cargo and passengers were leisurely and thoroughly looted.

The invaders escaped laden with loot and taking with them three passengers they are holding for ransom.

WHOLE EUROPE READY FOR WAR

NEED NO MEN, ONLY CASH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (AP)—Henry Morganthau, Sr., United States delegate to the Geneva Wheat Conference and later an adviser at the London Economic Conference, returned on the liner Berengaria yesterday with the belief that Europe is on the brink of war.

"All European countries are conserving their resources," he said, "and the unwillingness on the part of some of them to go all the way in the matter of wheat curtailment is because of a feeling that they must prepare for war and in preparing for war they must have grains to tap and draw upon."

Under these circumstances, he said, the wheat agreements reached at Geneva were the best that could be accomplished. He himself, he added, was not satisfied with them.

"All Europe is ready for war," Morganthau said.

"The individual states would be self-contained.

"France is working tooth and nail to be self-contained and is offering a bonus on wheat.

"In Germany there will be war from within or without.

"Conditions are similar to what they were in 1913 all over Europe. All the countries are expending more for armament. All distrust each other.

"Europe will not look to us for man-power again, as she has all the men she wants; but one group or another would like financial alliance, in case of war."

HURRICANE HITS GULF OF TEXAS

FEARS INCREASE.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Aug. 5—A tropical hurricane of mounting intensity struck the lower Texas gulf last night, uprooting trees, taking roofs off buildings, blowing down electric lines and endangering lives.

The full force of the gale swept inland at Port Isabel, where a 75-mile-an-hour wind made travel unsafe because of flying signboards and other debris. As many residents as could sought shelter in a large brick building downtown.

Reports received just before communication was cut off indicated no one was injured.

Fears were felt for 27 persons marooned on Brazos Island, with no shelter and nothing to cling to but rocks and shrubs.

Eight other persons made their way safely to the mainland from Brazos Island last night, leaving the 27 others marooned as wind increased and waves lashed high in the van of the hurricane.

Braving the plunging channel between Brazos Island and Port Isabel, the party of eight waded to safety after a boat had been unable to reach them. The eight, including two women, were trapped in a low part of the island and risked wading ashore rather than wait for the gathering storm.

The Golden Text

I. John 4: 7—"Let us love one another for love is of God."

The Founding of Kingston

By J. H. MOSGROVE

THE dream of a mighty empire that would be New France, embracing all that westward country whose fringe they already knew slightly by exploration, dimly by tales that reached them concerning it, and still more vaguely by conjecture, dwelt in the minds of Frontenac and La Salle.

Westward it would extend along the great waterway into the unknown; southward it would sweep along the mysterious river, the Mississippi, whose source no one knew. But along these two great streams, the St. Lawrence and the Mississippi, the crafty and prudent governor hoped to shut the English and the Spanish into the narrow strip of seaboard plain that lay between the Alleghanies and the Atlantic coast. Manifestly the preliminary work of this vast empire would be the establishment of strongholds at strategic points on the great waterways to control traffic, to become supply depots and trading posts, and to serve as bases for aggressive expeditions.

Towards the latter part of June, 1673, Frontenac made all preparations to found the first post in this mighty undertaking. Knowing La Salle had already explored much of the region, he sent him on in advance to make a reconnaissance of the site for the new depot, as well as to conciliate the neighboring Iroquois, while he, in the meantime, began to muster men and canoes. As he had not adequate funds, and would not run the risk of waiting the result of an application to the king, which might prove unfavorable, he had recourse to the seigneurs settled on both sides of the St. Lawrence, whom he invited to form part of his retinue.

At Montreal he halted long enough to construct four gaily painted bateaux, which were portaged to the settlement of Lachine, from whence he set out at the head of a flotilla of 120 canoes carrying a martial force of 400 men, a contingent of Indians, and several bateaux laden with supplies and building material for the proposed fort.

Dipping their paddles into the stream, turned their bows against the current for the strange land. It was July, the hottest period of the year in New France, and the sun beating down with a torrid heat from a brassy sky never relented in its fierceness.

With faces straight ahead and heaving shoulders bent forward they forged the canoes ahead with every stroke of the paddle. On they went, often with a song on their lips, their faces and hands swollen from the bites of mosquitoes and flies. Pushing against the current, battling the rapids, grazing treacherous rocks bristling with hemlock and pine, wading waist deep along the shore, fighting the mighty surges of the long Sault, forging with maximum strength the heavily loaded bateaux against the sweep of maddened waters. Even Frontenac put his strength to the oars, standing knee-deep in the rushing stream to guide the cumbersome bateaux.

After ten days of arduous toil, Frontenac received a message from La Salle appointing as the place of meeting the mouth of Cataraqui creek. Days passed. The rains cleared. The sun shone, and the waters mirroring the blue of the sky gradually grew calmer. At length, in the pathway of the sunset there arose out of the horizon a maze of rocky, wooded islands, crowned with luxuriant foliage, reflecting its image in the swift-moving and lapping waters. Passing through this archipelago which seemed an impenetrable barrier to their progress the blue expanse of Lake Ontario came into view.

It was the morning of July 12, 1673. Not a ripple ruffled the waters, not a leaf moved. The world seemed newly made, keen, fresh, virgin. Yet not all the world was apparently still; for behind rock and thicket, screened by underbrush and grasses, a thousand eyes watched with a curious intent the strange movement upon the water. They were the Iroquois, come upon an invitation to meet "Ononthio" (Frontenac).

With bodies tense and faces sullen and proud, they watched the pageant draw out between the wooded islands in ordered regularity; stately in its progress. They saw them come with banners floating the breeze, the complement gay in colored regimentals dipping their paddles in unison to the staccatoed notes of trumpets which set the wild echoes flying.

Abbe D'Urfe, who had been sent on in advance to notify the assembled Indians of the near approach of the governor, hearing the flare of the bugles, pulled out from shore in a canoe accompanied by several chiefs to escort the expedition to the place of meeting.

Into a sequestered spot where the narrow stream of the Cataraqui, winding its way from a succession of lakes and creeks, forms a quiet bay cut-off from the broad bosoms of the vast lake, the strange flotilla made its way. As Frontenac stepped ashore arms grounded and trumpets blew. From every quarter the Indians came forth to meet them, looking on with characteristic passivity; the more venerable approaching to pay homage to the august "Ononthio," whose position and power La Salle had taken every opportunity to magnify. Notwithstanding the fatigue from the 14-day journey, Frontenac spent the afternoon exploring the vicinity, not returning till dusk. The French encampment was now completed, above the governor's tent the fleur-de-lis floated proudly, and martial music for the first time awoke the slumbering echoes.

In the grey dawn of the following morning the encampment awoke. Fires sprang up and a loud tumult arose as men, women and children busied themselves at their morning meal. At length there came a beating of drums and a double line of soldiers under arms formed a living lane from the governor's tent to the Indian lodges to impress the native deputies, who marched with a grave and dignified mien along the martial pathway to the place of conference—a spot, carpeted with sail-cloth, in front of Frontenac's tent.

Here the Indian envoys were duly presented to the governor and his suite, imposing in gold laces and gaudy uniforms. After the first salutations there followed a moment's silence, while the chiefs squatted on the canvas carpet smoking pipes with imperturbable gravity. The proceedings were opened by a speech of an Iroquois chief who welcomed Frontenac with profuse compliments. When he ceased, a great acclamation and tumult arose. Frontenac followed with a paternal speech cautioning them to be obedient to the majesty of France. Then followed a generous gift of tobacco, presentations of guns to the warriors, prunes and raisins to the women and children.

On July 19 the grand council convened, and after a repetition of the former ceremonious preliminaries, Frontenac, with cautious diplomacy, proceeded to the matter in hand, explaining, with many expressions of regard, that he was about to build a post in their midst at which they could barter their furs for things they required without being obliged to make the long and dangerous journey to Montreal and Quebec.

Three more days were passed in feasting and friendly intercourse before the Iroquois broke camp and departed. By the time some of them returned, the palisades were up and the barracks of rough logs were well on the way to completion; and when this second band left propitiated with gifts, Frontenac had established a garrison in this frontier post of Fort Frontenac.

The summer days were shortening when Frontenac with the remainder of his retinue retraced their course down the St. Lawrence. He had accomplished a dangerous mission without the loss of a single life, and at a cost of only 10,000 francs, advanced by himself on behalf of the king. He had procured from the Iroquois all the concessions he had asked for, and for 85 years the outpost of Fort Frontenac fulfilled its destined purpose as a bulwark of New France.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Religious and Social Questions Answered
By DR. WYLIE CLARK

Can you give me any explanation of why the Russian church seems to have failed so utterly?—R. C.

There is so much about the past and present of the Russian situation which is seen through a haze that one hesitates to speak with authority or conviction as to real causes and results. Twenty - five years from now Russian history will have to be re-written, in order that the world may know the cross and under currents which rearranged the destiny of a great people.

Dr. Wylie Clark

Evidently the church was in politics and strongly on the side of the Czar. The ritual and forms of worship were dying fires from which the sparks of spirituality had fled. A multitude were trying to find religious heat huddled about heaps of ashes long grown cold.

It is a question, if the Russian church at the time of the revolution deserved to be called a church. It was rather an organization supporting a political party whose head was the Czar. Its light of faith had gone out and no one had been found who was able to call for and to obtain a restoration.

When the Czar went it was the most natural thing that there was a demand made for the church also to go. To have left the church unmolested would have been folly for the new government.

The church which is merely the backer of a political party has no guarantee of continued power; when the party is defeated, the church has to go with it.

I believe that irreverence is the great sin of our age. How do you think it could be cured? —A. MacD.

You have a good foundation for your belief. Irreverence is very prevalent and it is devastating. Old and sacred things are lightly spoken about and profane feet trample them in the dust.

When the critical age began there was some speculation as to how far it would go and some hesitation as to its limits. It has gone to the utmost. Everything has been subjected to the most searching scrutiny. Everybody has been weighed in the balances and values have been set down and checked up.

For some time there was respect for the things which had been called sacred, but their day came—the Bible, the Church, Christ. God and all pertaining to religion were subjected to the same treatment.

Will we ever again be a reverent people? What will restore reverence? Yes, there will come a day when reverence will be supreme. That will be when we know the truth. Nothing but the truth about things will restore reverence.

No claim put forth, no half explanations, no hazy statements will satisfy the inquiring mind of the future; but when the truth is known it will assert itself and demand its own—that own will be the reverence of an intelligent people.

Will you be good enough to explain what is meant by the "Divine Intolerance of Christ?" —H. A. J.

Jesus spoke as one having authority. His authority was supreme and final. If He were the Christ He had to assume that position and maintain it. He could permit no other authority to be above or beyond His own. If He did, then He was not the truth and the life of God.

Truth may seem to be intolerant; but it can scarcely be otherwise. It can not say, "I think I am right." It must always say, "I am right."

This claim to the possession of absolute truth gives Jesus His unique place in the religions of the world. "Never man spake like this man," is the surety of His position among the leaders in divine revelation. He is the last word about God and there can be no other like Him.

What is really meant by the expression: "Ye must be born again."—M. D.

The natural birth liberates the child into all the possibilities of life in this world—These include growth, development, possession and all these may bring in their different combinations in the progress of the years.

The spiritual birth liberates the soul into the life of the Spirit of God, and makes it possible for the soul to live in righteousness and peace and joy, being always in the fellowship of Christ.

Both the natural and the spiritual births place us in a real life where the conditions are such that we may reach a maturity of usefulness and happiness.

Cathedral Musings

WHEN St. James urged his readers to be "doers of the word and not hearers only" he gave advice which would be echoed by every seeker of the truth. The practical everyday application of religion is not only a duty which we owe to our brethren, but is also necessary for the maintenance of our own well-being. No one can "know" the doctrine without "doing the works." The word "know" being used in the sense of the actual inward realization which alone counts, not in the sense of mere intellectual acceptance which is valueless. As Dean Inge said, "Christianity is a mode of life"; to make it solely a mode of belief is to make it no longer Christianity, but a mere superstition. The master object of all true religion is to render it easier for the God within us to manifest to the world that love, beauty and power which we inalienably are, however unworthy of this royal sonship our ordinary life may seem. Humanity flowers in wondrous beauty when the true man, the Son of God, within us, grips hold of our life, and shapes it to His ends. "When the inner becomes as the outer, and the outer as the inner, then is the Kingdom of Heaven at hand." — The Wisdom of the Rosicrucians," Prg.

The Book of Ruth

THE beautiful character who is the heroine of the Book of Ruth has not only named this book, but countless thousands of sweet girl babies through the ages. This is one of the choicest idyls of all literature; a love story that has fascinated millions and lost none of its charm through the centuries.

This story is a classic among the stories of lovers because it contains the elements of profound sorrow turned into great joy; of love overcoming prejudices; of noble self-sacrifice richly rewarded in both hero and heroine; of true love sanctified by religion; of marriage and a life happy ever afterwards; and just as the story closes we catch a glimpse of a baby's crib, and hear the sweet music of a babe's cooing, in whose veins is running the blood of Israel's greatest king, and of David's greater son, the Saviour of both Jew and Moabite.

A Classic Love Story.

The widowed Naomi and Ruth and the noble Boaz stand out in sharp contrast against the black background of the days of the Judges, whose bloody, immoral, idolatrous days, in which these noble souls lived in faith and faithfulness to God, and in love and purity before an evil generation.

So the story is a blow at pessimism, for even at its worst the world is not all bad. God always has His "thousands who have not bowed the knee to Baal." He never has been left without witnesses even though these be put as "a remnant."

Ruth's Loyalty.

For the expression of loyalty and devotion no human words have ever excelled these words of Ruth the Moabitess to Naomi the Jewess: "Entreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest I will go; and where thou lodgest I will lodge; they people shall be my people, and thy God my God." This is supreme devotion, love to the uttermost. But its secret is kinship in the things of the soul—"Thy God shall be my God."

The Book's Purpose.

The purpose of the book is evident in its closing note about Obed, the son born to Boas and Ruth, from whom sprang Jesse the father of David. Thus the gentile Ruth becomes one of the forbears, as to the flesh, of the Lord Jesus Christ, who obliterates all race and class distinctions. How strange it is that among the four women mentioned in the genealogy of Christ in the first chapter of Matthew, are included Rahab, the harlot; Bethesheba, the adulteress, and Ruth, the gentile.

Truly He is the Saviour of all. "Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool."

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

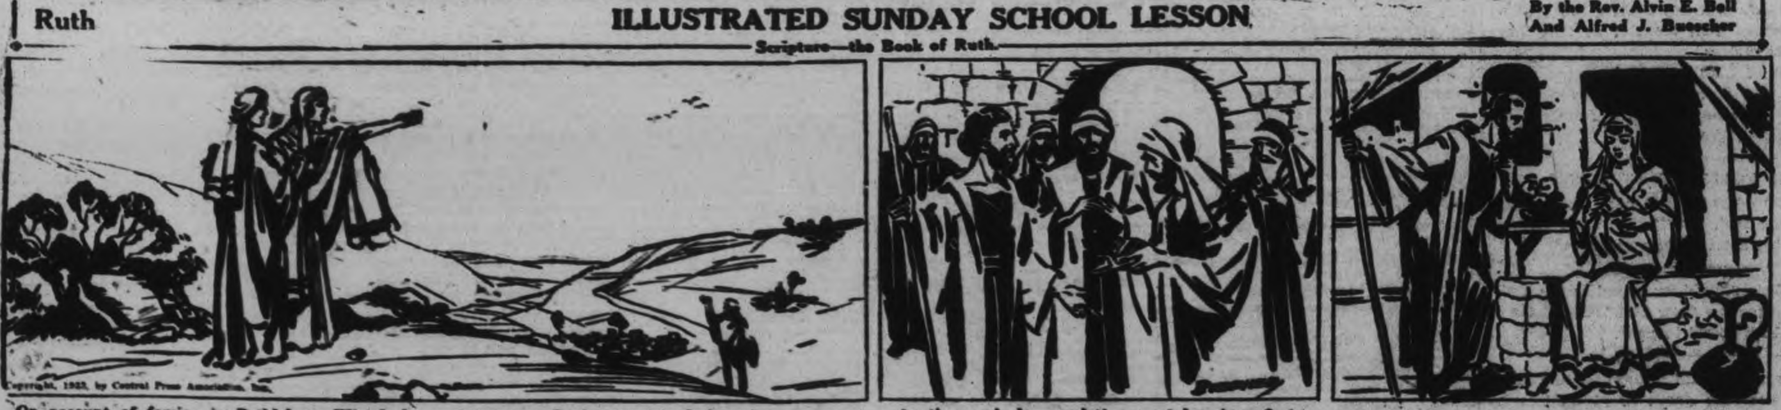
Ruth

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—the Book of Ruth.



Copyright, 1933, by Central Press Association, Inc.

On account of famine in Bethlehem, Elimelech and his wife, Naomi, moved to the land of Moab, where their two sons married Moabite girls named Ruth and Orpah. ¶ Then Naomi's husband and sons died and she decided to return to Bethlehem. ¶ Ruth refused to be separated from Naomi but Orpah bade her goodby forever.

Being poor, Ruth set out to find work to support Naomi and herself. It was harvest time and she went to the country and gathered up the grain missed by the reapers. ¶ The field she happened upon belonged to Boaz, a rich man and a relative of her husband. He fell in love with Ruth at first sight.

Another and closer relative must be given first chance to redeem the property of Ruth's dead husband. ¶ But when he learned that to do so he must marry this foreign girl he surrendered his right to Boaz by removing his shoe and giving it to Boaz in the city gate before ten elders of the city who witnessed the agreement.

Thus the way was opened for Boaz to take Ruth as his bride. ¶ To them was born a son named Obed from whom the great King David was descended, and still later Jesus. ¶ So Ruth, the Moabitess became an ancestress of Christ to show that Jesus belongs to all races.

AN UNOFFICIAL CIVIC AWARD.

If Civic Holiday were an occasion for distributing awards to citizens who had made notable contributions of service to the community during the year, Peterborough could prepare an honor list of admirable and encouraging proportions.

Members of various voluntary associations are quietly performing a great deal of good in their respective spheres of interest and action. Some of them have been long established, others have been more recently created to meet social problems growing out of the economic droop. To mention some of these groups and inadvertently overlook others in a hasty survey would be contrary to the civic sentiment of gratitude to citizens who desire to share in promoting the welfare of Peterborough and its people.

However, there should be unanimous acknowledgement of the work of the Relief Committee during the year and its efficient management of the securing and distribution of last winter's wood supply, apart from their supervision of detailed arrangements for other forms of relief. Another pleasing success among the duties performed by this body of citizens has been the garden plots campaign, and we venture to single out for special mention the public service rendered by A. B. Cunningham, chairman of that committee. And if there were some badge of merit awarded for the year's outstanding effort for the good of the community, we should recommend that it be presented to Mr. Cunningham. He has not spared himself in this task since the first signs of spring, and his kindly and inspiring manner has been a most pleasant feature of his relations with the citizens who undertook the gardening work.

Mr. Cunningham would be the first to pay tribute to the unfailing assistance of his committee associates, but we feel that they would be in entire agreement with our unofficial award.

THE C.C.F. AND FOREIGN TRADE.

A major promise of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation is expressed in their assertion that capitalism has reached the end of its tether and the present economic system is bankrupt.

Speaking at Keene last fall William Irvine, M.P., first lieutenant to the Rev. J. S. Woodsworth, M.P., expanded this theme with arguments that probably seemed convincing to the majority of his audience.

Briefly, Mr. Irvine said that the machine has been set up in almost all countries, the world is over-industrialized, nations are sellers to-day rather than buyers because of their modernized methods of mass production, and therefore export markets are closed on all sides.

And without export markets, according to this gloomy summary which Miss Agnes MacPhail supplemented, surplus products cannot be sold abroad, and the nation must perforce live to itself alone, its production geared to domestic consumption.

It is one thing to enunciate a problem, and another to prescribe a solution. Mr. Irvine suggested no remedy for the trade impasse which he reviewed, and it might have been logically inferred that the C.C.F. had no policy for securing foreign markets for our surplus products, many of them of the soil.

If a C.C.F. administration came into power in Canada holding such convictions as those expressed by Mr. Irvine and Miss MacPhail, how can the people expect an improvement of export business under leaders who believe that the day of foreign trade has passed? Employment and prosperity reached a high peak within the last decade when Canada's foreign trade mounted to one billion and a quarter dollars. Business and employment conditions in those years seemed normal, and plans of recovery should at least be aimed at the former volume of Canadian trade and the accompanying widespread employment.

But, what is to be expected from political and economic opinion, and presumably Mr. Irvine and Miss MacPhail have qualifications as economists as well as politicians that would undertake national administration in the conviction, as they stated at Keene, that there is no longer foreign demand for our products because the rest of the world has developed production to the stage of universal excess, and all the nations have become sellers only.

To remove any doubt about the C.C.F. view of export trade, the following quotation is taken from his address at Keene: "One reason why capitalism is doomed is that it can't exist without a foreign market and there are none. . . . When salesmen try to sell the surplus abroad they find there warehouses bulging like their own at home."

Nothing in the C.C.F. platform suggests a solution for this stalemate of trade, and any tendency of acceptance of the Irvine prospect of foreign markets holds no hope whatever of the restoration of Canadian business to its high tide of a few years ago. The implication in Mr. Irvine's statement was that no government can clear the obstructions from the channels of trade which have resulted from present-day efficiency and capacity of production.

C.C.F. leaders may unfold their own convictions and theories, but a host of Canadians experienced in a different political school and its trade achievements will not be attracted by the Irvine assertions that there are no markets in the world for our surplus products.

If our home market is all that is left to us we should be faced with the full reality of "Canada First" and nothing else, and higher tariffs to afford it the utmost protection. That is an obvious deduction from the Irvine idea, and, strangely enough, it swings far from the western trade ideals that have been demanding for years low tariffs at home and larger markets abroad.

A PLEA FOR THE TRENT CANAL.

If the Trent Canal is a commercial failure, as Hugh C. MacLean so positively asserts in the current issue of his magazine, "The Canadian," a large factor in that disappointment may surely be ascribed to the neglect of the Dominion Government in completing its western section.

The marine railway in the western section which serves as an expedient for the lock which should have been constructed in that reach is not conducive to easy and efficient navigation. It is an obstacle rather than a facility to the passage of vessels, and while the canal remains incomplete, it cannot be utterly condemned as having no future possibilities as a waterway between Lake Ontario and Georgian Bay.

Communities along the Trent, which are directly interested in it, have not pressed the Dominion Government for the construction of the remaining locks because of the excessive financial obligations incurred by the war. But, representations have been made to Ottawa from time to time calling attention to the frustration of the canal's potential advantages as long as the Severn barrier is left unopened.

For years the main hope of the Trent's advocates lay in the west with expectations of its use in the transportation of grain from Georgian Bay; but the new Welland Canal has materially changed that prospect. Latterly, inland vision has turned to the east and the plans for a deep sea waterway in the St. Lawrence. Assuming that this project will be proceeded with, the Trent seems to promise water connection from Lake Ontario to all the communities from Trenton westward, including Campbellford, Hastings, Peterborough, Lakefield, Bobcaygeon, Lindsay and other towns.

Toronto, of course, dreams of becoming virtually an ocean port; in fact, it is almost that now. A new day of expansion and greatness will dawn for the Queen City of Ontario when ocean-borne freight is unloaded directly at its docks, a local asset for which all the inland communities will have to pay tribute.

Mr. MacLean's strictures of the Trent in its present stage of suspended completion should bestir the towns and cities along the canal to demand of the Government a thorough survey of its future prospects before it is reduced in official estimation merely to a playground for tourists, as the chairman of the board of the Hugh C. MacLean Publications, Limited, proposes.

Mr. MacLean is moderate in his recommendations, for Agnes MacPhail cynically suggested that the canal be filled in and made a speedway for automobiles.

A large section of Central Ontario will undoubtedly support Mr. MacLean's recommendation that the western end of the canal be completed. Then we may expect the increase of watercraft, tourist and commercial that has been envisioned for years. Meanwhile we should endeavor to ascertain what possibilities the future holds from the port of Trenton.

This is a subject for the Chamber of Commerce to put near the top of their agenda for autumn consideration.

Toronto will not be the only lake port. There are other harbors on the north shore of Lake Ontario, and it is surely among the probabilities that Trenton will put forth claims which the Trent communities should be keen to support.

Peterborough may possess in the Trent an asset that may yet justify some of the expenditure which Mr. MacLean says was labelled out of the political pork barrel. What is needed is a perspective of the future based on the development of the St. Lawrence River. That is the very least the Federal Government should do together with the completion of the Severn section. Mr. MacLean recommends this work, but his article is unfair to the Trent in denouncing it offhand for a deficiency that prevents the commercial use for which it was conceived.

Obviously, the canal is being heavily discounted, before it is even finished, and if this trend of sentiment continues, and there have been recent evidences of it in the attitude of the Department of Railways and Canals, Peterborough and its neighbors should demand through their parliamentary and municipal representatives a survey of its possibilities before it is left to depreciate by an extension of official neglect.

SUMMER STORY FADES.

Peterborough people will breathe more easily since Chief Newhall exposed a young man's hoax that he had been murderously attacked after calling on a lady friend, comments the Stratford Beacon-Herald in satiric humor.

"No community would care to think it had in its midst a giantt of a man who was prowling around under cover of dark and plunging knives into young men who were on the way home from having paid a visit to the lady friend. If such were the case it would cause all young men to be very nervous, and it would also bring anxiety to the minds and hearts of the young ladies as well. They would fear that when parting with their boy friends late in the evening they might never see them again. It would also be bad for the homes where these young men live, for it is not pleasant to have young men lying stabbed on the front porch.

"A good enough summer story has been somewhat dismantled, but all things considered, we believe it is well that such is the case."

BACK TO LAND TO STAY.

President Roosevelt's executive order authorizing the expenditure of $25,000,000 provided for in the public works appropriation for subsistence homesteads is a step in the administration's effort to hasten the population movement from overcrowded industrial centres back to the land.

It is not likely that this nation ever again will see so great a migration from farms as it saw in past years of industrial expansion. The cities will flourish and will draw fresh blood continually from farming communities, but they will not deplete the population of entire counties and districts as they have done in some boom periods.

The thousands of families that have gone back to farms after a few or many years' absence find there no longer the isolation which formerly did much to repel them.—Chicago News.

♣ JILTED ♣

By Margaret Widdemer

INSTALMENT 22.

Nina's letter was perfectly cool, calm and unangered. She made no reference to her own earlier idea that Ethan had never ceased to love her since she broke her engagement; she congratulated Helen without a visible claw, suggested a New York boarding-school for the child, and ended by setting a date for having Ethan and Helen to dinner.

"I'm writing on the Paris," she finished, "and by the time you get this I'll be back in Kingsway. Telephone me and say you can both come. I'm having just the four of us; Ed Gaynor is the fourth."

Then she did feel it, just a little. For the fourth was a man who was known to everyone in Kingsway, by his own admission, to want to marry Nina. She wished to be armored.

"Like Patricia, I want to know what was in your letters," he greeted her. "You look very serious, dear. Anything I can help about? Is the little sister all right?"

"Oh, yes," Helen told him seriously. "But Nina's asking us to dinner!"

"Where—in France?"

"No—Kingsway! Next Tuesday evening."

"Why, that's all right," he said cheerfully. "Or don't you want to go—off Nina for any reason?"

Helen shook her head. She had never told Ethan what Nina had said; the calm taking-for-granted of Ethan's love with which Nina had sailed off. There was nothing for it but to smile and promise, and write telling Nina she'd go. She went slowly down the hall, thinking it all over.

And then Patricia called her, and she answered. They had planned to spend that afternoon upholstering chairs for the first floor of a doll's house in the grounds. It was a thrilling late discovery of Helen's, an adorable house big enough to crawl inside, with actual stairs.

They put on their wraps and went out through the sharp air. They crushed through the deep snow in their goloshes, laughing and snowballing each other. The mood persisted all the afternoon, after they were through taking the measurements for the house, and sitting before the fire in the long salon parlor.

Marietta had spread a sheet carefully down before the fire, having her suspicions of what glue and cretonne and cotton might do to the Ambusson carpet she loved more than its owners did. And in the center of the sheet Helen and Patricia sat, their hands very sticky with glue and their hair very full of cotton. The little wooden chairs they had found at a Philadelphia toyshop were set in two semicircles, one of upholstered ones, and one—there were only three left now—plain wood.

The fascination which making things has for most adults caught Ada Kingsway, who came in first. In spite of the danger of drafts, she dropped down, pinned her gray crepe de chine up over its slip, and began to tuck in difficult corners with her twisted, adroit hands, slim and long fingered like Ethan's.

It was so Ethan found them, entering last of all, after a long hunt for some mislaid papers.

"We'll never any of us have tea unless something drastic is done," he said, taking in the intense industry that prevailed among his womenfolk.

"Patricia, darling, go get three damp towels," said Mrs. Kingsway. "Ethan, you are the only one here with hands fit to touch anything. We are all glue from head to foot, even Luella. Could you pour the tea, do you think?"

Ethan, considering, thought he could, and went down on one knee beside Helen to do it. Patricia came back with the towels, and they all sat in a heap in the firelight among the little chairs and the scraps of cotton and cretonne.

They were all hungry, and were in danger of ruining the eight o'clock dinner which was fatally near.

Helen happened to glance down at the wrist-watch that sparkled in the firelight, and sprang up, finally.

"Good heavens! It's seven, and I must have dinner at home. I've only been there once this week."

"Oh, nonsense," said Mrs. Kingsway, and Patricia reached up and held Helen's skirt. Ethan, lying back on a couch he had pulled up, was laughing at them all, waiting till the persuasions of the others had failed before he tried.

"I came—to bring you home," she began and then her voice broke. She began to cry softly. Helen ran over to her.

"What is the matter, oh, what is it, Doris dear?"

"I'm just silly," Doris sobbed, burying her head in her arm against the door. "You all looked so happy, and you were laughing so, and I'm—I'm so tired of not being happy, that's all!"

Helen drew her out in the hall.

"I—I ought to go speak to Mrs. Kingsway," she sobbed.

"No, indeed. Mrs. Kingsway will understand."

Doris powdered her face and got hold of herself. The two girls, when Helen had put her wraps on and said a hurried word of explanation to the others, went out and drove hime in Doris' car.

"What is it really, Doris?" Helen said.

"Nina's back," Doris answered to the point.

"I know. I'm dining with her—we're dining with her—next Tuesday evening."

"I always thought she wanted Ethan," Doris said mysteriously. "You know there was a sort of belief that Ethan had never got over Nina, and she encouraged it, I think. Aren't you afraid to go have dinner there, Helen?"

"Nina won't put poison in my soup. You know"—Helen took comfort from this herself—"Nina isn't the emotional kind."

"I know all about her! She was so horrid to my poor Ronny."

"Where is Ronny now?" Helen asked, hoping to change the subject.

"He's been getting along all sorts of precarious ways. Half the time I haven't known where he was. He was in New York one while, digging on the subway. Then he tried to write, but he says editors are just like all the rest, bondslaves either to ideas or to people."

"I don't see that you and Ronny are any different, then," said Helen half impatiently. "If anybody ever was a bondslave to an idea it's Ronny Higginson."

"Well, but men never are reasonable," said Doris in a tired voice. "What I thought was—Helen, do try to make Nina give Ronny his money. You don't know how much depends on it."

"Was that what you wanted to tell me?"

"Yes—no—part of it. Oh, if Ronny would only have sense . . ."

"He still wants you to elope, and you still won't. Is that it?"

"Yes-s. And he's so unreasonable. He says if I loved him I'd risk starvation with him. And, oh, Helen, I'm so afraid. Aunt Louisa and father were talking about eloping and—and things like that—the other day. And they said any girl who did ought never to expect her people to have anything to do with her again."

"Perhaps it's better to wait till Ronny makes some money. Only try to make up your mind what you will do, and then don't be unhappy over it."

But Doris only looked up at her with big scared eyes and jumped back into her car and hurried down the street to her own dinner.

NEWS OF OUR OWN VILLAGE

The weather has been so dry in these parts that your scribe regrets to report the crop is burned up worst than the farmers is when you ask them how they like daylight saving.

Walt Peters, our demon weather shark, is all tuckered out from climbing up to the top of the Govt. thermometer to see where the mercury went during the hot wave.

Judge Sedgewick, brother of Jack Sedgewick, our local tobacconist, has been in the limelight lately, owing to Mitch Hepburn, the Grit leader in this fair province, taking a few verbal shots at him.

No more eagles has been reported in the village and fishing hereabouts has gone back to its usual humdrum braad, the boys venturing out now without much as a catapult to protect them against vicious birds and other similar insects.

Mon. next is our Civick Holiday and for the benefit of them that can take their baseball and leave it alone we mention that a bunch of birds called the Terriers from Toronto, west of here, will engage Mister K. Lee's lads at the Riverside orchard a.m. and p.m. A good time will likely be had by all but the Terriers.

Golfing is all the rage in the village at present and some of the lads from this great family journal has been out trying their luck with more damage being done to the course than the dry spell has caused. But what's a divot or 2 among friends, ask we. Stick at it lads, Rome wasn't built in a day, we add hopefully.

1 of our expert figurers estimates that the water Walt Stocker has put on the village parks since Dominion Day would provide Russia with enough baths to last until 2067, provided the time any Reds fell into water accidentally be not counted as a bath.

We want to be first to remind the customers that they is only about 114 shopping days before Christmas.

THE BROWSER.

THE BROWSER'S about to go away for a vacation, and it would never, never do to leave town and leave nothing to be published while he is away, because then people might discover how easy it is to get along without him.....And that would never do (for the Browser, that is)....So before he goes on a vacation he always writes a lot of stuff ahead of time—and a very hectic sort of business it is, too.... He sets down on paper scraps of information he has been saving, shreds of fact out of clippings and out of his eccentric memory, everything that comes into his mind and leaves it behind with his blessings....All sorts of things about everybody from Count Keyserling to Booth Tarkington.....

You know that Count Keyserling isn't a favorite of the Browser. He's too certain of the unerring accuracy of his intelligence and his instinct, too convinced of his superiority to other folk. It crops out even in that marvelous "Travel Diary of a Philosopher"....Booth Tarkington, on the other hand, has always loved to play harmless practical jokes...... Edmund Wilson, the critic, is a handsome devil.....

Edna St. Vincent Millay has yellow-green eyes.....So is F. Scott Fitzgerald handsome......D. H. Lawrence liked to do rough housework like washing dishes and scrubbing floors.....Joseph Hergesheimer tried to be a painter before he tried to be a writer.....William Faulkner HAS been a painter — a painter of houses......Carl Sandburg actually was apprenticed to a painter once.....

Knute Hamsun was a street car conductor, but of course, you know that.....George Meredith always was ashamed because his father was a tailor......But H. G. Wells doesn't mind if you know that his father was a professional cricket player and his mother a lady's maid.

Sinclair Lewis didn't do very well in school.....Maxim Gorki tried to kill himself when he was only 19. ....The other day the Browser read in a newspaper of a wandering boy of about 19 who took off his glasses and placed them very carefully by the roadside before he threw himself before a train, and he thought of that desperate young Gorki and wondered what was snuffed out when this vagabond boy killed himself.

He ran some sort of factory once and suddenly got up and walked out of it, and out of that town, and out of that way of living......Margaret Kennedy burned her first five novels.....Ernest Hemingway is only 35.....

Will James was kicked by a horse and had to quit cowboying to be a writer and artist.....W. H. ## ON THIS DATE

A DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

By Fred Williams

WHEN IRISH LICKED DUTCH.

ON THIS DATE in 1856 Port Credit, near Toronto, was the scene of a race riot. The Toronto and Hamilton railway was under construction. At that time, for some unstated reason, railway building was considered the exclusive prerogative of Irishmen; but there was a shortage of labor in and around Toronto, with the result that a number of Dutch and German navvies were imported from New York State.

From the moment of their arrival there was bad blood between the two factions. The Irish would not associate with the "dirty furriners"; they would not eat with them; they would not sleep with them. And so the contractors were put to the trouble and expense of establishing separate camps and cook houses and eating tents. When to all this was added an unusual dilatoriness on the part of the Irish, usually very keen to get on with their work and make records, the contractors decided that the time had come for drastic action. If the Irish navvies would not do the uusal share of a day's work their wages would be reduced, and forthwith notices were posted that they would be cut from five shillings and seven pence halfpenny a day to five shillings.

Then the fat was in the fire! The Irish downed tools, ceased work and declared by Saint Patrick and all the other saints of Ireland that divil a stroke of work would they do unless they got the old rate, to which was added a demand that the "de—d furriners" be got rid of. The "furriners" took the view that five shillings a day was pretty good pay and declared that they would do the work at that rate. Some of them started to their work the next morning after the cut in pay. No sooner had they begun than the Irish were up and at them, and for a good many hours there was the finest sort of fight.

The Irish were in the majority; they had the most of the picks; they were the stronger; and it was not long before they had the "furriners" cowed and ready to make a run for it. In the melee one Dutchman was killed and one Irishman and two Germans so badly wounded that they died from their injuries. Dozens of others on both side had their heads cracked or other minor injuries. Eventually the police, who had been called from Toronto, with the aid of a small military force, restored order but not until the contractors had agreed to get rid of the "furriners" and cancel the cut in wages.

The victory was all to the Irish. Some of them were hailed before magistrates and punished for starting the fighting, but what mattered that so long as the "scrap" had been a good one and had ended in victory?? Thereafter no contractor on railway construction even thought of employing "furriners" when Irish navvies were to be had, until in the course of time the Irish evolved from navvies into a higher strata and the foreigners secured the bulk of the railway work.

Character From Handwriting

By BLANCHE A. DRAPER

A Feature Conducted by Peterborough's Leading Handwriting Analyist for the Readers of The Examiner.

Jack Holmes,
Lakefield, Ontario.

The handwritng as delineated on your sample for analysis shows that you are temperamental and rather inclined to be analytical. You are one of the type who agrees to disagree on most subjects. You are so changeable that what suits you one day will 'rub you raw' the next. Could you not try to take up a hobby? Something that you really like to do. It would relieve you of a certain nervous tension which is apparent throughout your signature. You are generous enough, but the trouble is that you do not know when or how to give. You let your generosity lead you to extremes. Relative to business—I would suggest mechanical interests, for your hands are industrious, but no matter what you undertake, you will have to put a little more faith in your superiors, because your writing reflects a 'grudge' against authority. You may have been hurt deeply at some time or other in your life, by an older person and therefore cannot easily forgive or forget. Your capital 'H' shows constructive ability, so here's wishing you every success.

Jack Telford,
800 George Street, City.

The handwriting as portrayed on your sample for analysis delineates you as rather inclined to be a little erratic. You do things practically in a haphazard manner then wonder why they do not materialize in the manner in which you desired. It is no use rushing over projects then grumbling about unexpected results if you continue to act first and think afterwards However, you are 'easy-going' and friendly, and seem to have a humorous disposition, so you will not feel too badly hurt at what I have mentioned above. Really, these remarks of mine are honestly given, in the hope that they will 'spur' you on mentally because I know that you can be careful and successful if you really make an effort, can't you? The real you is generous and kind-hearted, but you are sensitive about your good deeds. You do not wish to let others know how many really good turns you do from day to day. You prefer to be termed 'Hail Fellow Well Met.' There is so much good in you that I feel I want to talk to you personally, but as it is I can only do the next best and advise you to interest yourself in a mechanical line, if possible, or physical culture.

Isabel R. Archibald,
Water Street, Peterborough, Ont.

The handwriting as described on your sample for analysis delineates you as a diligent, energetic person. You are artistic and fond of music. You can create many objects of charm. You should be able to design, either in millinery or dressmaking, but you are so versatile that many lines of endeavor could find suitable outlets in your life. For instance: You could undertake business with circumspectness and carry it out as though 'to the manner born.' Routine and detail should come as naturally to one of your type as eating and drinking. You are especially fond of good clothing, but pay particular attention to your shoes and hats. Certain colors appeal to your sense of the artistic and as you are a creature of moods, you should see to it that you wear only those colors which do appeal to you at those moody times. If you do this, I feel at liberty to say that you will find enjoyment wherever you go.

Mrs. Wilhelminia K. Loescher,
Burnham Street, Peterborough, Ont.

The handwriting as delineated on your sample for analysis reveals intelligence, benevolence, and genuine friendliness. It depicts the ability to impart knowledge. It reflects individual taste and discrimination. It shows keen discernments and honest endeavor at all times. It shows a pleasant disposition, and an agreeable personality. It shows that you are adaptable and thoughtful. The whole outline portrays genuine interest in every-day affairs and a whole-hearted appreciation of art in every form.

WEATHER PLAYS PART IN TREND

Winnipeg Wheat Futures Show Net Loss of 1 1-2 Cents for Week.

VIOLENT FLUCTUATIONS.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 5 (C.P.) — Weather, bugaboo of "bulls" and "bears" alike, was the chief influence in price trends on the Winnipeg grain market during the past six days and wheat futures prices, at the end of another week of violent fluctuations, show a net loss for the period of as much as 1½ cents.

October option, currently the chief delivery month, ended the week at 82 cents after having made a "high" of 89 cents, December at 84 and May 88⅝ cents, an all-round decline of 1⅛-⅝ cents. Prices rose and fell with bewildering rapidity throughout, though on a more subdued scale than the previous week.

Already severely damaged by weeks of searing heat and lack of moisture, the West's crops were further harmed by frost, as much as 12 degrees in some sections. Northern areas of the prairie provinces were chiefly affected, furnishing the "bull" forces with ammunition for their occasional forays to higher levels.

GRAIN PRICES ARE UNCHANGED

Winnipeg Trade Tracking Leadership From Liverpool Slips Into Doldrums.

Mostly Commission Order.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 5 (C.P.)—Lacking leadership from the Liverpool market which is on holiday, trading on the Winnipeg grain exchange was in the doldrums to-day. Prices scored small gains shortly after the opening but then slipped back a little to remain practically unchanged at midsession.

Operations were of a holiday character with most of the orders coming from commission houses. October was unchanged at 82, December ⅛c lower at 73⅞, and May unchanged at 88⅜ cents.

A small export business, reported worked late yesterday afternoon had no effect on the price trend and the early session to-day was dull and featureless. Reports of light showers in Saskatchewan and Alberta were disregarded by traders and at times the pit was almost deserted.

Winnipeg Quotations

Oats: Oct. ⅛c higher at 41⅝.
Barley: Oct. ⅜c higher at 51⅞.
Flax: Oct. ½c lower at 141½.
Rye: Oct. ⅛c lower at 56⅞.

POLICE SEEKING NEW PARTY HEAD

bombs from a Boston sporting goods store about a month ago. A letter recently sent to a Boston friend was the chief reason, however, for his being sought for questioning in connection with the New York Stock Exchange affair.

The letter, Donovan said, read:

"Sent a note to you at 40 West 9th Street but being very desirous of hitting you, send this also. Am coming to New York and want you to handle publicity as you did here in Boston but will be of a more spectacular sort. Can you get me a pass to N. Y. Stock Exchange, the Grain Pit or Curb?"

Officer were sent to Daniell's Somerville home, Mrs. Daniell said her husband was in New York but that she expected him back "to-night." A police guard awaited his arrival.

Donovan said the reference in Daniell's letter to handling publicity "as you did here in Boston" was to a "fake bomb" sent to Mayor James M. Curley of Boston some time ago.

Daniell is a Boston lawyer and a private in the Massachusetts National Guard. A native of Maine he received his degree from Harvard Law School in 1932. He is married and lives in Somerville.

Absent-Minded Doctor Leaves Car With Brother Doctor's Medical Kit

It is not only professors that are absent-minded, sometimes it is a doctor as was proved here yesterday afternoon.

Dr. D. W. Clark reported to police that his satchel, containing his medical kit, had been stolen from his car while he was shopping in a downtown store. Detectives and police immediately started scouting for the stolen satchel, working on the theory that the theft had been made by a dope addict.

Several hours later Dr. Clark informed police that his kit had not been stolen at all. He explained that he had driven a fellow doctor downtown and when his passenger alighted from the car, through force of habit, he had carried away the satchel.

That's not the end of the story, because as a result of police activity in trying to solve the supposed theft three transients were in police court to-day and were sentenced to ten days in jail. The trio, intoxicated on wine, were arrested along the river front when officers turned their search for the satchel that way.

TORONTO MARKETS HOLD FIRM DURING PAST WEEK'S TRADE

BOND MARKET STRONGER.

By ALEX PRINGLE
(Canadian Press Financial Writer)

TORONTO, Aug. 5.—The double holiday this week-end for Canadian stock markets and the Saturday holiday for the New York exchange fits in very well with the torpid condition of recent trading which seemed all set for a lay-off as soon as the bull market cracked two weeks ago.

While transactions on the industrial boards have been reduced to a dribble prices have held remarkably firm. The old traders' rule "Never sell a quiet market" is being wiwdely observed.

The close yesterday varied from the close of Friday, July 28 only ¼ for Brailian, ⅛ for C.P.R., nothing for Nickel 1 for Smelters, ½ for Imperial Oil and ⅛ for British American Oil.

An outstanding event of the week from the Canadian angle was the floating of a Dominion loan in London the first operation of the kind in 20 years. The rate obtained has already resulted in firming the Canadian bond market and is likely to have an influence on Canadian interest charges. United States financial papers see in the transaction the resumption by Great Britain of her old position as world lender, a role she abandoned on the outbreak of the Great War. In the same circles it is also regarded as a manifestation of the new Empire solidarity which the failure of the recent World Conference is credited with having fostered.

Blonde Gunwoman Sought by Police

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(A.P.)—A blonde gunwoman, whose two male companions shoot, stab and slug their way to freedom, to-day became the object of a city-wide police search.

The charge, if and when she is apprehended, will likely be murder.

He was shot to death yesterday when he tried to prevent the woman's escape by grasping her dress, while she and her two companions were about to flee in a motor car after an unsuccessful attempt to rob Hoch in his shop.

THREE HUMAN ALBINOS SOUGHT FOR SCIENTIFIC EXPERIMENTS

STARTLING RESULTS.

(Copyright 1933 by The C.P.

It hints of a day when the hypodermic needle may supplant the henna rinse; when the bald may grow luxuriant pompadours, and the gray head revert to the blond, the brunettee, or the titian hair of youth, maybe choose his own color.

A Maywood physician, already producing new hair on totally bald heads by glandular injections, has observed in two patients a restoration of natural color in hair that had turned white. The subjects had been receiving injections of a substance extracted from the anterior lobe of the sheep's pituitary gland.

"It is possible that the pituitary contains an element stimulating and controlling pigment?" the physician, Dr. B Norman Bengston, asked. Being a scientist, he did not answer his own question with glib predictions. He went on treating the two patients, and to seek proof that the pituitary gland exerts an influence on the color of hair, eyes, body, advertised today for three Albinoes.

If hypodermic injections of the anterior pituitary into the bodies of these colorless men supply them with color, Dr. Bengston believes he will have the proof establishing a new principle in medical practice. Until the experiment is finished, he is reluctant to prophesy.

When inquirers sought Dr. Bengston today to learn of his research, they found he had gone to Northern Wisconsin for a vacation, leaving to his associate, Dr. Paul Arnal, the task. They want no patients beyond the three Albinoes now sought.

"We have only enough material to treat three patients," he said.

The proposal was sent to the sumer White House from the advisory board of the industrial administration which include the spokesmen of industry and labor. Mr. Roosevelt issued the following statement:

GAS OVERCOMES YOUNG WOMAN

UNCONSCIOUS AN HOUR.

Overcome by carbon monoxide gas in a garage at her home, Mabel Patterson, daughter of E. G. Patterson, 463 Hunetr street, suffered a narrow escape from death yesterday. Although she lay in a state of unconsciousness for an hour after the accident, her condition was reported as favorable this morning.

Miss Patterson was preparing for a motor trip to Toronto at the time of the occurrance. Her father states that she had entered the garage from a cellarway entrance and started the engine of the car she was about to take out without opening the garage doors. She returned from the garage to the residence, leaving the motor running, in order to get some parcels and, on her return to the garage, apparently stumbled and stunned herself. It is thought that in a stunned condition she was overcome by the deathly gas which had collected during her absence.

Fearing a mishap and going to the garage to investigate, her nephew, Harold Patterson, discovered her lying unconscious on the garage floor an hour and a half later. He gave the alarm and she was carried from the building. Dr. A. Moir was summoned.

It is expected that she will be confined to her bed for several days before completely recovering from the effects of the poison gas. As a result of her fall, she is also suffering bruises about her head.

HEPBURN STICKS BY HIS CRITICISM

Criticized Sedgewick as a Commissioner, Not as a Judge.

RIGHT OF CITIZEN.

SIMCOE, Out., Aug. 5 —(C.P.) —"I want to ask this question — if Commissioner G. H. Sedgewick had given an unfavorable report on Hydro. Would Mr Bennett have placed him at the head of the tariff board at a salary of $12,000 and three days later increase it to $15,000," asked Mitchell F. Hepburn M.P., Ontario Liberal leader, in addressing electors of Simcoe last night.

Mr. Hepburn re-affirmed his right as a citizen to offer criticism of the findings of Mr Sedgewick as a commissioner and not as a judge.

He declared ministers of the Ontario Government had ignored pressing political questions by launching a personal attack on himself.

"If you want a new deal in Government, an overhauling of the cost of Government a cutting down of the number of cabinet ministers and deputies, and riddance from the boards and commission which you now have, with honest economic administration, give the Liberal party your mandate to represent you,' he said.

BYLONA WON. his third purse in the last three starts on Friday and looks good for a few more. This has developed into a distance plater of class. Attic Bird is a horse that is due for a winning performance very soon. He has been knocking at the door in his last three starts. Don't go sour on Wacket as he will come into his own one of these days. He is a real fast one up to one mile and also very consistent.

BROADWAY LIGHTS is enjoying a well earned rest. This hide has been campaigning steadily since January and has travelled from Florida to Maryland and then on to Canada. He won in the neighborhood of twenty-five races and will be good for a few more in the fall. Fair Bill is being tightened up in a few sprints but as we all know he is a distance horse, these sprint races are just for sweeney. When you see him in a mile or over then you will know he means business. And before we close don't miss Young Kitty in her very next start.

U.W.F. MEMBERSHIP DRIVE UNDER WAY

United Workers' Federation Requests Members to Pap Up Dues.

The United Workers' Federation have a new membership drive under way more for the purpose of getting dues paid up than of seeking new members, although that objective is also being put forward. The fee is only ten cents a month but some of the members find that even this small payment is not easily spared. About twenty men and women at last night's meeting expressed their appreciation of the assistance they had received through tre efforts of the president, C. W. Holland, and the executive.

Mr. Holland reported that the U.W.F. had not given up their appeal for relief in the case of a man who had resided in North Monaghan, went to England for a year, and returning to Peterborough on June 17, applied to the city for help. The local authorities decided that the township shou'd take care of this man, but Mr. Holland read a letter to E. A. Peck, M.P., from J. W. Ellis of Toronto, expressing the opinion that apparently the city should give this man assistance.

Mayor Denne and the Relief Board had taken the opposite view of this case.

"Personally Mayor Denne is a gentleman," Mr. Holland said, 'but in a case like this I think that in his position as Mayor he leaves himself open to criticism by the unemployed."

Two Convicts Given 6 Months Extra Time

Located Pheeney While Using Phone

A search which commenced last Tuesday morning, ended today, when C A. Pheeney, superintendent of the London Life Insurance Company, Toronto, was located at Bracebridge and learned of the sudden death of his wife which occurred while we was on a motoring vacation.

The combined effort of radio broadcast, telephone appeal, police, fire rangers and citizens generally had failed until this morning to reach Mr. Pheeney who was in blissful ignorance of the sad blow that had struck at the centre of his family circle.

He was located today, according to Herbert A. Wilson, traffic superintendent of the Bell Telephone Company here, when he called at a telephone office in Bracebridge to use a telephone.

Mr. Wilson stated that the local office had co-operated in the fullest extent during the past week to locate Mr. Pheeney. Operators had called every service station and holiday resort within miles, he said.

GRAVENHURST, Ont., Aug. 5.— (C.P.)—C. A Pheeney, superintendent of the London Life Insurance Company, Toronto, who has been sought widely while on a fishing trip since the sudden death of his wife, was found near here to-day.

Your Health

By DR LOGAN CLENDENING

During all the long period of the depression, medical students are among the few people who have had little interest in it. They have been so interested in acquiring knowledge of their subject. And fortunately the medical schools have suffered comparatively little from economic stringency.

In the Hall of Science at the Century of Progress, the layman who has not investigated the subject hitherto, will find graphically represented the different studies which the modern medical student has to go through before acquiring his degree.

The elementary sciences, physics, chemistry and mathematics, are explained in outline. Then the biologic science of botany and zoology. The work of a plant is shown, with water rising from the root to the leaf and nutritious material manufactured by the leaf flowing back into the stem and trunk. The principles of heredity—a good example is the Roosevelt family tree—a sturdy and distinguished stock, side by side with the tree of a family which, in spite of its opportunities, has always been steeped in poverty and crime.

These fundamental sciences, however, have to be studied before the student enters medical college. During his first year in medical school he studies anatomy, and many models in the Hall of Science illustrate anatomical microscopic structure of the body. Physiology and the action of drugs come in his second year, as do bacteriology, the science of germs and organisms causing infectious diseases, and pathology, the study of the appearance of disease in the body. In his third year, the study of methods of diagnosis, examination of the body, and its treatment, in the three great departments of medicine, surgery and obstetrics.

Later, the specialties of the eye, ear, nose and throat, skin, diseases of children orthopedic, rectal, urological surgery, diseases of the nervous system and of the mind, are taught by bedside teaching and work in the clinic.

Last, his year of interneship, where he comes in contact with patients more or less on his own responsibility.

The aspirant for the medical life should certainly visit the Hall of Science at the Century of Progress and get some idea of the long and arduous path that he must follow today before he is ready to practice, and decide whether he is capable of the strain of that long, hard grind.

THE KIBITZERS WRANGLED

Much of the comment of onlookers, and even of players, is mere surmise. It takes a real card player to judge close questions properly. The following hand was bid up to 6-Hearts, and doubled by East. The opening lead was the Q of spades. The declarer won with his Ace. South led his Ace of clubs, followed by a small one. West's J held the trick. West led back a spade, and the declarer fulfilled his small slam contract, by allowing dummy to ruff two clubs, while the declarer ruffed 2 spades. East blamed his partner for being deceived by the false carding in spades, claiming that almost any other lead would have defeated the contract. Let's see if this is true.

♥ J 7
♦ A J 8 6 2
♣ 8 5

♠ Q J 10 7
♥ 9 8
♦ K 10 5 3
♣ J 4 3

North
West East
South

♥ 6 5 2
♦ Q 9 4
♣ K Q 10 9

♠ A K
♥ A K Q 10 4 3
♣ A 7 6 2

Instead of leading back a spade, West might have led a diamond, which would have been too foolish to discuss, enabling the declarer to accomplish his cross-ruffing without an attempt to better conditions. West might have led back a club, but this lead would have enabled the declarer to continue his cross-ruffing, merely through permitting dummy to lead the spade, just as West was blamed for doing. If the comments did not mean that leading back either a diamond or a club, instead of a spade, would have saved fulfillment of contract, the wranglers must have meant that a return lead by West of a trump would have defeated South.

Try cutting down dummy's ability to trump clubs after declarer has won his first two tricks with the Ace of spades and the Ace of clubs, and West has won the third trick with his J of clubs. Lead West's 9 of hearts. Let the trick be won with the declarer's 10. Have South lead and trump his third club. This will take out dummy's last trump, leaving the declarer with a losing club, while East holds the K of clubs. South will gain entry to his own hand by leadir a spade from dummy. This will give the declarer 5 tricks out of the 6 tricks played thus far.

Tricks 7 through 10 will be won by trump leads, leaving the following 3 cards in each of the players' hands: Declarer, one trump, one club, one diamond; West, one good spade, K-10 of diamonds; Dummy, one losing spade, A-J of diamonds; East, Q-9 of diamonds; one top club. When the declarer leads his last trump he has a perfect squeeze. West must keep his good spade or dummy will win one spade and one diamond trick. If West keeps his spade he must unguard his K of diamonds. East must keep his top club or the declarer's 7 will win. Nothing can defeat the contract.

Just Between Us Women

A few days ago Quid Est wrote me and in her letter she said, "Some who have felt the heat have wondered how sun stroke or heat protration comes on and what to do."

• • • • • •

Then she went on to describe it and I thought it would be of interest to every reader, so I am printing her letter in the column to-day.

• • • • • •

Quid Est says: "So long as there is a good perspiration, there is little danger, but if perspiration suddenly stops, be warned. There may be chills up the back, nausea, headache, weakness, unconsciousness.

• • • • • •

• • • • • •

"Naturally, in the county, we have not all appliances, but cool and shade must be secured. Lie down with head slightly raised. For ordinary cases steady applications of cold water to forehead and wrists will reduce temperature.

• • • • • •

"Use good thick cloths and change cloths rapidly. They will heat very quickly and the hot cloths will heat the water, so fresh cold water must be used every time.

• • • • • •

"If there be ice, use it. Never on any account give alcohol in any form. If there be a bathtub, use it, too. If patient is unconscious, or does not respond to treatment, call a doctor, but keep up the treatment.

• • • • • •

• • • • • •

"Remember, too, you do not need to be out of doors in the sun to get heat prostration. If you are over tired and keep at some work when you feel almost unable to do it, you may succumb to heat in a room where there is no extra heat.

• • • • • •

"So much as possible exhausting work should be done in morning or evening hours. The fact that heat has lasted so long makes people weaker and less able to withstand it than earlier in the season.

• • • • • •

Household Hints

MENU HINTS

Veal Patties Ceramed Potatoes
Cabbage Salad Ice Cream Tarts
Tea

Today's Recipes

Veal Patties—One pound chopped veal, one-half pound chopped pork, one onion, minced; pepper, salt, celery salt, paprika, two tablespoons butter one-half cup tomato juice. Mix the veal and pork with the seasonings. Form into round cakes and brown on all sides in the butter. Add tomato juice, cover and cook until tender, about 15 minutes. Add more juice, if necessary.

Ice Cream Tarts—Ice cream pie, or ice cream tarts, are a form of dessert that will delight your family and guests. Bake pie or tart shells, until golden brown and crisp. Cool. Just before serving, fill with a well-frozen ice cream. Top with fresh strawberry jam. Cover over with a stiff egg meringue and brown the meringue quickly under the broiler or in a hot oven. Serve at once. Instead of the egg meringue, if you prefer, fold crushed sweetened raspberries into whipped cream and spread it over the ice cream.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Elderberry Custard

Strain juice from a quart can of elderberries, then mash the berries through a sieve, being careful not to get any seeds through. Add three eggs, separated, yolks beaten until creamy, whites beaten stiff. Add sugar to taste, also two tablespoons flour. Blend well and cook in double boiler until mixture coats the spoon, take off stove and cool. When cold add the beaten whites of eggs and serve. Be sure to keep stirring the custard while its cooking to insure a creamy mixture.

Cook several oven dishes at once.

STAMP CORNER

By M. A. BESSEY

Last week we covered the conventional methods of buying stamps, very briefly. If you have any further questions regarding this important part of stamp collecting, do not hesitate to write, and I will do my best to make things clear.

SELLING YOUR COLLECTION.

Although the collector is not selling stamps every day in the week, in the same way as a dealer, it is well that he have some idea of how to go about it, and what to expect. Many collectors have asked questions along this line.

So many persons are loathe to part with their stamps; by that I mean that they want to sell them, but do not want to let them out of their sight until they have received the money for them. The only way in which you may keep your stamps in your own possession until sold, is to take them, direct to the dealer yourself.

The conditions respecting the buying and selling of postage stamps are practically identical to those which apply to buying a car, which you would not buy without first seeing. You could spend hours writing out a very detailed description of your collection, and send it to one or more dealers, but you will find the answer is the same in all cases; the dealer must see the stamps before he can think of giving you any definite price for them, or even consider buying them at all.

Like Buying a Car.

The dealer must take many things into consideration before buying a collection or accumulation of stamps, some of the most important of which I will try to make clear to you.

First of all let us take the case of a non-collector finding a number of old stamps, that have lain in an old trunk up in the attic, for a number of years. The first thing that strikes the finder is that the stamps are very valuable because they are so old. Perhaps they are, but first of all, their value will depend not only on their age and scarcity, but on their condition.

If the stamps are unused, and in the course of time have become stuck together, either to the book they have been in, or to each other, they are not worth nearly so much as if they are still fresh looking and have the complete original gum still on the backs of them in perfect condition.

They may be damaged to some extent, which if it does not render them entirely worthless to a collector, reduces their value to a great extent.

Sending samples to a dealer very seldom will solve the problem, except in the case of selling used stamps by the hundred of a kind, or mixtures of current used issues which are usually sold at so much per hundred. To give both the buyer and the seller a square deal, it is necessary for the buyer to see the entire lot. Thus the buyer to see the entire lot can examine them all, and pay you full value.

Many collectors write to dealers stating that they have a collection of so many thousand stamps that they wish to sell, giving a short description of some of the stamps included. This does not tell the buyer anything. Referring to last week's article, I stated that it is possible to buy a packet of 1,000 different stamps for less than one dollar, and two thousand different for less than three dollars. One can hardly expect to sell such stamps to a dealer for far more than he can buy them wholesale.

Buyers Must Examine.

It quite often happens that in small collections up to five or six thousand varieties, the dealers buy the entire lot, but only to secure two or three hundred of the better stamps in the collection. The balance are quite often of the cheap packet variety and must be both bought and sold as such.

On the other hand, if your collection is more or less of a specialized type, and includes only good stamps, you will naturally be able to sell it for more, as it has cost you more. But still the buyer will require an opportunity to examine the stamps, before buying them.

I recommend the following procedure to those who have collections or accumulations of stamps they wish to dispose of.

First: Write to the dealer giving him a short description of what you have to offer. If he is interested, he will suggest that you send the stamps to him for examination.

Second: Upon being instructed to do so, send the stamps by registered mail or by express. If you are in touch with a reliable dealer, you need have no fear. Your stamps will be well taken care of while in his posesssion.

Third: If at all possible, state your lowest price on the stamps. Remember you are the seller, and it is just the same as in any other business, the seller must state his price. The buyer, if he does not care to pay that price, may make an offer.

BE BEAUTIFUL

By GLADYS GLAD

"Dear Miss Glad: I have very pretty eyes, but my lashes are not as long and thick as I'd like them to be. I once read in a magazine that vaseline mixed with certain scented oils was good for promoting eyelash growth, but I've forgotten the formula. Do you, by any chance, know it? LEONA."

I presume that the formula you are referring to is the one composed of oil of rosemary, oil of lavender and vaseline. To prepare this mixture, you simply combine 15 drops of the oil of romesary and 15 drops of the oil of lavender with 20 ounces of plain vaseline. This preparation is indeed helpful in promoting eyelash growth. But personally, I think that a bit of odorless castor oil, or simply plain vaseline, applied nightly to the lashes is just as effective in lengthening and thickening them as any of the more complicated mixtures.

* * *

"Dear Miss Glad: A friend of mine recently lost 32 pounds through following the reducing course in your 'New Figure' booklet. And when I think of her increased slenderness and youthfulness, I feel sure any advise that you give me is bound to be good. My problem, however, is dandruff. In that excellent 'Beauty Culture' booklet of yours, you give a formula for correcting dandruff. What I'd like to know is just how to use this mixture. You see, I want to be sure to use it properly, for I'm sure it will benefit me no end.

"BILLIE."

The best time to apply the sulphur and vaseline mixture is before retiring at night. Take a blunt-toothed comb and gently scratch your entire scalp with it, in order to loosen the accumulated dandruff. Then brush your hair briskly, to remove the dandruff flakes. Next, part your hair at close intervals, and rub a generous quantity of the mixture on your scalp at each parting. After your scalp has been entirely coveerd, massage the mixture on your scalp at each parting. After your scalp has been entirely covered, massage the mixture thorouhgly into it. Allow the mixture to remain on over night, or at least as long as you can. Then shampoo your hair with a bland soap, and take care that you remove every bit of the grease from it.

"Dear Miss Glad: I have a number of dark hairs on my upper lip, and have generally had them bleached in a beauty shop. Just at present, however, I cannot afford this, and would like to do the bleaching myself. Can you tell me what bleaching medium is used in the shops? "ELEANOR."

The peroxide and ammonia solution that I advocate for bleaching superfluous hair is also the medium used in most beauty shops. In the shops, however, a base is usually added to the solution to insure moisture for a longer period of time. This base is generally chalk of magnesia with two teaspoons of peroxide and half a teaspoon of ordinary household ammonia to form a smooth, even paste. Spread the paste over the hair to be bleached, and allow it to dry. Then remove it with cool water and a soft cloth. If your skin is very dry, you may find it advisable to apply a bit of cold cream after the paste is removed, to keep your skin supple.

The cold storage holdings in Canada on the 1st of July this year were Beef 6,883,269 lbs., as against a five-year ayerage of 8,009,306 lbs.; veal 1,313,219 lbs. (five-year average 1,688,806 lbs.), pork 37,014,776 lbs., (five year average 36,213,494); mutton and lamb 721,377 lbs. (five year average 1,270,944 lbs.)

Canon Cody Corrects Radium Statement

TORONTO, Aug. 5. (CP)—Rev. Canon H. J. Cody, president of the University of Toronto expressed surprise to-day on learning he had been represented as saying on his arrival last night at Montreal that the Belgian Radium Syndicate had donated $1,000,000 of radium to Toronto's new cancer centre.

Canon Cody denied having made any such statement and said his interviewer had misunderstood him. He told a reporter, he said, the Belgian syndicate would donate 20 grams, about $1,000,000 worth of radium to a new institute in Brussels, Belgium and that a London institution also might obtain some.

He did not discuss the radium situation in Ontario, Canon Cody maintained, because he had been in Europe so long he was out of touch with it.

LINDSAY TORIES CLEARING DECKS

Warden Bottum, Reeve Handley Mentioned as Candidates in Riding.

LAD BREAKS ARM.

LINDSAY, Aug. 5. (Examiner oCrrespondence).—M. J. O'Brien of Toronto, Provincial Conservative organizer, was in town this week and as a result of his visit the statement is being made in political circles that the party workers were advised that it would be advisable to clear the decks for action as a political contest was in the offing. Two names are prominently mentioned for the party standard bearer in the new riding of Victoria and Haliburton—Warden Roy Bottum, of Bobcaygeon and Reeve Handley, of Burnt River.

Lindsay is not among the seventy-three municipalities which will enjoy a Hydro rate cut, or one of the sixteen having their power rates ncreased. It was announced to-day that Lindsay has been favored with three reductions in the past five years, and power is now being sold at cost.

Robert Jenkins, aged six years son of Harold Jenkins, of Oakwood was taken to the Ross Hospital on Thurarday suffering from a broken arm. The accident occurred while the boy was playing with other children.

A prominent Lindsay resident passed away yesterday morning in the person of Mrs. W. Cairns. The deceased, whose maiden name was Catherine Mulvihill, was born in Prescott, and had been a resident of Lindsay for forty years. Her husband, who predeceased her twelve years ago, was identified with the C.N.R. She is survived by one daughter. Mrs. Cairns was at one time prominently identified with the Children's Aid Society and was a member of the Altar Society and Catholic Women's League in connection with St. Mary's church.

OUR CHAT

ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR AUG. 6.

I ONCE heard one of these wisecrackers say there are only seven original jokes in the world, and the mother-in-law joke is one of them. Well, how about Ruth and her mother-in-law? There's a beautiful story for you. The Bible makes the wise Alecks seem pretty piffling, doesn't it? There must have been something fine about Naomi to make Ruth leave home and friends and country to follow her mother-in-law. And I think the Bible picture is more often true than the joke column in this regard.

Seems to me that Ruth's whole life was a kind of gleaning. You know, tagging on behind the folks who were getting the harvest, and picking up what they left. Picking up the leavings of more fortunate folk. Here she was a young widow, no family left, while others had happy homes. Not very pleasant pickings in Moab. And not very much to hope for in going to Judah. A strange country, different customs and all that. But she had a loving heart, bless her, and she just kept tagging along, tagging along. And when they got to Judah, times were no better. Picking a few stalks up here and there, taking them home and rubbing them out at night to get a little food for herself and Naomi. Bet you Orpah was doing better back in Moab. But Ruth's loving heart kept her tagging along, picking up the leavings of others. Well, a loving heart goes all the way, a sad one tires in a mile. And in the end, Ruth's gleanings were better than other folks' harvests. Her loving heart won the love of Boaz, of old Naomi, of little Obed, her son, of all Bethlehem. And greatest of all, the love of all the Christian world, for David was her great-grandson and the Saviour Himself was descended from her. Yes, just living and loving, and tagging alone, that's Ruth.—Young Canada.

2,860 PERSONS ARE ON RELIEF

Board Recommends Purchase of Another 1,000 Cords of Wood.

HAVE BOUGHT 5,000.

Twelve new applicants were registered during July for relief, A. R. Metheral, Relief Officer, informed the Central Relief Board last night.

The total number of families receiving assistance last month was 636, as compared with 303; the number of individuals was 2,860, as against 1,382 during the corresponding month a year ago. Several special cases were discussed by the Board. The next meeting will be held on September 7.

Purchase of another thousand cords of hardwood was recommended to the City Council. Mr. Metheral estimated that, according to the present increase over last year's relief list, the requirements for next winter would be around 6,000 cords.

The Board has already purchased through the Council 5,000 cords, and a third piling yard has been opened on the city's waterfront dump below Simcoe Street. A. B. Cunningham remarked that people would hardly believe that last winter the relief wood supply would have extended from Smith Street to the Exhibition Grounds, piled ten feet high, with an overflow to fill the Market Square. He urged that the Board should carefully determine as near as possible the amount of wood that would be needed for the coming winter, and purchase enough to meet that requirement. It would probably prove costly, Mr. Cunningham said, if the 5,000 cords were insufficient, and the Board was forced into the market to buy any quantity at the regular retail price.

J. J. Duffus Co. Holds Place Of Honor

In the sale of new Pontiac automobiles J. J. Duffus Company, this city, leads the way. To date this year the zone average in this popular priced automobile class is 34 per cent, which means that out of every one hundred cars sold 34 were Pontiacs. However the J. J. Duffus Company have almost doubled this performance, selling 63.2 per cent.

This accounts for the fact that the New Pontiacs are so exceptionally numerous on the streets of Peterborough and the roads in this district. The Pontiac, a General Motors Product, is noted for its simplicity, beauty of design, economy, comfort, reliability and satisfaction, and so slowly does it depreciate that it is more than an automobile, it is a good investment.

"Carrying trade" is a phrase used in political economy and in commercial transactions to designate the commerce of different countries with each other.

Greek fire was an incendiary composition of asphalt, saltpeter, and sulphur, which was used by the Byzantine Greeks and which would burn on or under water.

GENE SARAZEN TO PLAY HERE

Peterborough Club Greens.

Two outstanding figures in the golfing world, Gene Sarazen and Joe Kirkwood, will be at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club August 16th for an exhibition match. These noted American professionals are at present touring Ontario and have sent word they would stop here on that date. It is the first time in the history of the local club that players of this high ranking have shown in Peterboro.

Sarazen last year won the British open and the United States Open Championships, the two biggest events known for golfers. Kirkwood, an Australia,n is rated one of the leading professional tournament players in America. He is noted for his trick shots and will give a demonstration of his skill while at the local links. Both these players will put on an exhibition 18-hole match with Peterborough golfers, and the course is open to the public that day. Further details will be announced later.

Sense and Nonsense

All Hollywood knows that Jack Gilbert wants to become a director. It has not heard until now, however, that he plans to get some practical experience by acting as honorary assistant to 'Kenneth MacKenna on 'Walls of Gold.' Paid $1,000,000 on his last contract at Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer, Jack serves on his new job without pay.

Jack Gilbert

He sits in with MacKenna on the preparation of the script, he reports on the set and watches the picture made step by step. By doing this, he hopes to get the director's slant in a way that was never possible when he worked before the camera.

The scene of Jack's novel apprenticeship will be the Fox Western Avenue studio — the same lot where he won his first success in "The Count of Monte Christo," "Cameo Kirby" and other silent films.

Fan mail—and there are bags of it—that comes to Chic Sale, America's foremost "rural" character actor, who has the lead in Columbia's "Dangerous Crossroads," differs from that of any other star. It comes from aged folk who want to congratulate him upon being so spry for his years. One recent missive from an admirer aged 85 said: "Good for you, Chic, you're showing them that there are still some of us old fellers that can keep up with the youngsters."

Strikes or not, studio life still has its lighter moments. On a beer-garden set for "Dancing Lady," Director Robert Leonard wanted to get a trick shot of the action between two foaming tankards.

Joan Crawford turned to Fred Astaire, flipped:

Walter Connolly and Alan Dinehart will also be seen in prominent characterizations. R. William Neill is directing. The story portrays the life and struggles of a beautiful white woman in the Matta Grosso country of the Brazilian wilderness.

Although only nineteen, Toshia has had a crowded career. She is Japanese, was born in Kyoto, the old capital of Japan and is the daughter of Dr. Toshia Ichioka, who now practices medicine in Los Angeles. Her 1st picture made her a Wampas Baby Star. Miss Mori studied dramatic expression with Ethel Griffiths, noted player and is also proficient at Russian ballet dancing.

Jabs and Jottings as Picked Up by an Examiner Reporter

LANDS 5½ POUND BASS.

Lawrie R. Mitchell, manager of the Peterborough Bus Company, gained the front ranks of fishermen yesterday when he landed a 5½ pound small-mouthed bass at Chemong Lake. Mr. Mitchell was casting and when he got the bass, after a big battle, into the boat, it was found there were no hooks in the fish's mouth. One hook was above its eye and another caught in its gill. It is thought that he pulled the hooks against the fish as it lay half-asleep near the surface.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

Two valuable steers, the property of John Darling, of the fourth line of Smith township, were killed in Emily township by a lightning bolt during the severe electric storm that swept this district. A half, owned by Gordon Fitzgerald, of Selwyn, was killed also in the storm.

Plenty of Produce On Farmers' Mart

The drought appeared to have had little or no effect on the quality and the quantity of produce that was offered on the farmers' produce market this morning. Fruit, vegetables, flowers, dairy and apiary produce were all there in abundance to say nothing of the products of the poultry farms.

Prices were being quoted as follows: Eggs, 17c dozen; chickens, 20c pound; tomatoes, 25c for 3½ pounds; beets, 3 bunches for a quarter; cabbage, 5c head; carrots, 3 bunches 25c; potatoes, 45c peck; green onions, 3 for 10c; honey, 5-pound tins, 60c; 10-pound tin, $100; raspberries, 11c pint; blackberries, 15c pint; green peas, 10 pint; butter, 25c pound.

C.G.E. LEADS ON HITS 14-5.

E.P.L. STANDING TO DATE

| Teams: | P. | W. | L. | P.C. | T.P. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| C. G. E. | 11 | 7 | 4 | .636 | 1 |
| Fosters | 10 | 5 | 5 | .500 | 2 |
| Cogs | 12 | 6 | 6 | .500 | 0 |
| Crescents | 11 | 4 | 7 | .364 | 1 |

C.G.E. assured themselves of a play-off berth in the E.P.L. last night at the Exhibition Grounds by trouncing Fosters, 8 to 1, before a fair-sized crowd of fans. The loss shoves Fosters back into a second-place tie with Cogs, and they must win one of their remaining two games to get into the play-offs with the Electrics. Last night's contest was one-sided, C.G.E. pounding the ball hard to pile up the score while Jack Barry held Fosters helpless with his pitching.

The slim C.G.E. righthander had another of his good nights and let Fosters down with five scattered hits as he fanned five and walked just one. Receiving good support, he was seldom in danger and crossed opposing batters up regularly by mixing his fast ball and hook. Jeff Hardill, on the other slab, was somewhat wild and not as effective as usual, a total of fourteen safe blows being garnered off his delivery. His support was quite wobbly, particularly the infield.

Leads at Bat

Nicholls got a triple and single in four to lead Fosters at bat, and Bert Bailey hit a neat double. Jack Hope and Saunders for C.G.E. each had three hits, Hollingsworth, Dallin and Corbett getting two safeties apiece. Hollingsworth hit a two-base clout. Hickey and Saunders went great for the winners defensively, while Johnston and Dallin also figured in some good fielding plays. Cadd, Bert Bailey and Hardill were the best of the losers. Each side had a double-play, starting in the outfield.

With one out in Fosters' first, Nicholls tripled, the outfielder misjudging it, but Nick died on third. B. Bailey's double in the fifth was wasted, and Fosters never threatened again till the seventh, when they scored one. Maudsley singling, stealing, going to third on an out and running in on another out. Nicholls and Hardill hit safely in the eighth but were left stranded.

Score in Second.

Frank Barrie's boys got on in the second, Johnston singling, pilfering second, going ahead on an out and scoring on an error. Two were tallied in the next on Hollingsworth's single which rolled through an outfielder for three bases, a steal and two more boots with Hatton's sacrifice. The Electrics broke out in the fourth to run in four on singles by Saunders and Hope Hollingsworth's double a hit batsman fielder's choice and an error. They got two hits in each of the fifth, sixth and eighth, however, without scoring. The last run came in the seventh, Barry getting on as Corbett, who had singled, was forced out, going up on an out, to third on a wild pitch and home on Hope's drive to centre.

Tigers Defeat Sox In Eleventh Frame

DETROIT, August 5. — "Hank" Greenberg, big first baseman, got a home run in the second inning and a long single in the eleventh to bat in all the runs by which Detroit defeated Chicago 3-2 yesterday in an overtime contest.

Vic Sorrell had much the better of Ted Lyons in the pitching argument, the Sox getting only six hits to ten for the Tigers.

Chicago got a run in the second when Bill Rogell threw the ball into the dugout trying to complete a double play. Then in the Tiger half Dojack was safe with two out when Webb juggled the ball. Greenberg chose that spot to pole out his circuit blow.

TORONTO DROPS DOUBLEHEADER TO BALTIMORE

Three Errors Pave Way For Birds' 5-4 Victory in Nightcap.

ALBANY WINS PAIR.

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Beaten off in their bid for the International League lead, the Rochester Red Wings to-day found their grip on second place had been shaved to a single percentage point by the Baltimore Orioles' rush to the top.

Beating the Toronto Maple Leafs in both ends of a double bill yesterday, the Orioles pushed their way into a virtual tie with the Red Wings who lost two games to Albany. Rochester holds the edge in percentage by virtue of having lost one game less than Baltimore.

Bears Hold 7-Game Lead

The pace-setting Newark club, in the meantime, beat the Montreal Royals and ran their lead to seven full games.

Southpaw Ralph Birkoffer held Baltimore to three hits but two of them were home runs by Julius Solters and Jim Stroner and the other was a triple by Solters. These extra base blows gave the Orioles a 5-2 victory. Baltimore pushed over one run in the seventh and last frame to win the second game 5-4.

Wings Bow to Albany

Rochester bowed to Albany by 3-2 in 10 innings and 13-4. Stanley Hack scored from second on an infield out to break up a pitching duel between Ray Prim and Sheriff Blake in the extra-inning opener. Al Shealy gave the Red Wings only four hits in the nightcap while the Senators clouted Bill McAffee for eight runs in the first inning, putting together three hits with five passes and three errors.

Newark out-slugged Montreal, 11-7, clouting three Royal pitchers for 16 hits of which Ray Schalk contributed four.

Jersey City made it three out of four from Buffalo by splitting a doubleheader. The Skeeters won the opener, 6-3 as Cy Slaelien, a rookie right-hander, limited the Bisons to seven hits. Gould held Jersey City to six hits in the nightcap which Buffalo won, 7-4.

STARS OF 1919 TO PLAY AGAIN

ON MONDAY, AUG. 7TH.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 5. — The greatest amateur baseball spectacle ever witnessed in this city will be held on Monday, Aug. 7, when the Belleville Nationals of 1933 will line up against the stars of other years, who are donning the uniforms and batting togs for what may be, to many of them, their last baseball game.

With such great amateur stars as Freddie Goyer, southpaw, of the Ontario champion 1919 Grand Trunks, of Belleville; Percy (Hoot) Gibson, star twirler for the 1922 Nationals, who won the Ontario championship; William (Peeny) Mills, dean of catchers in provincial baseball, and "Wicky" Ross, the best flychaser to grace a local diamond, on the line-up of the veterans, the youngsters of to-day are assured a battle all the way.

Their assignment will be made doubly difficult with the addition of Jack (Chief) Williams, the great Indian pitcher who starred for the Nationals in 1922 before turning professional. Special dispensation has been obtained from the O.B.A. to allow Williams to play just one more game in the amateur ranks.

Other members of the 1919 team who will be playing are: Joe Kelleher and Harry Whalen, pitchers; Walter Gerow, Allan Meagher, Jim (Cap) Smith, Vern Weir, Sammy Symons, Al Morden, Jack Casey and Scotty Knott, Jack (Crock) Williams, a member of the 1921 team, will also be in uniform, while Harry Pringle and William Thompson, at the helm of the 1919 club, are guiding the old-timers once again. Ed Thomas, veteran umpire of the league, will be in charge of the game, while Ken Colling, an arbitrater since 1921 and R. A. Elliott, of the O.B.A.A. will assist in the umpiring

The Railroaders used three hurlers, but the Leafs hammered out 22 hits. Free went the route for the Woolerites. C. A. Ruttan collected a pair of homers, while Redcliffe and Kidd each made one.

GIANTS CONNECT FOR 23 BINGLES AND 18-1 SCORE

BRAVES TAKE TWO.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr. Associated Press Sports Writer.)

The New York Giants, who were winning quite a reputation for themselves by holding the National League lead on pitching and very little else, have suddenly blossomed out as a team of hitters just at a time when a bit of extra punch may come in very handy to help them down the home stretch of the pennant race.

The Giants not only set up a season's record for scoring in their current series with the Phillies, but they duplicated Wednesday's 18-1 score yesterday.

The Giants piled up 23 hits in yesterday's game to make their totals for three games 58 hits and 42 runs.

In spite of the runaway victory, the Giants couldn't gain an inch on the second place Pittsburgh Pirates, who again found the trick of winning games in the ninth inning, and defeated St. Louis Cardinals 5-4.

After a flock of Cardinal errors in the seventh had tied the Bucs in the running and spoiled Burleigh Grimes' first mound appearance since he returned to the Cards, Pittsburgh put over the winning run in the ninth when Lloyd Waner singled, advanced on a passed ball, and came home on Pie Traynor's base hit.

The fifth place Boston Braves cut the Cardinals' margin to two games by taking a double-header from the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4-3 and 3-0, largely through the fine pitching of Ben Cantwell and Bob Smith.

STILL GOING

COPPER CLIFF.—The banana spider which caused a disturbance in a Copper Cliff store recently before it was captured and reportedly killed is not dead after all.

The glass jar containing the insect tarantula was moved into the sun's rays and when the owner, Syd Lineham, next took a look the spider was alive and kicking. To-day it feeds on a banana that was shoved into the jar.

STRANGLES ON TEETH

JOHNSBURG, N.Y.—Swallowing his false teeth when a horse he was hitching to a wagon swung about and hit him a blow in the stomach, Roy Coulter, 35, Johnsburg farmer, died of strangulation within a few minutes.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

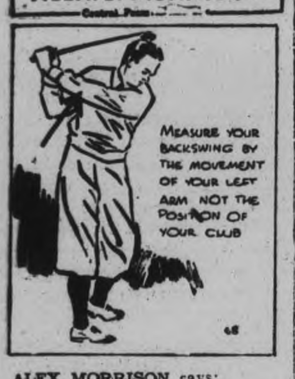
By ALEX. J. MORRISON



MEASURE YOUR BACKSWING BY THE MOVEMENT OF YOUR LEFT ARM NOT THE POSITION OF YOUR CLUB

ALEX MORRISON says:

"How far back should I take the club?" is the one question that most players ask when talking about their backswings.

They are under the impression that the club should be posed in a certain position relative to each shot played. Pretty much as though the position of the club alone could mean a correctly-made backswing.

It's the positions and movements of your body, arms and hands, that should receive all your attention during the backswing.

If you have performed the right movements you'll not only have the club in the proper position but you will also be ready to make a good downswing.

Next: Spin on Ball.

DOUBLEHEADER HERE HOLIDAY

Toronto Terriers to Meet Petes in Morning and Afternoon Games.

CHANCE FOR LEAD TIE.

Two good senior baseball games are assured local fans on Civic Holiday (Monday) in Stevenson Park, provided the weather is right. Toronto Terriers play the Petes two games, the morning one at 10.30 and the afternoon fixture at 3.00. The Terriers are still in the running for a playoff berth in the West Toronto League, and the Petes by winning Monday, if Kingston should lose twice to New Toronto, would finish their schedule in a tie for first place with the Ponies.

The Terriers were here May 24th for a game and lost by one run in a fine low-score game with the locals. They have been playing better ball since, but the Petes have also improved, so the game should be at least as good as that one earlier in the season. Both squads will be at full strength and two large crowds are expected to watch them do their stuff.

Knotty Lee will likely work Gene McCarthy in for at least part of the first game, while Kitchen, Deyell and Calladine are all available and will likely all see action in preparation for their C.O.B.L. play-off series with Kingston, starting Wednesday in the Limestone town. No announcement has been made as to who will do the Toronto club's hurling on the holiday. Both games should be well worth watching.

CANADIAN STAR BEATS DRANGA IN SEMI-FINAL

Murio Scores Straight-set Triumph to Qualify for Finals.

AT VANCOUVER COURTS.

VANCOUVER, Aug. 5. — Walter Martin, Toronto and Regina, and John Murio, San Francisco, last night earned the final bracket of Canadian tennis championships.

In the two semi-finals, Martin eliminated Mel Dragna, Seattle, 5-7, 8-6, 7-5, 6-4, and Murio eliminated Ossie Ryall, Vancouver, in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

The semi-final match between the two was almost a repetition of the British Columbia clay courts final, when Martin also scored a straight set triumph over the tall Vancouver star. The Hawaiian was far too steady for Ryall yesterday, as the pair indulged chiefly in base line play. Ossie took the first two games of the opening set, but Murio quickly squared matters and thereafter led throughout.

N. B. Boucher, of Vancouver, scored a gallant rally to defeat the erstwhile Davis Cup player, A. S. Milne of Vancouver, in the veteran's singles final. Milne won the first set at 6-4 and had three match points at 40-love on his own servcie when leading 5-4 in the second set. Boucher played desperately and determinedly, however, to win the game, and the second set at 7-5. He walked away with the final set without losing a game.

Junior Finals.

Wayne Sabin of Portland reached the final of the junior men's singles with a four-set win over the Alberta junior champion, Stan Hayden of Vancouver, formerly of Calgary. Sabin won the first two sets at 6-2, 6-3, but Hayden prolonged the match with a 8-1 win in the third. Sabin's stroking outclassed the Vancouver youngster in the fourth session, as he coasted to a 6-3 triumph.

Canada's third ranking woman player, Mary Campbell of Victoria, reached the singles final by defeating May Doeg of Santa Monica, 6-2, 6-3. The California junior led 3-1 in the first set, but wilted under the persistent driving of the veteran Victoria girl and never figured afterward.

The favored Gracyn Wheeler of San Francisco earned the right to oppose Miss Campbell in the final bracket by defeating Dorothy Bundy of Santa Monica, 6-1, 7-3. The result was sweet revenge for the tall, slim Frisco girl, who was defeated by Miss Bundy in the semi-final of the British Columbia championships at Victoria last week.

Big Six Averages

(By The Canadian Press)

Julius Solters of Baltimore is still at the top of the International League Big Six to-day as he strengthened his position in the double-header at Toronto yesterday by getting three hits in five tries while Ike Boone also advanced by getting three in six. The tie for sixth place remained unbroken. The batting leaders:

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Stoney Lake, Aug. 2.

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, I suppose the 1st thing is to make my report regards the musky fishing, which same a lotta folks, always ready to wise crack at the expense of others, is anxiously waiting. I ain't going to disappoint them, Mac, so right here and now I might just as well confess I ain't caught a 'lunge as yet, furthermore I ain't lost 1, I ain't seen 1 and I ain't heard of 1, which makes it a blank right across the board. No runs, no hits, no errors, so to speak. The youngsters has dragged in a few bass, so it ain't exactly a dead loss, and mebbe by next week the old touch will of come back and I'll be able to announce the grandfather of all the muskies has been yanked outa the deep. Anyway that's enough on the fishing for now.

As for the general situation here, Mac, they don't seem to be much to get excited about, except the costumes worn around up here old-timer makes the clothing business look like a poor risk. If getting sun tanned is a good thing, Mac, these folks oughta to be the healthiest people in the world, for when it comes to giving Old Sol a chance to get in his best licks they don't mess with it, believe me. I don't know how many of this bunch has been fooling round the stock market lately, but there is sure a lot of them has lost their shirts.

Well, enough for that. I suppose the big news in sport circles in the berg right now is the play-offs with the Kingston Ponies which gets under way next Wed. at Kingston and brings the 2 old rivals together in Peterborough next Sat. for the 2nd game. While the teams has been 50-50 in the matter of the 6 games played between them this season, each copping 3 at home and dropping 3 on the other fellow's ball yard, and while they have scored the same no. of runs and made the same no. of errors in the 6 battles, the Petes has made more hits by quite a margin, and that's pretty clear proof that the Lee gang's gunning brigade is better than the Pony heavers. As the throwers usually are the head men in a short series, I'm calling the Petes to throw the Kingston gang for a loss, especially as they won't hafta to beat both the Ponies and rotten umpiring at the same time. With the kinda officials that Kingston has trotted out this season it would be a different proposition, and I'm afraid the Petes would be left in behind the eight ball, but with efficient umpiring the Ponies will only get what they make, and if that had got no more than that a coupla of the games now in their win column woulda be shifted over.

I was tickled to death to see that the British tennis team copped the Davis mug—not that I got anything against the French, and you gotta hand it to Monsieur Cochet in particular for a gallant defence of the cup—but because them English players has had a tough road to travel, and like a well-known soft drink which I can't mention for fear the advt. dept. might object, they had to be good to get where they are. Next year Mr. Austin and Mr. Perry can sit at their ease and watch the other countries battle it out for the right to play in the finals. And that's something a English team ain't been able to do for a long 21 years.

Well, Mac, I think that's enough for a summer holiday afternoon, and so I'll drop the trusty lead pencil after the well-known signoff:

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

KEENE GIRLS TAKE LOPSIDED VICTORY

Rural Maidens Hold Record of 13 Wins and One Loss For Season.

The Keene Girls wound up the second half of the Girls' City District Loop schedule last night down at Keene, when they ran wild against the Brintons team to chalk up another lopsided score and win by a count of 17 to 4, thus going through the entire season with only one loss and thirteen wins.

The game was featured by brilliant base running on the part of the Rurals, who scampered around the sacks with abandon and also by a great showing of clever fielding by Grace McCarthy in centre field for the same team. Mary McCarthy, on the slab, had the hoodoo sign on most of the visitors, and chalked up another three-hit game. She whiffed six and walked five. Helen Nelson at short, and Dot Gainor behind the plate, both fielded in big league style.

Olive Prest twirled for the losers, pitching steady ball, but her opponents found her no mystery, and clouted out eighteen hits, M. Brown, H. Nelson and D. Gainor all securing triples. E. Hodson, Betty Martin and Madge MacFarlane all played smart ball in the field for the Carpet-Makers. Eileen White, catching, and her sister Marjorie, at third, both turned in splendid performances.

The teams:

Temperance Program At Warsaw Meeting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

WARSAW, August 5. — The United Church W.M.S. held its regular meeting in the S. S. room on Thursday afternoon with a good attendance when other things are considered.

In the absence of the president and the first vice-president, Mrs. David Miller led the opening exercises.

Mrs. Sargent took charge and a special W. M. S. Temperance program was given. Prayer was led by Mrs. Sargent. Mrs. R. Matthews recited. Mrs. Roland Payne and Mrs. Arthur Payne sang. Mrs. Percy Lloyd read "How the Train Killed Bertha." Mrs. Charles Foster sang. Mrs. Sargent read a splendid paper on Temperance, stressing that everyone, especially church members, are responsible for the evil of intemperance. Mrs. Uriah Payne read "Charged with Murder."

Mrs. Sargent made her program very interesting, and Mrs. Foster's singing delighted those present.

SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Baseball—Softball—Lacrosse
Soccer—Wrestling, and Others

(By C. J. P.)

All roads lead to Central school grounds this evening where the first game of the men's softball semi-finals is being played. It's a two-out-of-three series between Omemee and Harrison's, winner to meet Sugar Bowl in the finals. The tussle tonight starts sharp at 6.30 and a huge crowd is looked for. Doc McPhee's villagers will be at full strength and with their jaws sticking out with that determined look. It's' a case of "now or never" with both these teams, and the one copping this first tilt has a big edge. Harrison's are confident of a win, too.

Two senior ball games on the books for Monday, Civic Holiday. Toronto Terriers tangle with the Petes at 10.30 in the a.m. and again at 3.00 afternoon. They have an outside chance of getting into the West Toronto League playoffs and will make a mighty effort to win here, but Knotty Lee's hustlers, with the playoffs just a few days away, will be out there to trip 'em up twice if possible. Calladine, Deyell and McCarthy will likely all see service pitching for the Petes. We'll run the team's batting averages before the Kingston series.

Wanted: A number of young marksmen for team-shooting with the local Rangers Rifle Association. The officers are anxious to have more young fellows taking up rifle shooting so as to enter competitions in the winter. Those interested can get the dope from Jim McGraw ,Dave Clements or Bill Zeihr. Those last two, by the way, came fifth as a two-man team last winter shooting in the Dominion Small-bore Rifle Association competition, a country-wide affair. They got a great score of 394 out of a possible 400. And Bill Zeihr also knocked off a cup in a Canada-wide five-man competition for expert marksmanship, the Peterborough team finishing sixth! Anyone interested in target shooting can drop out to the Norwood Road Rifle Ranges any Wednesday evening at six. Free gun and ammunition.

An open tournament by the Ontario Golf Association is to be held here at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club August 26th—three weeks from to-day. Golfers throughout the district and further will be here as it's the first play of its kind to be staged on local links. It is to be an 18-hole medal competition, open to clubs affiliated with the Ontario body, the draw being made three or four days beforehand. There will be prizes for net and gross scores, and a few surprises may be announced in connection with the tourney later on.

Vern Beavis, Petes' rightfielder, is an integral part of the locals' speedy trio of gardeners, along with Burton and Foley. Vern is a lefthander but acts perfectly normal in every other respect. He is a fast man on the bases and steals second regularly. This speed afoot enables him to cover considerable territory in the outfield and practically everything that is wafted in the general direction of right field is labelled an "out" when Beavis is on the job. A steady batter, this youthful member of Knotty Lee's team, is clouting the ball around .350 now and should do plenty to Kingston pitchers in the playoffs.

• • • • • •

C.G.E. took a stranglehold on first place in the E.P.L. last night by slapping down Fosters, 8 to 1, thereby cinching themselves a place in the play-offs, which'll start in another week or so. Fosters have two more games to play, one on Tuesday night with Crescents and one of those games to get into the charmed circle. Crescents are looking through the bars — from the outside; and Cogs are sitting back on their hunkers waiting for a break, hoping and praying Fosters will take the count twice in a row.

• • • • • •

Jack Barry pitched another fine game for Electrics to let the other crew down with five hits, and almost scored a shutout. Jeff Harill proved duck-soup for C.G.E. last night and they clouted him hither, thither and yon. His support was terrible, too. Fosters can and should play better ball and if they do get into the play-offs and start dishing up the kind of ball they can, it'll be a real old series. The new team in the loop this year has several former seniors and a number of youthful stars. They've got the goods if they can just deliver it.

Louis Yeates, who is backing the local boxers now and giving them free use of his gym, will take these mitters to Lindsay Monday evening: Ned Minicola, Ray Hope, Norm McIlmoyle, Gord Chapman, Johnny Watson, Young Irish Jordan and Jerry Bogue. It promises to be a fine fight card in the Lindsay Armouries, and we know quite a few fans who will motor up through the evening. If we can get up there ourselves—it's been so long since we watched the boys throwing leather at each other. Louis may run a club here this winter.

Grab-bag: Understand Kingston is forfeiting its two games to New Toronto Monday, which will give us a first-place tie with them if we win to-day and Monday morning....But the Ponies should, and may, be thrown out of the C.O.B.L. next Spring for breaking faith with the W. Toronto loop....Local juvenile and bantam birth certificates must be turned in to Bill Prindible by Monday....Terrier Juveniles go to Oshawa next Saturday for the first of their semi-final O.B.A.A. playdown games....Crescents play Fosters in the E.P.L. Tuesday, while C.G.E. and Fosters meet Friday....We've a hunch there is another chapter yet to be written in that book called "Frank Shine's Travels and Experiences"....Rye's have arranged a flock of exhibition softball games through Ont. and even down to Hull, Quebec....Brinton lacrossers beat Selkirks, something or other to something or other, the other eve.

CHEMONG REGATTA NEXT WEDNESDAY

Twenty-five Events Are Scheduled For Big Regatta.

Twenty-five events are scheduled for the Chemong Regatta next Wednesday afternoon. The program will open with the three big sailing events, the dinghy sail for the Peterborough Canoe Challenge Cup, the canoe sail for the W. H. Bradburn Trophy, and the open sailing for the G. N. Gordon trophy, and close with a "bang and go back" outboard race, and a tilting tournament. A full list of swimming and canoe events fill out the program.

As in other years, the regatta will be staged in front of the Peterborough Canoe Company boat livery. The committee in charge includes J. K. Hughes, chairman; Roy Dixon secretary-treasurer; W. Gordon, A. C. Darling, G. Eastwood, G. Duffus, K. Duffus, E. Westbye, H. Shields, J. MacFarlane, D. Jopling, A. Wood and D. McPherson. The Judges will be Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., J. P. Strickland, M.P.P., W. J. Thompson, Dr. W. D Clarke, H. Wolff, Dr. Ray Scott, Dr. A. McNulty, G. A. Macdonald, Fred L. Roy, F. J. Overend, J. J. Duffus, P. P. Westbye, J. Dewart, R. Abbott and R. Dixon.

F. Jopling, James Matthews and J. McClennaghan will act as starters and Fred Hills as announcer.

According to this year's rules three entries will be required for every race. Cutting across in front of a contestant within a boat length will be considered a foul, and will disqualify the offender. No contestant will be awarded more than three prizes. Any contestant winning a prize in an open event is automatically barred from winning a prize in the corresponding event in the 16-year-old-and-under class.

Regatta prizes are to be presented at 8 o'clock in the evening at a special dance held in the Chemong Pavilion.

BEND OR NOT TO BEND

CHICAGO. — The Police Court Judge cleared his throat and said: "This seems to be a case of to bend or not to bend. We'll decide August 11."

He was speaking of the case of Homer B. Moyer. More than two score persons said his pretzel-bending machine made so much noise they couldn't sleep.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

Romance, daring revelations of inside stories, gripping drama, seething among strange people, combined with the superlative acting of a strong cast conmbine to make "I Cover the Waterfront," now showing at the Capitol here, remarkably fine entertainment.

A United Artists' production, the cast is headed by Claudette Colbert, Ben Lyon and Ernest Torrence. It is adapted from the book of the same name by Max Miller—a "best seller" now in its tenth edition.

Side splitting exploits of "Our Gang" in "Free Wheeling"—a short featuring the Pennsylvanians orchestra and the personal appearance of Gil Waldick in a presentation of songs new and old, go to make up a capital bill of real entertainment

WRIGHT, McMILLAN, RICARDS FAIL TO MAKE GRADE IN 61ST NATIONAL ASSOCIATION MEET

CLARK WINS HONORS.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (CP)—Powerful scullers from Canada, Joe Wright, Jr., and Bob McMillan from Toronto and Bob Richards of Winnipeg, had their competition cut short in the 61st annual regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen on Lake Michigan yesterday.

McMillen and Richards were eliminated from the singles and Wright and McMillen were ousted from further efforts to win the doubles trophy.

Richards, who made a belated 1,000-mile dash from Winnipeg to take part, proved no match for Al Vogt, Penn. A.C., Philadelphia. The latter won by two lengths in 5.28. Previously Vogt had eliminated McMillan handily in 5.27½. Bill Miller and McGreal of the Penn. A.C. were the conquerors of the Canadian doubles title aspirants.

Tommy Clark, tiny but mighty sculler from the Undine Barge Club, started the easterners off by winning his third national title in the 145-pound sculls without difficulty. He stroked into the lead at the start and at the finish had a margin of four lengths over Bob Cummings of the South End Rowing Club of San Francisco. His time was four minutes, 37 seconds for the three-quarters of a mile.

Scores Double Win

He came back only a short while later to stroke the Undines to triumph in the 145-pound quadruple sculls over the Lincoln Park boat club of Chicago, after a real struggle. The Chicago boat load held on until the final eighth of a mile when the Philadelphians pulled away to a lead of one and a quarter lengths in 4.46.4.

The other Philadelphia victory gave Al Vogt the right to meet Bill Miller, a teammate and the defending champion, for the single title to-day.

A powerful boat load from the San Francisco South End Rowing Club, which included three members of the 1932 eight-oared Olympic champions, gave an impressive demonstration in the four-oared shell with coxswain. The four westerners rowed the three-quarters of a mile as though pursued by pirates, to distance the South Side boat club of Quincy, Ill., in 4.49. Their margin was 10 good lengths.

The Lincoln Park boat club scored in the other event decided, the eight-oared shell championship. Rowing easily, the Chicago North Side crew defeated the North End rowing club of St. Louis, by one and three-quarter lengths, in the good time of 4.26.8.

An upset occurred in the 145-pound eight oared shells semi-final, when the West Side Rowing Club of Buffalo, N.Y., was eliminated by the Penn A.C. The Buffalo crew holds the Canadian championship, and was favored to defeat the strong Penn outfit.

THE STARS SAY . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, August 6

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE holds augury of much activity, commotion and stirring about, with the energies keyed to a high tension. It is probable that this may be instigated by or react vitally upon the private affairs, domestic, romantic or social, but all under the finest stimulus for progress and prosperity, if carefully handled.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of great activity and enterprise, with the faculties and forces all keyed up to fine initiative and talent for progress and prosperity. This may be involved with private affairs or be of strong reaction on the personal fortunes and associations. Be circumspect in all.

A child born on this day should be able, energetic, resourceful and progressive.

For Monday, August 7

MONDAY'S Astrological forecast is for uncertainty, perplexity and complications in the affairs—both private and business. In the home or personal relations there may be an element of keen anxiety, with either illness, peculiar situations or irregularity adding to business complications.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of rather peculiar factors for unrest, anxiety and worry in both home and business. Unusual, hidden or sinister situations menace peace of mind and thwart progress in affairs, although industry, patience and the favors of elders may prove compensatory. Safeguard funds.

A child born on this day may be inclined to be secretive, shrewd, sensitive and fond of the marvellous or occult.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 8

A very lively and interesting day is presaged from the astral forces dominating business and new enterprises especially in those projects involving writings, literary pursuits, advertising, promotion, as well as all constructive intellectual work. These may call for travel, change or unusual outlay of funds, but in the latter be careful to avoid extravagance or reckless outlay, personal excess or private indulgence.

Those whose birthday it is may have a very active year in business, writings, publishing or constructive enterprises, in which there may be demand for unusual or prodigal outlay or expense. But be careful in these as well as in personal extravagance or indugences on pleasure or hectic pastimes. A child born on this day will be brilliant, versatile, energetic, but fond of pleasure, travel and self-indulgence. It will be socially and popularly likeable.

PASSENGERS UNINJURED ACCIDENT NEAR HAVELOCK

HAVELOCK, August 5 (Examiner Correspondence). — On Tuesday evening, August 1, about midnight a car being driven at a high rate of speed going south on the Trent River Road at Old Havelock Corner near Wm. Griffith's residence left the road and crashed into two telephone poles, snapping them off close to the base. The crash awakened people living in the vicinity who dressed hurriedly and made their way to the scene of the accident. The car was able to proceed under its own power and the names of the occupants remain unknown.

On the same day (Tuesday) a large pine tree near the residence of John Scott was blown down during the storm which passed over the district, taking with it the telephone pole nearby. For a time the telephones in the neighborhood were out of commission, but were in working order the following day.

BOWLING NOTES

(By Herb Martin)

With the bowling season half over we still find that there is plenty of bowling to be done and many competitions to be completed On looking over the schedule for the next few weeks we notice that there is the completion of the "Leads and Seconds"; the finals in the club schedule; the elimination for rinks, doubles and singles in the Central Ontario play offs; the club singles and the club doubles; besides the Friday night's and many other tournaments between now and the end of the season.

However, if it stays nice weather, we have hopes of finishing everything on time.

Mn Monday, Civic Holiday, there will be a tournament commencing at 1.30 p.m. and judging by the interest shown it looks like a real old time "spiel."

On Wednesday afternoon there will be a mixed tournament, starting at 1.30 p.m. Draw will be made from the board and a small entrance fee will be charged.

Tuesday's Draw

Wood vs. Coleman, Sr.; Cairns vs. Howden; Chesler vs. Fitzpatrick; Dyer vs. Hendry; Sedgewick vs. J. T. Braund; Nicolls vs. R. Brown; Girven vs. Hooper; McMillan vs. Taylor; Bolam vs. Seymour; Long vs. Leslie.

Wednesday's Draw

Martin vs. Gimblett; Freeman vs. Routley; Mayneord vs. Wall; Cke vs. Cullen; Dunsford vs. Roche; Rutherford vs. Dr. Braund; Goodfellow vs. Graham; Benewith vs. Lush.

Another good crowd turned out last night to battle for the fruit. Some of the boys increased their standing by five points. This will make it more interesting from now on. The winners were: T. Donaldson, N. Routley, J. T. Braund, J. J. Howden.

Publicity Program Roosevelt Family

The Rashness of Farley, the Postmaster General, to Break Prohibition.

By H. W. L. MAHOOD

We are living in an age of flagrant publicity. Publicity is partly good. It is far from being all good. Over the radio, and in print, there is a publicity that is deceptive, and mendacious. The world is full of good things about which too much cannot be said. Extreme publicity has made ours a sifting age. The seive in the hands of the people is ever of finer mesh. Most of the people cannot be deceived much of the time. Self publicity is repulsive. Strength that comes of wisdom, and solidity of character is unassuming, and reticent, and meek.

The American people have become critical of the publicity methods of the President, and his family, and official household. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, their daughter, and oldest son are zealous political party publicity promoters. They make radio speeches.

The President's private secretary and confidential is Louis M. Howe. This close-to-the-President talks over the radio once a week. For this he is paid $1,000.00 for fifteen minutes. For this one publicity stunt the radio pays him $52,000 a year. Professor Raymond Moley is the President's confidential adviser. He has the latest news of interest to the newspapers. This Assistant Secretary of State the President has authorized to write once a week a syndicated review of the administration's activities. The American public has begun to ask how much Moley is paid for his syndicated weekly articles. Besides all this, a publicity director has been commissioned for each of the new administration organizations. The Farm Credit Administration has the best publicity to be found in the ranks of the Democratic Party. The Industrial Recovery and Public Works unit has secured a high priced engineer as its publicity director. Greater care was not taken by the President in the selection of his cabinet than he has taken in the selection of these publicity directors. The President to date has displayed more publicity activity than he has administration ability.

Evidently, two purposes are in the background of this publicity program. One is to help open the way for industrial activity. The other is to awaken a mood of expectancy in the mind of the people. But industrial recovery comes not by publicity. There are almost as many young men and old atramp, and going where they know not, as there have been, ever since the beginning of the depression.

James A. Farley, Postmaster General

In many ways James A. Farley is capable in his present governmental position. He is an energetic personality. He makes friends quickly. But he is as likely to make enemies by his methods as swiftly. He is a likeable fellow. But this one thing more must be said to do him justice. He is not as cautious as his position demands. That Farley or any other member of the Cabinet should use his position to break down Prohibition while it is in the Constitution of the United States is altogether unbecoming. There is a legal procedure to guide in the process of amendment or of repeal. At this writing Hon. Farley is attempting to coerce the Governors of Sovereign states to do as he orders. A most astounding instance of this pressure was employed upon Governor Lafoon of Kentucky. Lafoon, at the dictation of Farley, refused to call together in special session the State Legislature to vote upon the question of having a state-wide vote on repeal of the Prohibition Amendment. Lafoon told him with emphasis that there was no hurry about such an important matter. And that there were 36 states that would not express themselves on this issue this year.

The Kentucky Legislature does not meet in regular session before next January. The reluctance of Governor Lafoon did not please Farley. Immediately the Postmaster General sent Lafoon two telegrams. He demanded the calling of the legislature at once. He told Lafoon what to write in his call for the legislature to meet in special session. To make it plain that the one purpose was to hasten action on repeal. Then he went on to tell Lafoon that he must use his influence to that end that Kentucky vote for repeal without delay, so that the Eighteenth Amendment be repealed this year. Governor Lafoon smiled and went his way.

BETWEEN BOOK ENDS

ANTHONY ADVERSE—by Hervey Allen, 1933.

Little wonder that ANTHONY ADVERSE has immediately sprung into the ranks of the best sellers. Here is just the sort of novel that those readers (and don't most of us?) who enjoy a picturesque yarn for the yarns sake have been starving for.

It is vigorous, vivid; a convincing reconstruction of times past, based apparently upon a wealth of knowledge and imaginative sympathy. Furthermore, it was written skillfully by a man already well-known in the literary field as a fine poet and a biographer whose life of Edgar Allen Poe is one of the outstanding studies on its subject.

Hervey Allen has composed a magnificent adventure story. It opens with all the fire and thrills of a Dumas romance. Here is a real hero—not a mere hero—strong, handsome, irresistable, a gentleman, a scholar, witty, intelligent, who can navigate a clipper ship or a convent wall with equal ease. And here is a villain—old, scheming, satanic, revengeful. And here are those desirably simple women the male imagination has always hungered after—Angela, the ideal; Neleta, the voluptuous black Circe; Dolores, the passionate aristocratic senorita (complete with fan, mantilla and patios). Here are abandoned foundlings, duels to the death, storm-tossed slave ships; love at first sight; a dozen assorted coincidences, philosophical interludes, beneficent wills, Napoleanic intrigues and enough dire acts of God and Nature to plunge Lloyd's into the most hopeless bankruptcy. In fact, Hervey Allen has written the ten best novels ever placed between two covers.

We are excited about this book because, although we are only at page 964—it has 1,200, being originally designed as three volumes—it seems to us to be unique in these last two decades and to have qualities which should keep it alive for many a year. Someone has prophesied that it will become the "Ben-Hur" of the next generation. We like to think so. "One of the greatest and most exciting works of its kind ever produced in America" the publishers claim. And for once they are somewhere near the truth. ANTHONY ADVERSE in its ripe and abundant romance gives rich evidence of the four years' work which its poet-author put into it. It is 1,200 pages of genuine pleasure.

Fanfares of trumpets—here's a new P. W. Wodehouse book, HEAVY WEATHER! being the story of Ronnie Fish, Sue Brown and the Empress of Blandings, Lord Elsworth's prize pig, in a new muddle of rocky romance and missing memmoirs. No need to elaborate on this, of course, for you either find Plum Wodehouse your meat or you probably revel in Anthony Trollope.

This new volume has all the spontaneousness and bewildering prose of its predecessors—such metaphors abound as "Keep surging around him like glue"—such use of the anticlimax as "I have only two things to say to you, Lord Tilbury. One is that you have ruined a man's life. The other is Pip-pip."

STRANGER'S RETURN—by Phil Stong, 1933.

Mr. Stong can be counted on to write an entertaining tale, brief, compact and economical of incident. You may remember that you could actually smell the odor of hamburgers, midways, live-stock and people in his recent "State Fair." This new novel, STRANGER'S RETURN, is also unfolded against a rural Iowan background, a rather unbelievable background of bursting granaries, lavish meals, and comfortable living.

The story is not original. The daughter of the prodigal son returns to the family homestead, where profane old Grandpa leads his own lusty life, despite the hangers-on who await his death and their inheritance. Louise, the prodigal's daughter, coming from New York, runs foul of these waiters. However, she becomes the pride of the old man and finds two strong allies in a young handsome neighboring farmer who quotes Walt Whitman, and a taciturn young reprobate working under Grandpa. Love and intrigue follow. The ending has an unusual twicst.

Grandpa Storr is the one outstanding figure in this volume, a full-flavored personality, shrewd and wise. The first morning he strides into the dining-room and, seizing his bowl of patent cereal, blasphemously hurls it to the chickens, and then cooks himself some ham and eggs, despite the protests of his family. The heroine and hero are slightly thin But the book as a whole has the freshness and vivacity which made "State Fair" delightful. There is humor and sometimes hilarity, and much good journalistic writing. Another fair bit of summer reading.

Our largest lending library reports these books as being most in demand during the month of July.

WILLIAM SMITH DIES SUDDENLY

Was Prominent in Masonic, Militia and Civic Circles of Campbellford and Keen Sportsman.

FUNERAL ON MONDAY.

CAMPBELLFOSD, Aug. 5 (By Examiner Staff Correspondent).—Prominent citizen of Campbellford and one who took an active interest in public affairs, Charles William Smith, died suddenly yesterday afternoon of acute indigestion while at his brother's cottage at Crow Bay. Leaving in the morning to spend the day up the river, the attack came about four o'clock in the afternoon, and despite artificial respiration and medical care, which was immedately called, he passed away about a half an hour after the seizure. Apparently in good health up to the time of his sudden illness Mr. Smith attended the movies with his family on Thursday evening, and was in excellent spirits. His death came as a great shock to the community in which he was well known and respected and of which he was a valued citizen.

Born in Warkworth 63 years ago the late Mr. Smith was connected in early life with his father, the late Charles Smith, in the operation of the Campbellford flour mill later being connected with the flour and feed business in Belleville. He later carried on the business of motor mechanic in Campbellford.

The late Mr. Smith was prominent in Masonic circles, being a member of Warkworth and Golden Rule (Campbellford) Lodges A.F. and A.M. and Warkworth Chapter R.A.M. For seventeen years a member of the Campbellford Water and Light Commission Board, he held the office of chairman for several terms, and in this branch of the town's industry he took a keen interest and active part.

He was also for many years a member of the Canadian Militia being for the past thirty years a member of the Northumberland Regimental Band, of which he was acting bandmaster. A keen sportsman, he was a hunter and trapper of note, and featured fishing as one of his favorite pastimes. In religion he was an Anglican being a member of Christ Church and in politics, a staunch Liberal.

Surviving are his wife and two sons, Charles and Gordon McKenie; and one brother, Frederick of Campbellford. The funeral will be held at the family residence Tice street, Campbellford, at 2.39 p.m. (S.T.) Monday afternoon. Interment being made in the family plot at Warkworth. The Rev. T H. Floyd, rector of Christ Church will officiate.

STRATOSPHERE BALLOON FLIGHT

Spectacular Take Off

Settle's departure from the field was spectacular. Thousands who had waited six hours and more during the tedious inflation process cheered as the Union Jack and the American flag were unfurled atop the gondola by Admiral Walt. T. Cluverius.

One by one the long ropes which had held the bag in place while it was being inflated were dropped. Leaving only those ropes attached directly to the gondola as anchor. Settle inspected the tiny sphere minutely, pulling ropes, flashing his electric light inside and conferring with his advisers.

Then the crowd was quieted, when the faulty upper valve was tested. Officials hoped to hear the hissing escape of the gas.

Apparently the test was satisfactory, but it was this valve which only a few moments later caused the descent.

In the final minutes before takeoff Settle, leaning from the porthole of his gondola, shook hands with the various officials clustered about the balloon. He leaned far out to embrace his wife who wished him luck. Two bounces into the air as the balloon strained at its ropes, and then the command "ship-up."

The commander's wife was among the first to reach his side and kissed him repeatedly, joyful he had escaped unscathed.

Valve Stays Open.

"I arose to an altitude of about 5,000 feet," the commander said, "and opened a valve to level off. I wished to stay at that height for a while. The valve, however, stuck, and the balloon started down. I started to ballast out, but the balloon continued its descent and could not be righted."

He had not known of the flight until the big balloon almost landed on top of him. He said:

"I didn't know whether the world was coming to an end or not—but I stopped all trains anyway."

First to reach the fallen balloon was David Cohen, a cab driver. He said Commander Settle's first words, as he popped his head out of the gondola, were:

"I'm okay. Call my wife."

He then excitedly waved away the first to arrive, shouting: "Get those cigarettes away. Keep all fire away."

Three railroad men grabbed ropes and tied the balloon to the [illegible]

BY-ELECTIONS BEEN PUT OFF

He had been asked whether he would run in Rosthern or Prince Albert at the next election, Mr. King continued. His answer was that the people must decide. The people must make the choice, and until the conventions were held, he would not know where he was going to run.

Stand for Reciprocity

"I do not need to change anything I have said in regard to policies I stood for," said the Liberal Leader, in a brief reference to the fact he had gone down to defeat in the Reciprocity Campaign of 1911. Whatever Mr. Bennett might say now, the Liberal Party had always stood and stood now for reciprocal trade, especially with the United States.

Mr. Bennett came in. He's had his chance. What has he done?" continued Mr. King. As far as he could see, things were much worse than when Mr. Bennett assumed office.

"I do not blame Mr. Bennett for the depression," he said, "but I do blame his promises for defeating a Liberal administration which was doing good work and under which the country was prosperous." The Government had imposed prohibitive tariffs, the Liberal leader said.

"No wonder there are Conservatives to-day who supported Borden and Meighen, but who say they cannot support Bennett," he declared. "The policies of the Bennett Government are different from those which have been held by any other Tory Government."

Mr. King asked the audience to consider the program of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation and analyze it. How did the new party propose to accomplish what it promised. It was promising things which were far more extravagant than anything promised by Mr. Bennett. And Mr. Bennett had a [illegible]—high tariffs. It had not worked, but it was a method.

The C.C.F. had not even got a method.

Campbellford Wins From Indians 8-2

CAMPBELLFORD, August 5 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — A walk-away for the Campbellford club featured the East Northumberland Baseball League fixture played at Alderville, when the Hometowners took the long end of an 8-2 score from the entertainers in a game that was theirs from the pitch of the first ball. Counting one run in the first innings, the Indians played six blank frames, while the Campbellford outfit pulled seven runs, clinching the eights in the last innings.

Unable to stand up against Richardson, who played a fine game in the Campbellford box and registered ten strike-outs, the Indian batting average was lowered considerably, although Simpson pitching for them did good work. The Hometowners, however played tight infielding and held the game down.

The teams:

Alderville—Beaver, lf; Loukes, 2b; Marsden, 1b; A. Loukes, cf; Smoke, 2b; B. Simpson, c; F. Simpson, p; A Marsden, rf; W. Smoke, ss

Score by innings:

| | |
|---|---|
| Alderville | 100 000 010—2 |
